SCORES DROWN OFF VANCOUVER COAST.

The Valencia From San Francisco, on Notorious Seabird Rocks.

Meager Information Reaches Victoria of Fearful Disaster Due to Combination of Thick Fog, Terrific Gale and Great Current of Pacific There Which Sweeps Toward Treacherous Rocks Which Line Coast.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VICTORIA (B. C.) Jan. 23.—With ninety-four passengers and a crew of about sixty, the steamer Valencia went ashore about ten miles east of Cape Beale, in a thick fog, about 12 o'clock last night. She is on the rocks against a high cliff and is likely to go to pieces at any time.

One boat's crew of six men reached Cape Beale about 3 p.m. today. The survivors say that a great number were drowned in trying to leave the ship. The lighthouse keeper at Cape Beale says between fifty and sixty were drowned.

The news of the disaster on the Vancouver Island coast is meager, being confined to the message received by Capt. Gaudin, Agent of Marine, from Lighthouse Keeper Paterson at Cape Beale, saying:

"Steamer wrecked between here and Cloose; about one hundred drowned; nine reached telegraph hut; will wire more particulars as soon as possible."

Nine men got ashore about fifteen miles from here. Two men are prisoners on the face of the cliff and cannot get up or back to the ship. The sea will likely reach them when the tide is high.

PATHETIC SCENES.

The men report some very pathetic scenes. One woman dropped her child in the sea in trying to hand it to her husband. A little boy of 5 years is running around the deck trying to find his mother, who is among the drowned.

There are still a number of persons on the ship, with almost certain death staring them in the face.

10:40 p.m. The ...

...the Valencia's ...were: J. J. McCarthy, boatswain; Charles Brown, Thomas Shields, John Monk, W. Goslin and T. Lampson.

7 p.m. Carmanah reports a ship's boat passed there at 1 p.m. with several people in it.

It is reported here that the whaling steamer Orion has arrived at the scene of the Valencia wreck from the whaling station at Sechart and is trying to save as many lives as possible.

GALE IN PROGRESS.

6:30 p.m. The meteorological station reports that a gale has been in progress on the island coast for the past two days. Off Vancouver Island, a velocity of forty miles an hour was reported. A tremendous sea sweeps in on the rocks near Cape Beale in heavy weather, with high breakers.

Capt. James Gaudin, agent of Marine, who received the first message of the disaster from the lightkeeper at Carmanah, when asked his opinion as to the probable scene of the wreck, said it was possibly, as far as he could judge from dispatches, at Pachena Bay, which is about half way between Cloose and Cape Beale.

Separating the two points is a stretch of coast line, probably ten miles long. Slightly nearer Cape Beale than Cloose is a bay known as Pachena, at the entrance to which are the notorious Seabird Rocks, on which the steamer Michigan was wrecked about ten years ago. Capt. Gaudin believes it will be on these selfsame rocks that the Valencia has struck. The rocks stand out bold and treacherous, and as they stand where both current and wind seem to concentrate their greatest force from the open Pacific, a landing, unless under most favorable circumstances, would appear impossible. If the ship came to grief in this locality, she would be nearer Cape Beale than Cloose, which accounts for the survivors reaching there.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

"In the absence of information," said Capt. Gaudin, "it is difficult to conjecture what brought the steamer from her course; but, in my opinion, it was a strong southeasterly gale, blowing at the rate of fifty miles per hour—as the reports state—and the great current which sweeps toward the coast which were responsible for driving the steamer from her course."

The wrecking steamer Salvor left this afternoon to assist the wrecked steamer. She is in a bad place.

The passengers of the steamer Queen, also owned by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, have been sent ashore here and lodged in hotels, while the vessel has been dispatched with all haste to the scene of the wreck, to render whatever aid is possible.

Cloose is about five or six miles from Carmanah Point and sixty-five miles from Victoria. Cape Beale is 120 miles from Victoria, at the easterly entrance to Barkley Sound.

The Valencia was taking the place of the steamer City of Puebla, recently disabled.

NAVIGATED BY RECKONING.

A special from Cape Beale states that when the steamer Valencia left San Francisco at 11 a.m. Saturday the weather was clear, but since has been thick, and Capt. Johnson had consequently to navigate by reckoning. The officers of the steamer thought they were near Umatilla reef lightship when the vessel drove in on the Vancouver Island coast.

Soundings had been taken, thirty fathoms having been secured a few minutes before the Valencia struck. When she hit the rocks her engines were reversed and the steamer succeeded in backing off into deep water. She immediately began to fill, so quickly that the engineers and firemen were driven from the engine room and the only chance to save the lives of any one on board was to drive the vessel ashore.

When the six survivors who have arrived at Cape Beale left the Valencia she was laying head-on to the sea and was out thirty yards from the high bluff on shore, with the water over her main deck. Those left of the passengers, a large number having been previously drowned, were huddled on the saloon deck.

LOST IN THE DARKNESS.

When the boats were lowered, soon after, the vessel was driven into the shore, she began to fill, and there was a great loss of life. The boats filled with women and children were smashed against the side of the steamer and all in them were lost. The lights had gone out by this time and the crew could not see to work. Several boats and three life rafts were lowered. Only two of them have been heard from.

There were thought about one hundred persons still on the wreck, and the survivors who reached Cape Beale say at least 82ty were drowned alongside the steamer before they left. The boatswain and five seamen were sent ...

Up to 10 o'clock, efforts to secure further details from Cape Beale of the wreck have been unavailing. Three steamers are on the way. The steamer Queen City, which left here early this morning, passed the wreck without sighting her. The weather was thick at that time. Capt. Townsend of the Queen City telegraphed from Bamfield Creek, asking if he would return to the wreck, but was ordered to proceed on his voyage, as other steamers are on the way. He reported the wind was greatly increasing from the southeast, with a nasty sea running near Cape Beale, which he rounded this afternoon.

EL PASO SELLING BONDS.

Toledo Firm Buys Street Improvement Securities at Par With Accrued Interest.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After several futile attempts, the City of El Paso today marketed $175,000 worth of street-improvement bonds to undertake street improvement in the downtown district. The bonds were voted under the new charter amendment, which makes it possible for a district of the city to undertake improvements without obligating the entire city. The fact that the district, and not the city, was responsible for the bonds made companies look askance.

The bonds were bought today by Spitzer & Co., of Toledo, O., at par, with accrued interest from November 1, 1905. The Dallas Trust Company of Texas had previously agreed to take the bonds, but had later rejected them. Failure to market them had greatly discouraged the citizens.

MOST OF THE ESTATE GOES TO HIS SON'S CHILDREN.

Reading of the Will Takes Place in Secret at Family Residence—The City of Chicago Gets Eight Millions and a Daughter of Deceased a Like Amount.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Details of Marshall Field's will, declared to have been given out by a member of the Field family, were made public today. According to this report, a large part of the estate of Marshall Field is to be held undivided under trusteeship for the benefit of Gwendolyn, Henry and Marshall Field Third, the children of the late Marshall Field, Jr.

The city of Chicago is to receive a gift in the nature of $8,000,000 to the Field Museum of Natural History. Mrs. David Bently, the daughter, who lives in England, is to receive $8,000,000. The sisters and nieces of Field each receive, it is said, cash gifts in sums amounting ... charities ...

Mr. Field was interested. The family servants also were remembered.

The Field estate at once takes first place among the biggest family fortunes in the United States. Attorneys now are busy estimating its size, and formal announcement of the contents of the will has been posponed until an accurate valuation shall have been reached. Whether the lump sum is $100,000,000 or $150,000,000, it certainly takes rank with the Gould, Astor or Vanderbilt fortunes.

It is reported that Mrs. Marshall Field, who, as Mrs. Arthur Caton, was married to Mr. Field last September, was not included among the heirs. This is said to confirm the story that she had received a wedding present of a large sum of money from her husband. This sum is said to have amounted to $2,000,000, being given with the proviso that Mrs. Field should surrender her dower rights.

No indication could be obtained as to the identity or number of the trustees who are to direct the vast estate during the minority of the young heirs. The reading of the will was attended with the greatest secrecy, and it is said it took place at the Field family residence.

GREAT INHERITANCE TAX.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All records for inheritance tax in Illinois will be broken when the wills of Marshall Field and Charles T. Yerkes are probated and the State Treasurer receives the amount due the State. Estimating the estate of Marshall Field at $150,000,000, and that of Yerkes at $15,000,000, conservative figures in both cases, according to experts, the State will receive $1,650,000.

The immense inheritance tax will revert to the general expense fund of the State, to be applied to the support of eleemosynary institutions, asylums, reform schools and penitentiaries.

VICTIMS OF "STABBER."

Thirteen St. Louis Women Have Encountered Knife of the Mysterious Man.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

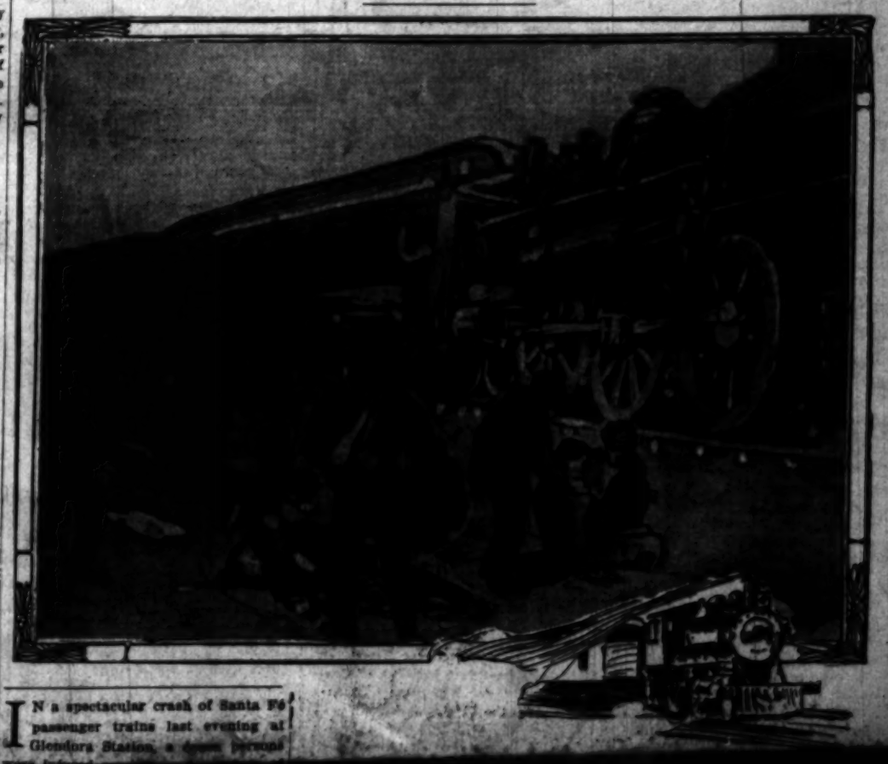
ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The victims of "Jack the Stabber," who has created terror among the women of this city, are now known to number thirteen, one of whom is reported in a critical condition.

The assailant so far has eluded capture. The police department exercised extraordinary precautions to protect women during the busy hours this evening, and up to a late hour no new assaults had been reported.

TERRIFIC TRAIN CRASH, LIMITED STRIKES LOCAL.

Dozen Severely Injured and Many Shocked at Glendora in Collision on Santa Fe.

Tearing Along at Sixty Miles an Hour Great Flyer Telescopes Suburban from Rear, Hurling It Three Hundred Yards Before Stopping—Wonderful Escape of Passengers—Conductor a Hero.



IN a spectacular crash of Santa Fé passenger trains last evening at Glendora Station, a dozen persons ... in observation car of the Local. Sketched on the spot by a Times staff artist.

FLAUDE RAWL, who had a peculiar experience in the wreck.

Two trains, the Limited and the local, both Santa Fé, met in a head-on collision at Glendora Station, a flag station on the main line of the road, at 5:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Fortunately, the Limited was running at a speed of only about sixty miles an hour, and the engineer of the local, realizing that a collision was inevitable, had jumped from the cab of his engine before the trains met. Had the Limited been running at its usual speed of seventy miles an hour, or had the engineer of the local remained in the cab of his engine, the list of dead would undoubtedly have been a long one.

As it was, the engines of both trains were wrecked, the baggage car of the Limited was telescoped, the smoking car of the local was crushed, and a dozen persons were injured, almost all of the injured were on the local Santa Fé Limited train No. 3, due in Los Angeles at 2:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, ran into the rear end of the San Bernardino local passenger train No. 43, due here at 5:40 o'clock p.m.

The Limited was over three hours late and was running at a high rate of speed—estimated at sixty miles an hour.

The local had just stopped at Glendora, the crew not expecting the Limited for several minutes, their expectation being that the fast through train would pass them at Azusa, two miles west of Glendora, and precede the local into Los Angeles.

The injured:

FLAUDE RAWL, Glendora, bruises, cut on forehead, sprains.

DR. J. W. SHENK, South Pasadena, two ribs broken, back wrenched, teeth knocked out, internal injuries feared.

MRS. W. F. CARPENTER, Los Angeles, back wrenched, severe shock, not considered serious. Brought to Santa Fé Hospital.

G. M. BARBERG, 519 Oakland avenue, Pasadena, head cut, face and body bruised.

MRS. G. M. BARBERG, same address, lips gashed, face bruised.

G. H. TAPER, No. 235 North Lake avenue, Pasadena, right side crushed, skull fractured in two places.

MRS. F. M. COUCH, Los Angeles, slightly cut about head, bruised.

MISS JESSIE TANNER, San Diego, slightly cut about head, bruised. Proceeded to San Diego on midnight train.

CONDUCTOR V. M. CHESBRO, of local, chest crushed between cars, left hand mangled, knee sprained, internal injuries.

S. SHOOKUP, Redlands, shoulders severely hurt, full extent of injuries unknown.

LOCAL TRAIN ON TIME.

The local train was on time, stopping at the Glendora station at 4:35 o'clock. It had taken on several passengers; the conductors and brakemen had swung aboard as the wheels turned slowly after their go-ahead signal to the engineer.

As the last car of the train was crawling past the depot, the station agent, looking eastward, saw the Limited dashing down the track, rounding a curve just east of the station.

Horrified at the prospect of a crash, the agent cried loudly to Conductor V. M. Chesbro of the local, who was standing on the platform of the next to the last car of his train.

At the same moment, Engineer W. A. Baldwin of the light engine pulling the local looked around, attracted by the agent's cry of alarm.

Like a flash, Baldwin jerked the throttle of his engine up, to the farthest notch, slightly increasing the momentum of the train, but not appreciably as compared with the speed of the Limited, the engineer of which, espying the danger as soon as his ponderous machine rounded the curve, had shut off steam and applied the air brakes.

ENGINES FUTILE TUG.

Pulling frantically at its load, the little engine on the local had moved the train but about 150 yards west of the station, when the Limited, the heavy drivers of its locomotive locked tight in the grip of the brakes, and with the brakeshoes and wheels of every car spitting fire, crashed into the rear car of the local.

With a horrible crunch, the heavy engine ploughed its way into the last car.

Seven or eight feet into the car it went, the passengers in that coach escaping death as if by a miracle, the seats and the entire end of the coach being crushed into a jumbled mass.

With the brief warning they had received, for it was all over in a flash, the passengers had no opportunity to seek safety by flight to the forward end of the car.

To the fact that the local was moving and that the track from Glendora station slopes to the west, is attributed the wonderful escape of the local train from being telescoped, one car into another.

When the Limited struck, the local, protected, too, by the vestibule equipment of its cars, was shoved forward probably 300 yards, thus minimizing the effect of the impact.

IMPACT'S GREAT FORCE.

So terrific had been the smash, however, that the engine of the Limited was wedged tightly into the rear car. When the cars of the local were pulled forward to be placed on a siding, the big engine was drawn along with it—fitting as tightly into the coach as if it had been coupled with heavy links and pins.

As an indication of the virtue of the vestibule equipment of the passenger coaches of the local, the smoking car at the head end, just behind the engine, suffered the greatest damage. This car was not vestibuled. Its platforms were crushed like egg shells by the force of the smash.

On the heavy cars of the Limited, the effect of the collision was even less marked. The forward trucks of the mail car were forced back, and laid snugly against the rear trucks. No other car on the Limited suffered any apreciable damage.

Quickly the news of the wreck was wired to the Los Angeles headquarters of the Santa Fé and a relief train was quickly made up, with surgeons and company officials ready to render aid to the injured. The train dispatcher at San Bernardino also was advised at once.

Glendora and Azusa physicians also were summoned to care for the injured, while wrecking crews were ordered out, both from Los Angeles and San Bernardino. One of the wrecking outfits had just picked up the remnants of a freight wreck near Corona, and it soon was speeding toward Glendora.

Injuries of the wounded were dressed temporarily and as speedily as possible they were taken into the relief train to Los Angeles and Pasadena.

The wreckers then bent themselves to the task of clearing the track, which was blocked for several hours, delaying the eastbound trains from Los Angeles, as well as westbound freight traffic.

The conductor of Limited No. 3, westbound, was Moody; engineer, Klinehaus; mail clerk, P. E. Vestal. Local No. 43, westbound, was in charge of the following crew: Conductor, V. M. Chesbro; engineer, W. A. Baldwin; brakeman, F. E. Christman; fireman, E. A. Wallace.

"COULDN'T STOP."

Engineer Klinehaus of the Limited was overheard by reporters making the following statement to the surgeons:

"I did not see the local until we reached the straight track which leads into Glendora. The San Bernardino local lay on this track.

"We were late and I was endeavoring to make up for lost time.

"We were going so fast we just couldn't stop in time."

DASH OF LOCAL.

THIS was an unusually dramatic wreck. There was something almost pitiful in the attempt of this poor frightened, panic-stricken little local train to get away from the terrible Limited which rushed upon it from behind.

Like a rabbit at a coursing match, it tried to rush away down the track and save its life; but the roaring steel monster was upon it before it could go 200 yards, grinding it to pieces.

Conductor Chesbro of the local train was the hero of the wreck.

PLANNING MURDERS.

"Black Hand" Busy in Secret.

Plot to Assassinate Gov. Pennypacker and Other Prominent Men.

Monongahela's Police Chief in Possession of Incriminating Papers and Clews.

Arrest of One Supposed Murderer—Meeting Place Discovered.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON (Pa.) Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In hunting for the murderers of Michael Carrasola, a wealthy Italian who was shot at Duncavy, last week, Washington county authorities have unearthed a plot to assassinate Gov. Pennypacker of Pennsylvania and other persons.

The existence of this band of anarchists was unearthed when Chief of Police Logan of Monongahela began to follow up clews which indicated that Carrasola's death was due to the machinations of the Italian "Black Hand" Society. That this organization had a strong foothold along the Monongahela Valley has been shown conclusively, but it has been proven that it was simply a minor organization of a society which has representatives all over the country, and whose object is the abolition of government.

The Washington county authorities say that before morning there will probably be under arrest several men who not only will be charged with the murder of Carrasola, but who can be connected with a plot to murder other persons in various parts of the country.

PRISONER AND PAPERS.

George Barli, an Italian, was arrested at Gallatin, across the Monongahela River, yesterday afternoon. In his "shack" were found papers and manuscripts which induced the officers to conduct a further investigation. Among the papers was list of thirty-one Italians, supposed to be connected with the "Black Hand" Society.

At the time of his arrest, Barli wore what is known as the "Bresci" button, containing a miniature photograph of the man who killed King Humbert of Italy. Last night, Chief Logan and Constable James Ribson of Monongahela began a search for the building described on the paper found in Barli's house. This house, it was believed, would reveal the meeting place of the society controlling the "Black Hand."

THE HOUSE FOUND.

The search was conducted until early this morning; in a secluded hollow near Baird station, the house was found. It was evident that a meeting had been held there recently. The walls were covered with racks of pigeon holes, in which were letters and papers from Paterson, N. J.; Chicago, Philadelphia and New York. One letter was signed "Libreneio Lewlaging." At the top was printed the name of the Paterson Society "Liberia Sociologia, 495 Madison avenue, Paterson, N. J." The writer said: "You have your instructions, and know what to do. Keep pushing the work, and never let up. Sell the books, and do your duty."

PENNYPACKER NAMED.

All the letters were written in Italian and had to be translated. In one of the letters the local organization is urged to do its part in getting rid of Gov. Pennypacker. It closed with: "If you do your part in this matter, the others will be taken care of."

In other letters, men indicated as being in official circles were marked as victims. In an envelope was found an open address to the society from Levi Constantine of Finleyville, Pa., which advocated abolition of the government and extermination of officials. It was addressed to John Spida, "president," and other letters were addressed to Petro Larrachi. He and Constantine are thought by the authorities to be secretaries of the organization.

Dist.-Atty. Underwood tonight issued warrants for the arrest of Spida, Larrachi and Constantine. Other leaders will not be arrested at once, as the authorities hope by shadowing them to get other members of the band.

SCANDAL OUT IN COLLEGE.

Young Men of Beaver, Pa., Caught Paying Midnight Visit to Girls' School Dormitory.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BEAVER (Pa.) Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A huge scandal developed today in Beaver College, a school for young women. As a result, the sons of half a dozen prominent families will be arraigned in court tomorrow on charges preferred by President Arthur Staples.

It is alleged the young men of the village have been paying midnight visits to the girls in their dormitory. Night before last, Prof. Cadwallader of the college surprised three lads coming from one of the girl's rooms. The boys rushed to a fire escape and got away.

Last night, President Staples and Prof. Cadwallader secreted themselves in the hall below and waited. About midnight, he heard the tramp of many masculine feet on the floor above. They rushed upstairs and as they did so the intruders rushed down stairs. They wore handkerchiefs over their faces, but in the melee which ensued some of these were torn off and their wearers were recognized. Only one lad was captured and he made his escape while President Staples was trying to take him to jail.

The fair collegians will be put through a sweating process today to reveal what they know of the nocturnal visits.

accused by the testimony of several midshipmen, witness in the case of First Classman Claude B. Mayne, charged with hazing; of hinting to upper classmen that new midshipmen should be hazed and of going from the building in order that the opportunity might be afforded, was today recalled in rebuttal by the judge advocate.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the case against Midshipman Mayo, who is from Columbus, Miss., the court will begin the trial of Midshipman Richard R. Mann, also a first classman and an appointee of President Roosevelt.

SUING FRICK AND COUNTESS.

HARRY THAW OBJECTS TO SALE OF COKE LANDS.

He Accuses His Half-Brothers, as Trustees of the Thaw Estate, of Making Imperfect Showing of Coal Mined—Much Bitterness Engendered by the Trial.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GREENSBURG (Pa.) Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The big legal battle between Harry K. Thaw, brother of the Countess of Yarmouth, as plaintiff, and members of his own family and H. C. Frick as defendants, opened here today. The Countess of Yarmouth was summoned to the suit several weeks ago. The case involves the proposed transfer of 125,000 acres of coke land by the trustees of the Thaw estate to the H. C. Frick Coke Company.

Harry Thaw, as an heir, objects to the proposed deal, asserting that it is greatly to the prejudice of the Thaw interest and to the benefit of Frick.

Among the trustees of the Thaw estate are Benjamin and Blair Thaw, half-brothers of Harry Thaw, and the Countess. It is alleged by Harry Thaw that the directions contained in the will of his father, William Thaw, have not been complied with by the trustees.

When maps and blue prints of the lands in question were furnished by counsel for the Frick interests today, Harry Thaw's counsel declared that they were partial, inadequate and misleading. Much bitterness is being engendered at the trial, the plaintiff claiming that he is the victim of the duplicity.

The Thaw coke lands adjoin those of the H. C. Frick Company, and the latter concern desires them to facilitate its mining operations. Harry Thaw accuses his half-brothers, as trustees of the property, in making an imperfect showing of the coal mined on the lands in trust and its relative value to the Frick holdings.

The creditors of Louis W. Baker of Oakland, whose name has been connected with that of Mary L. Bowen, the postoffice clerk accused of defalcation, yesterday filed a petition to have him declared a bankrupt.

BALLS TOO RACY.

Central Turnverein of Pittsburgh Notified to Leave Its Hall Because of Lurid Doings.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Because of the odium attaching to the public balls that for years have been given by the Central Turnverein, the leading German organization of Pittsburgh, the Turnverein has been notified to give up the building it uses as headquarters. The members of the organization are loath to admit that they have been driven out, but they admit the decision was due to the characters who flocked to the dances they held.

The balls held by the Central Turnverein have for years been recognized as one of the features that should not be overlooked in seeing the Pittsburgh elephant, and lately such reports concerning scenes at the Turnverein Hall have been circulated that the place has become a mecca for slumming parties, who attended the dances under police protection.

The better element in the Central Turnverein have decided to do away with this feature in the future, and will endeavor to have a new hall built in a part of the city that will not attract dissolute characters.

CREW FOUND IN MID-OCEAN.

BRITISH STEAMER RESCUES FIVE MEN OF THE GLADYS.

Latter Vessel Left Newfoundland for England With Dried Fish—The Sailors Were Lashed to the Pumps Seven Days With Little to Eat. The Captain Drowned.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The British steamer Balakani, Capt. John Hewitt, which arrived at Port Arthur last night, brought in five survivors of the British schooner Gladys, the captain having been washed overboard and drowned.

The Gladys sailed from Carbonear, Newfoundland, bound for Bristol, England, with a cargo of dried fish. The wreck of the Gladys was sighted by the Balakani January 3, in lat. 46.40 degs. N.; long. 32.07 degs., West, at which time a fierce gale was blowing, with a tremendous sea running, thus making any attempt at rescuing the shipwrecked crew impossible.

In the face of such conditions, Capt. Hewitt began maneuvering his ship, and called for volunteers, which met with an immediate response from his officers and crew. After several hours of the most strenuous and daring work, five survivors of the crew were safely landed on board the Balakani, and proceeded towards Port Arthur.

The Gladys was a wooden three-masted schooner, 127 tons, built at Milford Haven in 1892. The rescued crew are as follows: James McCarthy, John Bolt, Michael Hedge, Thomas Morris and Mike Dweeney. These men relate a terrible experience, and show that they endured much suffering, being very badly bruised from their having been lashed to the pumps for about seven days, with scarcely anything to eat.

MORLEY HAS OFFER IN SAN FRANCISCO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Directors of the Pacific Coast Baseball League had a very busy day today. They held three sessions, this morning, noon and night, and the final session went along almost until the clock had declared the midnight hour. In that time the magnates elected officers for the ensuing year, reduced the price for admission to games to two bits, eliminated Tacoma from the circuit, put the ban on gambling at all games under the auspices of the league, and appointed a schedule committee to report later. Having done all this, the league adjourned for the night to meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

In the evening, before the meeting began, something of more than ordinary interest to San Francisco fans happened. Andy Clunie, the new owner of the San Francisco club, held a session of more than two hours with Jim Morley, manager of the Los Angeles team, and Jack Gleason, who has been prominently mentioned as possible successor of Henry Harris. Clunie has had both men under consideration for the position of manager of the Seals. Today it was practically agreed that, if Morley decided to come to San Francisco, he will be manager of the team, but he will work in conjunction with Jack Gleason, who is to look after the advertising and promotion end of the game. If Morley decides to remain where he is, as manager of the Los Angeles club, Gleason will have entire charge of the San Francisco aggregation. Morley, when seen tonight, stated that he had not yet made up his mind upon the proposition, and that it would be two or three days, at least, before he would be able to give out any answer.

The election of officers of the league resulted in only one change, the substitution of the name of A. J. Clunie as treasurer in place of that of Theodore Goodman, who sold his stock in the San Francisco team to Clunie a week or so ago. The rest of the officers remain the same. Eugene F. Bert is president, W. W. McCreedie is vice-president, and James H. Anderson secretary. The board of directors is to be as follows: A. J. Clunie, San Francisco; James F. Morley, Los Angeles; J. Cal Ewing, Oakland; W. W. McCreedie, Portland; J. P. Agnews, Seattle.

One of the first things decided at the meeting was to eliminate Tacoma from the circuit. Franchises were granted to every city that was on the circuit last year except the city which carried off the pennant the year previous and which has been the worst baseball city ever seen on the Pacific Coast. It was decided that the ball players who were on the Tacoma team are to go to the Pacific Coast League, which will give them to the team that takes Tacoma's place. It was further decided that this town will be a California town, presumably Fresno, although this was not definitely determined.

On the Schedule Committee were appointed W. W. McCreedie, Portland; A. J. Clunie, San Francisco; James F. Morley, Los Angeles; J. Cal Ewing, Oakland, and J. P. Agnew, Seattle.

STORM IS SWEEPING THE EASTERN STATES.

Telegraph and Train Service Out of Chicago Crippled — Washington Reports Temperatures Abnormally High on Atlantic Coast.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Telegraph and passenger traffic service were again crippled today. The storm of last night caused a blockade of the steam railroads and the street cars. Thousands were late to their work in the downtown district, and the telegraph wires, which were coated with ice in the sleet storm of yesterday, were weighted down and broken by the snow which fell last night and today.

Trains were from two to ten hours late. The railway service between St. Paul and Chicago and St. Louis and Chicago was far outside of the schedule. Further to confuse the service, telegraph wires were down, and no news of trains could be obtained at the office of the division superintendents.

The storm is said to be sweeping east, razing telegraph poles by the hundreds. Messages have been sent to every available point in the country for line-repair men, and they are being rushed to the scene of devastation with all possible speed. Communication with the West is also interrupted, but there are several wires working, and the storm is said to have abated somewhat in that direction.

Wires were down on most of the eastern lines, and the two fast New York-Chicago trains on the Pennsylvania and Lake Shore roads were behind time. The Kansas City trains were from four to seven hours late, according to the information bureau at the Union Railway Station. The transcontinental trains, with connections at Chicago for the eastern portion of the trip, were late from one to five or ten hours.

Out of a total of seventy private wires between Chicago and eastern points, but two were working today, and one of these was badly crippled at times. The other was divided among commission houses, each firm being allowed to use it in turn for fifteen minutes. Some of the brokers, fit order to send their orders to New York, sent their messages over private lines to San Francisco, and from there back via St. Louis and Montreal.

JAPS AND OUR FRUIT.

Labor organizations in Chicago and other cities, stirred by the "Japanese peril," may demand the union label on all California fruits. Japanese workmen, it is claimed, are fast taking the place of the white men on the coast fruit farms, and drastic action is recommended. The fight against the Japanese has been taken up by Hiram Shera of Upland, Cal., who is agitating a check on the Celestials. A letter has been received from him by the Chicago Federation of Labor, Shera tells of the inroads of the "Japs," and how they have crowded out the ordinary worker by reducing wages and living expenses.

NEW MUNICIPAL PROJECT.

A scheme for a new municipal enterprise, rivalled only by a $75,000,000 municipality-owned-and-operated street-car system, was presented this afternoon to the Charter Convention Committee on Rivers and Harbors. Briefly, the plan provides for the construction and maintenance of municipal docks in the harbor and an elevated steam railway connecting with all railroads of the city, and thereby all railroads have access upon equal terms to the lake traffic, via municipal steam railway and the municipal docks.

SUICIDE OF A. J. MAGNUS.

While dressing for a dinner, which, with his wife, he had planned for several friends, Arthur Julius Magnus, vice-president of the Magnus & Sons Company, manufacturers of brewers' supplies and son-in-law of Adolphus Busch, the St. Louis brewer, shot and killed himself in his room at his home No. 739 Fullerton avenue. Relatives found his body an hour later. Magnus who was 45 years old, had been suffering from heart disease for years, and relatives say he had been despondent over his condition. This, his family assert, could have been the only reason for killing himself. When he ended his life, it is believed, his little daughter Aimee was taking a piano lesson in a room not far from him on the same floor. The sound of the music prevented her and her teacher from hearing the shot.

TO LEGALIZE KILLING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Representative Hunt of Cincinnati today introduced in the House of Representatives a bill making it lawful for physicians to kill persons suffering intense pain and for whose recovery there is no hope. The measure was introduced at the request of Miss Ann Hall of Cincinnati, who gained her inspiration from Dr. Osler's theory on the subject of chloroforming. She is a woman of wealth and the daughter of an Arctic explorer who died several years ago. She sat in the gallery today and witnessed the voting down of a motion to reject the bill, 78 to 22.

FORMER STATE SENATOR FRENCH, now on trial for bribery at Sacramento.

BIG POLITICIANS WILL TESTIFY.

FRANK FRENCH COMES TO TRIAL FOR BOODLING.

Fourth of Quartette of Senators Expelled from Sacramento Legislative Halls Will be Given Good Reputation by Cloud of Witnesses—Seven Jurors Chosen.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 23.—The preliminary steps in the trial of Frank French, the last of the four men who were ousted from the State Senate last winter for accepting a bribe to refrain from investigating certain building and loan associations, were taken in Judge Hart's court today and when the session closed seven jurors had been accepted and sworn to try the case.

The examination of jurors touching their qualifications indicated that the line of defense will not be materially different from that in the Bunkers and Emmons cases. A cloud of witnesses will be called to swear to the good reputation of French, nearly every prominent official and politician in the State being on the list.

The attorneys for the defendant, Frank D. Ryan and James B. Devine, prepared for the reception of the testimony to be given by Harry Bunkers, the convicted boodler, who turned State's evidence, and who is now serving five years in San Quentin prison. The attorneys closely questioned each candidate for the jury box as to how he would receive the testimony of an accomplice and what weight he would give it. The other questions were those usually propounded to jurors in criminal cases.

DID HE KNOW M'KENZIE.

Among the questions asked by Dist.-Atty. Seymour and Charles T. Jones of special counsel for the prosecution, was that as to whether a prospective juror was acquainted with John D. McKenzie of San José, one of the most prominent politicians in the State, and at present a member of the Board of Harbor Commissioners of San Francisco.

Arthur Lee, the colored porter, who testified to having had custody for a time of the bribe money which was provided for Bunkers, Wright, Emmons and French, will also be a witness for the prosecution. The detectives, Geo. N. Tichenor and Henry Hartling, will be on hand for the prosecution, as will Joseph S. Jordan, the well-known newspaper correspondent.

Five jurors remain to be chosen and the defense has three and the prosecution four peremptory challenges left, in case the regular panel holds out the probabilities are that the box will be filled tomorrow.

This jury will not be locked up as the Emmons jury was. Attorneys for the defense say it will take three weeks to get through with the trial.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

MARYSVILLE, Jan. 23.—The American Smelting and Refining Company, better known as the "Guggenheim syndicate," has purchased the Dempsey copper mining properties near Smartsville and will erect a large smelter works there on the line of the California Midland Railway, soon to be built from Grass Valley and Auburn to Marysville.

SAN JOSE, Jan. 23.—Articles of incorporation of the "Holy City, the New Jerusalem," were filed in this city today by the directors, J. T. Henry, John H. McClure, James A. Mast, Mary E. The corporation is formed "for the purpose of teaching the science of healing as taught in holy scriptures," and the principle place of business will be in Morgan Hill.

Prominent Contractor in Trouble.

SEATTLE (Wash.) Jan. 23.—From the bench today Judge Albertson, in the Superior Court, ordered the arrest of J. E. Riley, a prominent contractor, who, it is alleged, last Saturday, in the municipal ownership convention, stated that he had been asked to contribute money to secure a decision against the eight-hour law, which decision had afterward been rendered. Riley was in the courtroom when arrested. The court stated that a thorough probing would be made into the conduct of Riley.

WILL GET CARNEGIE MEDALS.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 25.—It is understood that Capt. Casto and crew of the Alberta will be honored by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission. They will receive medals or money, possibly both, for their work in rescuing the passengers from the Cherokee, at Atlantic City. Manager Willmot of the Carnegie hero fund said last night: "The Hero Fund Commission finds that the work of rescue performed by Capt. Mark Casto and his crew, of the Alberta, was in no way overdrawn. All that is needed is for the commission as a whole to pass on it."

National Life Policyholder, Alleging Unfulfilled Promise, Has Bill for Receiver Filed.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—A bill for a receiver for the National Life Insurance Company of Chicago has been filed in the District Court at Des Moines, Iowa, where the company has $1,700,000 on deposit with the State Auditor. The bill was filed for A. L. Watson, a policy holder, who also asks that the Chicago company be restrained from transferring or disposing of funds. Watson alleges that promises made to pay gold bonds have not been fulfilled. Officials of the National Life assert that the suit is the outcome of an attempt to "hold up" the company.

JEFFERSON CITY (Mo.) Jan. 23.—State Insurance Superintendent Vandiver received notice today that the Federal Court has dismissed the suit filed by the New York Life Insurance Company to prevent him from enforcing his order of ouster from the State of Missouri.

KANSAS LAND CASES CALLED.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 23.—The cases against F. Dumont Smith, a State Senator from Kansas, T. E. Ryan, formerly government land inspector in West Kansas, and Roscoe Wilson, postmaster at Jetmora, Kan., indicted recently by the Federal grand jury, at Topeka on a charge of conspiracy to violate the land laws of the United States, were called in the District Court here today before Judge John F. Philips. The attorneys for Smith and Ryan filed demurrers, while Wilson's attorney moved that the indictment against the latter be quashed. The grounds they set up are technical. Argument was begun on the motions.

WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU

Few People Realize the Importance of Good Digestion Until It Is Lost.

Many people suffer from dyspepsia and do not know it. They feel mean, out of sorts, peevish, do not sleep well, do not have a good, keen appetite; do not have the inclination and energy for physical or mental work they once had, but at the same time do not feel any particular pain or distress in the stomach. Yet all this is the result of poor digestion, an insidious form of Dyspepsia which can only be cured by a remedy specially intended to cure it and make the digestive organs act naturally, and properly digest the food eaten. Bitters, after dinner pills and nerve tonics will never help the trouble; they don't reach it. The new medical discovery does. It is called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is a specific for dyspepsia and indigestion. It cures because it thoroughly digests all wholesome food taken into the stomach, whether the stomach is in good working order or not.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by digesting the food, instead of making the worn out stomach do all the work, gives it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

When you are nervous, run down and sleepless, don't make the common mistake of supposing your nervous system needs treatment and fill your stomach with powerful nerve tonics which make you feel good for a little while only to fall back farther than ever.

Your nerves are all right but they are starved, they want food.

Nourish them with wholesome every-day food and plenty of it, well digested, and you can laugh at nerve tonics and medicine.

But the nerves will not be nourished from a weak, abused stomach, but when the digestion has been made perfect by the use of this remedy all nervous symptoms disappear.

Who ever heard of a man or woman blessed with vigorous digestion and good appetite being troubled with their nerves?

Good digestion means a strong nervous system, abundance of energy, and capacity to enjoy the good things of life.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will certainly set your stomach and digestive organs right; they can't help but do it because they nourish the body by digesting the food eaten, and rest the stomach.

You get nourishment and rest at one and the same time, and that is all the worn out dyspeptic needs to build him up and give new life to every organ and an added zest to every pleasure.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a god-send to the army of men and women with weak stomachs and nerves and justly merits the claim of being one of the most worthy medical discoveries of the day.

LOHR'S VICTIMS STARK CRAZY.

HE INDUCED JAMES FAMILY TO BURN THEIR HOME.

Even the Eight Hundred Dollars in Money Which They Had Saved Had to Go—Persuaded Them to Offer up Their Son, but Lad Escapes and Informs Authorities.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GREENSBURGH (Pa.) Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Adam Lohr, the fanatical preacher whose wild teachings drove to insanity, Samuel James, a first cousin of Jesse James and wife, was released from the County Jail on bail today, furnished by one of his former converts. Lohr must answer to the February term of court on the charge of necromancy.

The Jameses, who have been consigned to the Westmoreland County Hospital for the Insane, are in a pitiable condition. Lohr stopped at their house four weeks, and the details of the fanatical things that occurred there are just coming to light. He persuaded Mr. and Mrs. James that it was sinful for them to own property, and two weeks ago induced them to burn their household goods, their barn, stock and grain. James attempted to save $800 which he had hidden in a safe, but Lohr insisted that must go also.

As a crowning act of sacrifice, Lohr then persuaded his converts to offer up their twelve-year-old son as a burnt offering. The lad was actually caught, and was being taken to the stake when he broke away from his captors and ran to the city, where he told the authorities of what was going on at his home. Meanwhile Lohr had led his converts to a stream in the field, and, compelling them to remove every stitch of clothing, he baptized them in the cold water. This he termed their "final purification."

When the officers reached the denuded home of the Jameses, they found Lohr's victims nearly dead from cold and exposure and stark crazy. Lohr was taken to jail, and the Jameses were sent to the asylum. Lohr's first act on his release from jail today, was to hunt up the old horse and wagon in which he tours the country. He announced that he would continue his evangelistic tour until his trial was called.

WASHINGTON.

UNION OF THE TERRITORIES.

Republicans in Committee Favor Joint Statehood.

Oklahoma in a Merger—The Minority Roar.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Indications are tonight that joint Statehood will be defeated. After the "insurgents" held a conference, this afternoon, their leaders reported they had fifty-four absolute Republican "stand-patters" who would vote against the rule to carry through the committee a bill providing for making it a States of four Territories. Leaders of the insurgents say they have left out twelve who were doubtful, but they think they can depend upon six of them. That would make sixty. Only fifty-four votes are required.

From present indications there will be at least twenty-five absent on the Republican side tomorrow when the rule is reported, and even though the "insurgents" have only fifty-four, which they have pledged, they say they will defeat the rule and leave the committee bill open to amendment, which means numerous amendments and long-drawn-out debate and the defeat of the two-State bill.

House leaders tonight admit that the only chance they have of winning is to do a good job of pairing and depend upon the failure of the dozen "insurgents" to change their mind when they come to face the proposition on an aye-and-nay vote, after having been severely lectured by the President and Speaker Cannon.

Pressure brought to bear by the President and the Speaker the past two days has been terrific, but those antagonistic to the Joint Statehood Bill insist their efforts have been futile, and that they will defeat the rule tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Thirty-four Republican Statehood "insurgents" held a caucus today in Representative Babcock's committee room and outlined their fight against the Hamilton bill.

Democrats who are out of the city are being summoned by Representative Williams, leader of the minority, to return in time to oppose the anti-amendment rule. Although the Democrats had no Statehood caucus, their position has been plainly outlined by Mr. Williams and Democratic members on the Territories Committee have made a minority report so strongly in opposition to the Hamilton bill that no Democratic member is expected to desert his party stand on the issue, providing he is in the House when a vote is taken.

Mr. Lloyd, the Democratic whip, said tonight that he expects to be able to have at least 126 Democrats in the House tomorrow to vote against the rule preventing amendments to the Hamilton bill. Mr. Vanduser of Nevada is at home on account of illness in his family, and Messrs. Hearst and Cockran, both of New York, McDermitt of New Jersey and Hill and Byrd, both of Mississippi, are Democrats who will not be here. Republicans are also working hard to gather absentees.

The Republican members of the Committee on Territories submitted to the House this afternoon the majority report on the Statehood Bill.

Representative Hamilton of Michigan, chairman of the House Committee on Territories, today submitted a favorable report on the Hamilton Joint Statehood Bill, which provides for the admission of Oklahoma and Indian Territory as the State of Oklahoma, and provides joint Statehood for New Mexico and Arizona under the name of Arizona.

The report reviews the bill in detail, explaining that the capital of Arizona is to be at Santa Fé until 1915, and that the capital of Oklahoma is to be at Guthrie for the same length of time, when people can choose their capital cities with justice to all parts of the States. The report says:

"This committee considers the criticism as ill-formed which finds fault with New Mexico because of its foreign population. Out of a population of 195,310, New Mexico has only 14.6% foreign-born inhabitants, a smaller percentage of foreign-born than most States of the Union.

"New Mexico was made a Territory in 1850, and ever since that time the people of that Territory have elected their own legislators, made their own laws, conducted their own local government, and contributed revenue to the Federal treasury.

"Were it not that the two-fifths of its population, which are native-born but of Spanish descent, have been heretofore erroneously referred to as foreign, it would be an aspersion upon a patriotic people even to refer to their loyalty. The remaining three-fifths of its population are of the same character as the people of Arizona."

VALUES FOR TAXATION.

Of the alleged undervaluation of property in Arizona for purposes of taxation, which was warmly discussed in hearings, the report says: "It has a total assessed valuation of taxable property, as shown by the report of the Secretary of the Interior, of $57,-900,372, but it is probable that its property is returned for taxation at a comparatively small percentage of its market value—in some instances, as indicated by government reports, at not over 5 per cent. of its actual value."

Concerning taxes in New Mexico, the report says: "The assessed valuation of property within the Territory for the year 1906 was $42,578,793, but it is asserted that for purposes of taxation property is not returned at much more than 20 per cent. of its market value."

OKLAHOMA MERGER.

The report concludes as follows:

"Inasmuch as Congress intended by the organic act of the Territory of Oklahoma that all of the original Indian Territory, together with what is now Beaver county, should become one State and inasmuch as the present Territory of Oklahoma has for some time been qualified for Statehood, which has been deferred until the Indian Territory should be ready to be joined therewith in Statehood, and inasmuch as conditions in the Indian Territory imperatively demand some better form of government than now exists there; and inasmuch as the Indian lands will be allotted in severalty before the time when Statehood can go into effect, this committee reports in favor of the joinder of the Territory of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory in one State, not, however, before March 4, 1907, such State to be known as the State of Oklahoma.

"To that end, and to the end that the Territories of Arizona and New Mexico may be joined in one State, to be known as the State of Arizona, this committee recommends that the bill do pass."

DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION.

The Democratic members of the House Committee on Territories presented a minority report today, in opposition to the Hamilton Joint Statehood Bill. After reviewing the resources of the four Territories of Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Indian Territory, and declaring in favor of joint Statehood for Oklahoma and Indian Territory, the report says there is no more reason for joining New Mexico and Arizona than there would be for joining Alaska and Porto Rico. The manifest purpose of the majority is to unjustly keep Oklahoma out of the Union unless they can, with greater injustice, force Arizona in, says the report: "We regret the President's action in recommending, without assigning any reason, the joint Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, and thus ignoring the last expression of the Republican national platform on the question of Statehood for the remaining Territories."

The report concludes: "Should the Republican party pass this bill, wicked as it is, in the denial of equal rights in representation and partisan in all of its material details, it will but afford another indecent example of the suppression of individual, Territorial and national rights to subserve party ends."

HEPBURN RATE BILL.

COMMITTEE UNANIMOUS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—After a conference lasting all the afternoon the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce today agreed upon a rate bill to be known as the Hepburn bill, and to be reported to the House with the unanimous recommendation of the eighteen members of the committee. In the main the bill is the original Hepburn bill, but a number of concessions were made to the Democrats, and their ideas as set forth in the Davie bill were freely incorporated in the perfected measure.

Mr. Hepburn and the other Republicans agreed to accept the wording of the Democratic bill in the provision for the fixing of the maximum rate. The amendment, which was accepted, provides that the commission shall fix a "just, reasonable and fairly remunerative rate which shall be the maximum rate."

It was maintained by the Democrats that under the original Hepburn wording, the commission was required to fix the highest of the "just, reasonable and fairly remunerative" rates. In case there was several such rates. Chairman Hepburn and the Republicans do not believe there is any difference in the two wordings, but were perfectly willing to accept the language of the Davie bill.

The amended bill also provides for seven members of the Interstate Commerce Commission instead of nine, as was provided in the original Hepburn bill.

Another amendment, incorporated at the request of the Democrats, provided that in cases where no damages are assessed the commission may simply state its conclusion and need not set forth its findings.

A section of the Davie bill requiring that the Attorney-General in appealed cases shall file the certificate necessary to expedite the hearing was incorporated in the amended bill. Another amendment provides that orders of the commission shall continue in force for three years unless repealed. No existing cases are to be affected by the bill, and all laws relating to witnesses and the conducting of hearings before the commission are to be continued.

Mr. Hepburn expects to make a favorable report on the bill to the House tomorrow, and expresses confidence that the measure will be considered by the House within a week.

FIFTY-NINTH CONGRESS.

REGULAR SESSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Senate: At the beginning of today's session, Mr. Warren introduced a bill giving to women the right to vote in all States of the United States for Representatives in Congress. The bill was referred to the Committe on Woman Suffrage.

The Pure Food Bill was laid before the Senate, and Mr. McComber continued his speech in support of that measure.

Mr. Heyburn also addressed the Senate in advocacy of the bill.

Mr. Spooner then addressed the Senate on the conduct by the President of our foreign relations. The precipitation of this discussion had, he said, seemed to him quite unjustifiable, because many of the questions spoken of involved executive matters and should have been considered behind closed doors. Speaking generally he felt that the plan of dealing with foreign questions in executive session to be the wise one. In reply to an inquiry from Mr. Tillman, Mr. Spooner said that the members of the Committee on Foreign Relations were, like other Senators, advisers to the President. Mr. Tillman quoted a newspaper article referring to Messrs. Lodge and Spooner of the Foreign Relations Committee as having been called upon to pass upon foreign questions. He wanted to know whether, as a matter of common sense, a President would not ordinarily desire to have the advice of such members of the committee who were also leaders of the Senate.

Referring to Mr. Tillman's characterization of his own observation as one of "common sense," Mr. Spooner said that he felt impelled to say that the character of the remark was such as to justify that characterization.

"For which," responded Mr. Tillman, "I am duly grateful."

"But," responded Mr. Spooner, "I say so only from a sense of politeness."

"Then," said Mr. Tillman, "the Senator convicts himself of insincerity."

The galleries enjoyed the exchanges of pleasantries, and laughed aloud, so much so as to render necessary a rebuke from the Vice-President.

Mr. Spooner outlined "the prerogatives" of the different branches of Congress.

"The Senator uses the word 'prerogatives' too broadly," remarked Mr. Morgan. "The President has no prerogative like that of royalty."

Replying, Mr. Spooner said that in the last analysis he considered the Alabama Senator to be right, "but," he added, "Mr. Morgan has heard the word used here a thousand times as I have used it."

"A thousand times too often," responded Mr. Morgan.

Mr. Sponer said that Mr. Bacon, the author of the resolution calling upon the President for information about the Algeciras conference had deprecated the departure from the doctrine of non-interference in foreign matters laid down in Washington's farewell address. As for himself, Mr. Spooner said, he believed that in appointing delegates to that conference the President had acted entirely "within his constitutional capacity, and in the interest of the country and just obedience to the demands of the situation."

He did not believe such action to be in contravention of the declaration of the Farewell Address or the spirit of the Constitution.

"The framers of the Constitution did not mean to create a baby nation nor a hermit nation," he said, and then quoted precedents to show that this country participated in international conferences to advantage.

HOUSE—The House adopted amendment to the Urgent Deficiency Bill which provides that no member of the Canal Commission shall be paid any compensation in addition to his salary as a commissioner. This was for the purpose of preventing the allowance of additional compensation to J. B. Bishop as acting secretary of the commission, in addition to being a member of the commission.

TOMPKINS MAY KEEP JOB.

Secret Meeting of Prison Directors That Ousted Warden of San Quentin Declared Illegal.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—Still further complications may arise in the wardenship controversy at San Quentin Prison. It now appears that, at the secret meeting of the directors held in this city January 12, only three of the five members of the board voted to declare Warden Tompkins's place vacant, and the term of office of one of these three, Wilkins, had expired January 12. The other directors voting for the removal of Tompkins were Felton and Ford. Directors Devlin and Ray were against declaring Tompkins's office vacant.

It is claimed by lawyers, who base their views on an opinion of the Supreme Court given in connection with a contest over a Santa Barbara judgeship, that Wilkins's term of office expired January 1, and that any official act of his after that date was illegal and void. Without the vote of Wilkins, January 13, there would not have been a majority vote of the directors to declare the office of the warden vacant. If Wilkins voted without authority of law, Tompkins may retain the office of warden of San Quentin until legally removed.

Should Edgar, who was elected by the directors to succeed Tompkins, assume the duties and functions of that office February 7, as proposed, all his acts, according to the interpretation of the law made by some, would be without force and effect.

If the claim that the proceeding to remove Tompkins was irregular is thought good by the directors, the board will hold a meeting before February 1 and endeavor to secure the vote of Devlin or Ray to make good the previous action of Felton and Ford. Should Devlin and Ray decline to alter their original position in favor of Tompkins, the incumbent warden may hold office until his term shall have expired or the deadlock among the directors is broken.

At San José a charge of assault to murder was made yesterday morning against Salvador DeSalvo, the Italian butcher who Sunday night shot a Chinaman in Chinatown. The latter is still in a precarious condition. DeSalvo has applied to the Superior Court for a writ of habeas corpus.

YERKES AND OUR WINES.

Californians Claim the Industry Would be Killed by the Proposed Tax.

DIRECT WIRE TO ...

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes, in a letter to the Ways and Means Committee regarding the Needham bill permitting fortification of sweet wine with brandy favors it, if amended so that the brandy used thus shall pay 25 cents a gallon tax.

Percy Morgan, president of the California wine makers' organization, who is here, says this would mean an annual tax of $2,000,000 on the California wine industry, which would kill it.

Morgan says the winemakers are willing to pay reasonable expenses incurred by the government in overseeing fortification. Needham says the bill never will be reported as suggested by Yerkes.

MUTUAL RESERVE POLICY HOLDERS WATCH BURNHAM.

Virile Minority Plans to Make Things Lively at Regular Meeting of Board of Directors Today—Man Who Never Got Promised Gold Bonds Wants Receiver for Company.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There is a virile minority that expects to make a lively time tomorrow at the regular meeting of the stockholders and policy holders of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company, the ostensible business of which meeting is to fill three vacancies in the board of directors.

Policy holders who are not friendly to the present management of Frederick A Burnham, president, and George D. Eldridge, vice-president, have heard that all the old proxies held by these officials, some of them dating back to the time of Harper, Burnham's predecessor, have been dusted off, ready for use in carrying out the plans of the present administration.

According to information which the minority interest regards as authentic, the administration plan is to fill the three vacancies and then call immediately a meeting of the board to re-elect the president and vice-president. Burnham and Eldridge having then received a vindication, the opposing policy holders say, will decline the re-election and retire from the company. Burnham bases his action upon the ground of impaired health. Members of the opposition element are working hard to defeat this programme.

ad with Town Topics?" asked Jerome.

"Not as a publication."

The witness said that the price for a small paragraph in "America's Smart Set" was $250, and for an extensive write-up $500.

Among sixty persons who he said paid for being written up in this publication, Wooster named Col. John Jacob Astor and Reginald and Alfred Vanderbilt. Wooster denied, in answer to Jerome's questions, that he ever said if a person refused to subscribe to "Pads and Fancies" unpleasant things would be printed about him in Town Topics.

"In your experience as a canvasser, you found the alleged society leaders to be easy marks?" asked Jerome.

"I cannot say that, but society publications like 'Pads and Fancies' have all been financial successes."

Shepard of counsel for the defense, here questioned Wooster, who said in many instances subscribers to "Pads and Fancies" and "America's Smart Set," were the same. He said that letters were sent from "Town Topics" to prospective subscribers to "America's Smart Set."

The witness, replying to questions by Osborne, said that he had received a letter from Justice Deuel stating that business was slow, and that he then secured the services of Robert A. Irving as an agent for "Pads and Fancies."

COMMODORE GERRY.

Wooster then left the witness stand and Commodore Eldridge T. Gerry was sworn. Shepard questioned him. He testified that in 1901, while he was in Newport, Wooster called on him with a letter of introduction from Justice Deuel. This letter was produced in court, the writer stating in it that the ideas of "Pads and Fancies" were his, and that he had complete control of the scheme.

Commodore Gerry said that he found out that Town Topics was interested in "Pads and Fancies' and that he refused to subscribe to it.

James N. Burden, Jr., of Troy, N. Y., was the next witness called by the defense. He said that he was asked to subscribe to "Pads and Fancies" by Robert A. Irving.

"He showed me several names of subscribers, including Mrs. Astor and Mrs. Mackay, and I was surprised to know they had subscribed," said Burden. "He told me that Col. Mann used a very trenchant pen, and that I had better subscribe. I told him that was all I wanted of him, and that he had better get out, and he did."

LISTED ITS VICTIMS.

Charles Stokes Wayne, formerly editor of Town Topics, was the next witness. Shepard questioned him. He said that Justice Deuel read the proofs of Town Topics every Tuesday night. Frequently this work was done at Col. Mann's house, the witness said. He next described a card index which, he said, Town Topics kept of persons about whom it printed paragraphs. The names were written on the cards, and those referred to anonymously were indexed by the cities or places where they resided.

"Had Town Topics a list of immunes?" asked Shepard.

"Yes," replied the witness.

"Name some of them."

"Russell A. Alger, James Hazen Hyde, Perry Belmont, James R. Keene, William K. Vanderbilt, George Gould, J. Pierpont Morgan, Chauncey Depew, A. J. Cassatt and about fifty others."

"Was not Abe Hummel, the lawyer, an immune?"

"He was."

ALSO MELVILLE E. STONE.

"Was Melville E. Stone of the Associated Press?"

"Yes."

"Thomas W. Lawson?"

"Yes."

"Harry Lehr?"

"At one time."

"Stuyvesant Fish?"

"Yes."

"Henry Flagler?"

"Yes."

"Creighton Webb?"

"Yes, I would say he was an immune."

"John E. Mallon?"

"Yes."

"Reginald Ward?"

"Undoubtedly, for some time."

"August Belmont?"

"Yes."

COL. MANN'S "FUNDS."

"Before going to Europe in 1905, did Col. Mann have a conversation with you about his funds?" asked Mr. Shepard.

"He did."

"What did he say?"

"He said he thought it was advisable to prepare a list of all people who would figure in Town Topics, and I told him it would be a good idea."

Here an adjournment was taken until tomorrow.

CHINESE FIND NEW DELIGHT.

Nickle-in-the-Slot Machines Tickle Imperial Commission Here to Study American Institutions.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The royal Chinese commissioners and their suite found many things about the great steel mills of this district to wonder at, but for pure undiluted enjoyment, they simply bathed in the delights of the nickel-in-the-slot joints here.

Pittsburgh has recently been overstocked with these places; they greet one with their music boxes and phonographs everywhere, and to the average resident have become simply a nuisance. But to the Chinese commissioners, they proved a never-ending source of enjoyment.

At every opportunity, night and day, groups of the distinguished orientals were seen now in this joint, now in that, dropping in pennies and nickels to hear the latest music, ascertain their weight, have their fortunes told, or get a peek at some of the risque pictures that offered themselves on the outside of the machines. They went about it all so gravely that Pittsburgh is not through laughing over it yet.

CHARGES OF "GRAFT."

Evidence to be Presented to Chicago Grand Jury Against the Court Clerk's Office.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Evidence which is considered strong enough to assure the return of an indictment in connection with the charges of "graft" in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court is ready for presentation to the grand jury. It may go to that body tomorrow, and certainly will if the missing records of former Clerk John A. Linn can be produced. All of the evidence shows that this man was aided in his pilfering by his subordinates, some of whom, according to the State's attorney, protested ignorance, others escaping by confessing all they knew. Among the latter is Frank J. Chasier, cashier in the office, who is the most important witness that the State has.

The one man whose indictment will be sought by the State's attorney is a well-known North Side politician. This man, it is estimated, has enriched himself by taking some $130,000 which belongs to the County of Cook. Under the statutes, this man is guilty of a felony if the charges against him are proven true.

Three kinds of "graft" are charged against the man, whose indictment will be asked by State's Attorney Healy. He is accused of padding the payrolls of the office by placing upon them fictitious names; of misappropriating daily a portion of the money collected as fees, and of compelling his employés to turn over to him a part of their salaries.

LOSE LIVES IN SNOWSLIDE.

Five Italian Miners Victims of Storm in Colorado—Train Service Badly Interrupted.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SILVERTON (Colo.) Jan. 22.—Five Italian miners employed at the Sunnyside mine lost their lives in an immense snowslide late yesterday afternoon.

The mine blacksmith shop and several tram cars are also known to have been swept away.

No trains from Durango or Denver have arrived here since last Wednesday, owing to slides and immense drifts of snow. All the short-line roads running to outlying camps are now snowed in.

There are eleven slides between Silverton and Elk Park. The slides average from seven to thirty feet deep and from fifty to 450 feet wide. One immense slide went into Animas River, forming a dam of snow and ice, which caused the stream to back up and overflow the Rio Grande tracks to a depth of four feet.

It will be two weeks before traffic can be resumed between Silverton and Durango.

The Iowa mill, in Arastra Gulch, has been crushed in by heavy slides which came down Little Giant Mountain.

The storm, which has about spent its force, has been one of the worst ever known in this section.

WRECK ON SANTA FE.

jet were getting ready for dinner when this appalling crash came. It was heard two or three miles on the road to Azusa.

Near the railroad station is an orange-packing-house at which a number of girls are employed. A number of them were thrown into hysterics, their shrieks and screams followed the roar of the collision.

Several Azusa inhabitants were eye-witnesses of the accident. J. A. Jones, the postmaster of the town, was waiting on the platform for the mails.

He saw F. R. Smith, the station agent, rush out on the platform blanched and white; he gave a frantic signal to the conductor of the local San Bernardino train.

Conductor Chesbro saw the danger and waved his lantern for the train to pull out.

The engineer tried gallantly. The wheels began to move with maddening slowness. Just about 150 yards beyond the station, the great mass of steel projectile hurled into the rear of the local train.

One of the sleeping car porters says that he heard the air put on just as the Limited rounded the curve to the straight track. But the engineer might as well have whistled at it.

Like chaff, the Local was caught and whirled along for 200 yards; then dropped, a tattered wreck.

MARVELOUS ESCAPE.

It is marvelous that the passengers in the observation car at the rear of the Local were not killed. The Limited's engine rammed in its head for fully seven feet through the back platform and into the car.

Among the few people in this car were Mr. Shookup and his wife—Redlands people coming into Los Angeles. Mr. Shookup was thrown with terrible force against the chairs. He stated last night that he believed his shoulders were broken.

A hobo was riding the brake beams under the observation car but escaped without injury—except a terrible shaking up. The car bucked and humped like a broncho under the terrible impact.

Conductor Chesbro was leaning out from the platform of the first car forward signalling the engineer.

He was caught between the vestibules and the life almost crushed out of him. He was terribly injured about the chest, but gamely stuck to his train, looking out for the comfort of his injured passengers; marching up and down among the wrecking crew with his lantern.

CURIOUS EXPERIENCE.

Flaude Rawl, a young man of Glendora who was hurt on one of the rear coaches of the Local, had a curious experience.

He had just boarded the train and had not had time to sit down. His mother had gone to the platform to see him off. He had leaned down to look through the car windows and wave goodbye to her. The face that he saw had a horror stamped upon it. She could see what he could not—the awful Limited roaring round the curve behind the Local.

In another minute or so, young Rawl was hurled out of the train upon which he had just embarked and taken meekly back home. He was not dangerously hurt, but was severely bruised and pounded.

Dr. Shank of South Pasadena had an experience somewhat similar; he had boarded the train at Glendora and had not had time to take his seat when the collision came.

The brakeman of the local had a hairbreadth escape from death. He was standing on the back platform and slid off just in time. He would have been crushed to a jelly had he waited. The platform upon which he was standing is now a tousled mass of splintered and blackened wood.

Both engineers stuck bravely to their trains, the engineer of the Limited at the risk of his life.

WEIRD NIGHT SCENE.

Both trains were, of course, filled with people. They poured out in crowds by the track side. The passengers in the Limited were mostly unhurt, but the local coaches looked like hospitals. People were lying across the seats, groaning.

Wrecking crews were at once started from either end of the division. One wrecking crew was working over the smashed freight cars at Corona. They were at once hurried across to the new scene of disaster.

As night came on, great gas torches were lit at intervals along the track and the great wrecking machines worked weirdly in this wan, uncertain light. In this strange, wavering light the Limited engine looked like a grim monster with its jaws fastened into the vitals of the rear car of the local.

Ladies from the town came down with steaming hot coffee and enticing sandwiches for the prisoners of the Overland.

The girls from the packing-house, repenting of their hysterics, sent out luscious oranges; so it wasn't so bad, after all.

Many of the eastern people regarded it as rather a lark and went back to the Pullmans finally and went to bed.

CARING FOR WOUNDED.

But on the work trains came surgeons from every quarter. The first man on the ground was a doctor from Azusa, about three miles away. The work trains, however, brought the Santa Fé surgeons from the city.

The wounded were put aboard a special and some of them brought to the city. Others were taken to their friends in Glendora.

Two who were slightly hurt were handsome young women slightly cut about the face with glass. One was jabbed under her extremely picturesque chin.

On the Limited were a number of Los Angelenos; still more Angelenos on the local. They could not see their way clear to spending the night on a siding at Glendora even if it did give forth sandwiches and oranges.

The livery stable in Glendora did the business of its career. Eleven different parties took teams and drove across country to Monrovia. One man had a sick wife. He was anxious to beat the wild rumors into the city. He did.

All evening passengers kept dashing to the telephones ringing up their friends to assure them of their safety.

Meanwhile the wrecking crews had been working to good effect.

The cars on the Limited had been uncoupled from the engine and backed off down the track to a siding.

The engine of the Limited was jammed so tightly into the rear of the local that a switch engine pulled the whole train to a side track by coupling on the engine, and making it pull the train by its buried nose.

No trains could get through until very late at night, when the track was clear.

CLOSED LIKE A CLAM.

The Santa Fé, which has usually been pretty frank, closed up like a clam. No outsiders were allowed to go out on the emergency trains. The train crews were positively forbidden to say a word. Consternation reigned when it became known that The Times had secured the report made by the engineer of the Limited to the train surgeons.

The men about the station, telegraph employees, etc., were sour and disagreeable. Even the passengers were hushed up by every possible means. They were begged to make no statements; even were asked, not to give their names.

It was learned that the Overland had been expected to pass the local at Azusa, but had made so much time that it made up the distance between the two trains too soon—hence the crash and the disaster.

In spite of the efforts of the Santa Fé to suppress the news and to stop the leaks in every direction, Times reporters and artists were on the spot from the moment of the accident until the wreck had been entirely cleared away.

The sketches were made on the spot and the account of the wreck got from the statements of passengers and eye witnesses.

MARVEL AT THEIR ESCAPE.

CRASH THE FIRST WARNING TO REACH PASSENGERS.

South Pasadena Man Hadn't Reached His Seat After Boarding Train When He Was Hurled Against Seat—Mail Clerk on Limited Had Just Stepped from Place of Danger.

Thrilling tales of narrow escapes were told by the passengers on the local. In every case they had no warning of the train that was bearing down upon their train from the rear, and it was a marvel to all of them that they had escaped serious injury or even death.

J. W. Shenk of South Pasadena, one of the most seriously injured, said:

"I had come up to Glendora this morning to spend the day there. When I stepped on the evening train for Los Angeles I never saw nor heard a train behind us.

"I hadn't reached my seat when a terrible crash came and I was thrown with tremendous force against one of the seats.

"I was not exactly unconscious, but what happened shortly afterwards I do not know, in a sort of daze I can remember hearing shrieks and cries from the passengers, but when I fully came to my senses I found myself lying stretched out on some broken seats."

AS SEEN FROM LIMITED.

J. H. Lederle of Boston, a passenger on the Limited:

"I saw the smoke of the departing train just as we rounded the curve leading to the next station, which I afterward found to be Glendora. Of course, at the time I was not thinking of such a thing as a collision, for I supposed the departing train was on a siding, and not until our car came out upon the straight track did I realize that we would collide with the train ahead. It was too late to stop or even to attempt to, for we were going at a very high rate of speed and were upon the local before an accident could be prevented.

Miss Mary Daniels of Los Angeles had been spending the day at Claremont and had boarded the local train for Los Angeles. She says the wreck was "the most terrible experience of her life."

Miss Daniels is a piano teacher and a very talented pupil of Herr Becker of this city and was returning from her music class at Claremont.

Prof. Phebe Spalding of Pomona College gives as her experience: "The first warning that I had," she said, "was when a gentleman who was sitting in the seat opposite was thrown violently with great force against me. I was sitting in the back seat of the second car from the rear when the accident happened. The fact that I was in the back seat, which is more stationary than the rest, probably accounts for my escape from injury."

MAIL CLERK'S ESCAPE.

P. E. Vestal, railway mail clerk on the Limited: I had just finished sacking the mail for Pasadena and had gone up toward the front of the car. If I had been still working on the mail among the racks, I would surely have been killed.

"The shock of the collision threw me flat on the floor. The mail car was next to the engine, and I got the full force of it.

"We were running very fast. I should say it was as fast as sixty miles an hour, but at least fifty.

"Had it been on any other train than the Limited, the disaster would have been far worse. The fine equipment saved it from becoming a fatal wreck.

"Had the Pullmans been old cars like the mail car in which I was riding, it might have been appalling.

"I must say, I have been expecting one of these mail cars to be wrecked. It is shameful that the mail equipment is not improved."

C. M. Barbery and wife of No. 519 Oakland avenue, South Pasadena, were sitting in the second car from the rear when the crash came.

Mr. Barbery, suffering from a severe cut on the forehead, said: "The train we were on had just started up from Glendora when the awful crash came, without any warning, whatever. I was thrown forward against the seat in front of me, striking my head against it with such force as to cause the deep cut. My wife's lips and face were also cut by falling glass."

HOODOO OF HYPES.

CHICAGO MAN'S PERPLEXITIES

Among the passengers on the wrecked Limited was W. F. Hypes, treasurer of the Chicago Commercial Association, speeding to Los Angeles to join the junketing party of the organization which is making a tour of the Southwest.

The succession of misfortunes which have beset Mr. Hypes in his attempts to join the junketing party of the on the western trip, have amounted almost to a prime hoodoo.

Setting out with the delegation of association representatives to make a close study of the commercial possibilities of this territory from a Chicago point of view, Mr. Hypes was called back from Albuquerque through the death of Marshall Field, of whose mammoth Chicago establishment he is one of the directors and sales manager.

Following the obsequies of the eminent philanthropist, Mr. Hypes planned to attach himself once more to the party at Los Angeles in time to liquidate the bills of the trip, which are at no time light. It was to join the party last night, prior to the departure for the North over the Southern Pacific Valley line, that he was hurrying westward on the Limited.

Then came the wreck and the consequent delay. In the meantime his companions on the two special Pullman coaches attached to the valley train in the Arcade depot pulled nervously at their watches as the hours passed and no Hypes showed up with bulging money bags. They could not imagine what was delaying him for they knew he was on the train due to arrive in the afternoon.

Finally to their astonishment, they were handed a telegram from Mrs. Hypes more than two thousand miles away advising them that her husband was in a wrecked train not more than fourteen miles from Los Angeles, and pleading with them to ascertain whether or not he was among the dead or injured. The news had come to Mrs. Hypes through a press dispatch to Chicago before it reached his friends through railway sources here in Los Angeles.

THUGS ROB AT GATE OF ASCOT.

SLUG STREET CAR CONDUCTOR AND TAKE VALUABLES.

Two Hold-up Men, Lying in Wait, Knock Victim Insensible as He Leaves Trolley at End of Line, Leaving Him Prostrate—Company's Cash and His Belongings Gone.

Conductor L. A. Hillis of the Central-avenue line of the Los Angeles Railway Company was slugged and beaten until he was unconscious and was robbed of about $15 by two thugs at the end of the line last night at 11:30 o'clock.

When the car reached the end of the line at the corner of Slauson and Central avenues, just at the entrance to Ascot Park, the conductor stepped inside the gate to the faucet to get a drink of water. He says he saw no one as he entered, but just as he turned to leave the place two thugs stepped out of the shadow and ordered him to throw up his hands.

Hillis showed fight, and one of the thugs struck him on the side of the head with a club, knocking the conductor down, and then he was clubbed until he was unconscious, to an accompaniment of oaths and kicks from the Ascot thugs.

The helpless conductor was left lying prostrate and unconscious on the ground and when he came to all the money he had in his pockets, nearly all of which belonged to the company, was gone, as were his watch and some other small articles of value to him.

He managed to crawl to the gate but was too dazed to stand or really tell in which direction he was going and went toward the gate more from instinct than anything else. Just outside the gate his motorman found him and assisted the injured conductor to the car and carried him back into the city.

THE INFLUENCE OF WHAT WE EAT.

Young People Especially Are Susceptible to This Influence—The Secret o Health.

"The nourishment taken by body and mind, the extent to which this nourishment is assimilated, the form and proportions in which it is taken into the system, the amount of food and drink consumed, and the care given to the body and its various functions—all profoundly affect the health," says a recent editorial in "Good Housekeeping," that great authority on matters pertaining to the home. "Some individuals think they can abuse the laws of nature with impunity, but even generous endowments of physical vigor eventually succumb, while the great mass of people, especially the young, are peculiarly susceptible to the food they consume."

As "Good Housekeeping" in an editorial suggests, health depends not so much on the nourishment taken into the stomach as on the extent to which this nourishment is taken up by the system. Malta-Vita, the perfect malted whole-wheat food, so rich in nourishment, containing every food element necessary to the sustenance of the human body and mind, is readily assimilated, even by the weakest stomach, because of the large percentage of Maltose, or malt sugar, which it contains. Maltose is a natural sweetening agent and forms rich, healthy blood.

Malta-Vita is especially beneficial for children and it is a good to eat—not at all like the tasteless variety of breakfast foods—that the whole family welcome its appearance on the table. Always ready to eat. Now for sale by all grocers.

FOR SALE—HOMES.
Have you?
If not, why not?
What?
Why of course!
What I want to Know is,
Have you bought a lot
In the
J. G. TRACT.
Best on the market
For the money,
All complete.
Really, if you want To make some quick
These lots, at once.
The above is just a little side talk which, acted upon, will bring you a golden mine. What I really intend to advertise today is
—HOUSES—HOUSES—and each one in this list is all that I say of it.

FIRST IS $1200.
On Normandie near Washington, has six large rooms, modern as to plumbing and finish, and very well worth the asking price. Lot 50x125.

SECOND IS $2500.
Contains 7 rooms, built about 2 years ago and built to last. Although the lot is but 37x185, yet the property's cheap at the price when location is considered. It's on Bonnie Brae near Fourth st.

THIRD IS $4000.
And is, I presume, about as good a bargain as one can find in the Los Angeles market. It's a 1½-story cottage, with 6 large rooms, hall and bath and would probably cost $2500 to build. The lot's worth $2500; therefore whoever gets this place at $4000 is certainly making a good investment. Lot 50x175; location on Winfield st. near Union. Better look this up at once for substantial worth.

FOURTH IS $4150.
Contains 10 rooms (4 with oak floors.) lot is 50x155, located on Hoover near 19th; a 10-room house on 18th and Hoover for $4150 ought to be interesting. It seems to me.

FIFTH IS $4400.
On Arlington ave. near 25th; cement front; has 8 rooms, 2-story, modern, recently completed; conveniently arranged; close to car lines; lot 50x150.

SIXTH IS $4500.
And is a perfect gem of a home. One of those artistic bungalows, containing 6 large, airy, well-lighted rooms, elegantly finished, built-in buffet, heavy plate glass windows, good oak floors, a sort of symposium in wood—that last expression ought to sell the place. Would sell this place completely furnished at the sacrifice price of $5000. On El Molino st., with east front. Will take $1000 cash, unfurnished, or $1250 cash, furnished. Balance monthly.

SEVENTH IS $5500.
2 stories, 7 rooms and hall, oak floors, modern, substantial, and worth the money. Lot 50x160 on Romeo near Adams.

Now just a word. Everything I've advertised is worth the money, and if you're interested in buying a lot or house and lot I believe 'twould pay you to investigate these properties, and don't forget to tell your friends about the great advantages to be gained by securing one of these sightly, choice,
desirable,
valuable, money-making
lots in the
THREE O TRACT.
for which I am the sole agent.

FOR SALE—
CONCERNING JEFFERSON STREET.

I believe that history repeats itself in real estate as well as in other departments of economics. I believe that what has happened in real estate in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and other large eastern cities will happen in Los Angeles, when this city assumes the proportions of a metropolis (or half a million or more. I know that certain set and definite things will come to pass, in spite of where the "boring crowd" is running today, or where some group of speculators is planning to lead it tomorrow.

Business streets are not accidents. There is a law governing their formation as certain as the law of gravitation, and their development can be foreseen unerringly by those who look carefully enough.

JEFFERSON ST. has ALL the earmarks of a future great business street. Its location is ideal for the purpose. It is one of the straightest and most level thoroughfares in this town. It is located a full mile from any other crosstown business street. It is far enough from the down-town center to serve the present needs and "secondary business center," where will in the future years be congregated banks, depots, theaters, goods stores, furniture stores, and the like, in addition to groceries, drug stores, etc.

My predictions haven't any particular merit, except that they generally come true. Just a year ago I made some about Pico st., and if you will look up the "Business Property" columns of this paper during last March, you can judge; in the light of subsequent events and rise in values on that street, whether I talk wind or facts. I say now that EIGHT MONTHS hence property on JEFFERSON between Main and Grand, will cost not less than $10 a foot, and between Grand and Figueroa, $15 a foot. If you don't believe that is conservative now, you will LATER.

Just at present I have 50-foot lot near Main that I will sell for $60 a foot.

Also a lot 50x150, Figueroa, for FORTY-FIVE DOLLARS a foot. And it takes only $1200 cash. That's the kind of bargain one picks up only once or twice a year.

Also a lot 51x150, near Grand, south side, for $2250. It's the only vacant lot for sale on the south side of JEFFERSON, between Main and Figueroa.

Also corner on Del Monte, 50x150, with 5-room house for $3750. Cheapest corner on JEFFERSON.

If you can find any other agent or owner who will match these prices on JEFFERSON, go right along and buy from him.

RALPH SULLIVAN.

FOR SALE—
BEST BARGAIN ON WASHINGTON.
$214—50x150, with 5-room modern house, worth $1200.

512 EAST WASHINGTON.

Just 30 feet west of the corner of Central. The corner diagonally opposite is over $100 a foot, and a vacant lot a little west is $75 a foot. That is why I regard prices with more than a shade of doubt. This property is opposite the fine pressed-brick building of the Hartly Dye Works and is ripe for an immediate business improvement—being one of the best business locations on East Washington. By expending $2000 addition for stores in front, it would easily come to yield OVER THIRTEEN PER CENT.

I know EXACTLY what I am talking about when I say that it is the BEST INVESTMENT NOW OFFERED ON WASHINGTON, which is rapidly becoming a lively business street around San Pedro, Griffith and Central. Don't you think it would be a good idea to shop around and find out if this IS the cheapest thing on Washington?

I'm certainly going to sell it this month, and you might as well have it as someone else.

No Run-off—Good for Crops.

"Abundant rains have fallen over the whole section covered by the reports, and have been of marked benefit to all crops, which in some localities were feeling the effects of continued drought," says the weekly climate and crop service bulletin of the Weather Bureau for Southern California. "The rain fell so moderately that there was little or no run-off, and the maximum of benefit was realized. Grain and grass are reported to be in excellent condition in most localities, and seeding will be stimulated by the rain. The olive harvest is in progress, a good crop being reported. Orange shipments have been checked by the rain, though not entirely suspended, but they will be resumed soon. The crop is of good quality."

Pair of Park Orators Who Had Good Supply of Money Arrested for Indulging in Gabfest.

Two more of the wild orators who make a practice of holding forth beneath the "tree of knowledge" in Central Park are entangled in the net of the law. Park Officer Shibley yesterday arrested A. J. Preston and P. Castron beneath the renowned tree and sent them to the Central Police Station.

Officer Shibley says Preston has been hanging around the park for some time and has disregarded his warnings regarding the law governing the delivery of orations in the park, persisting in talking against the government—"talking treason," as the officer put it.

At length the situation become unbearable, and Shibley arrested Preston while he was delivering some of his socialistic or anarchistic addresses, and charged him with disturbing the peace. Castron was doing the same thing, but to a much less degree than Preston. At the station Preston pulled out a large roll of new $20 bills and put up $50, while Castron furnished $25 bail. They will be arraigned this morning before Justice Rose in the Police Court.

Preston is an elderly man, and at the sergeant's desk declared he had never been arrested before; that if this was a free country he had a right to talk as he pleased in a public place. When he found that his protests were of no avail and that it was a case of going to jail or furnishing bail money, he fished out the thick roll of bills in a hurry and left the station on the double-quick.

TRAGEDY DAM IN HOT FIGHT.

Annual "Personal Inspection" Again Tomorrow.

"Let the Road Move," Says Owner Sanford.

Picturesque Early Day Relic Has a History.

The annual row over Sanford's old log dam near Playa del Rey is here again to usher in the rainy season.

That picturesque old ruction is about to take a new and abrupt turn after years of squabbling. The fight to destroy the old landmark will be carried into the courts.

Every year regularly the Board of Supervisors has made a "personal inspection" into the reported riotous misconduct of Sanford's log dam. The Supervisors make "personal inspections" until they go out of office; then other boards of supervisors take their places and make like inspections.

What may be the last one will come tomorrow morning with half the administration of the county there—surveyors, District Attorney, Supervisors and others.

Sanford's neighbors claim that his dam floods the whole countryside into a vast lake—ruins grain fields, endangers the lives of cattle, makes the public road a bog hole out of which vehicles have to be pulled by the hair, ranchmen rushing to their rescue with teams.

LET ROAD MOVE, SAYS HE.

Sanford claims that his dam has been there for forty-six years—before the country road was ever heard of. He declines to move; let the road move if the dam bothers it.

It is one of the half-pathetic features of the encroachment of this new civilization of tenderfeet and real estate agents upon the old-time things—the story of the West in miniature.

What is now the Sanford ranch is part of a grant of 4000 acres taken for 75 cents an acre by the historic "Bill" Sanford, who built the first wharf at San Pedro and who was blown up in the Ada Hancock explosion—his own steamer.

The present owner of the ranch, George A. Sanford, was taken there as a baby. When he grew up, his uncle the famous "Bill," gave him this place of some hundreds of acres.

IN DESPERATE DAYS.

When this squabbled-over dam was first put in, the country from what is now Playa del Rey to the foothills was a vacant desert. Ranch land was being cultivated on Second and Third streets in Los Angeles.

The halfbreed Mexicans resented the arrival of this first white family. The Sanford cattle were run off; the feet of the Sanford hogs were cut off; their fences were demolished.

Some of the half-wild halfbreeds swore that the Sanfords could plant but could reap no crops. It meant garnering crops with guns.

On one occasion, Sanford's father was set upon by three Mexican desperadoes coming from Los Angeles to his home. They rode round and round him at full speed like Indians; but he killed two of them and wounded the third, who turned out to be one of the ferocious murderers of John Rains—the most shocking of all the early-day tragedies.

Rains had been dragged to death with lassoes and his body flung into a cactus bed.

Through a hundred tragedies, this ranch and this old dam have lived.

It went through the year of the great drought, when thousands of horses were driven over the cliffs at Redondo to save them from dying of thirst. The Sanford horses were saved that year by being driven north.

COLLECTS FAR WATERS.

Even the flood waters from his old log dam have caused tragedies on the ranch. Sanford claims that if his dam really does misbehave, he is the principal sufferer by it. His own acres are under three or four feet of water half the winter. His cattle are swept away and sometimes drowned on their own pastures.

He has employed one of the greatest lawyers in Southern California to fight for the old log dam.

The petitioners against it are the Machadoes, old Spanish settlers of that valley, Joseph Mesmer and some ten others.

The dam itself is a picturesque barrier of cottonwood logs thrown across Baliona Creek, a stream of which most residents here have never heard.

It collects the water for a radius of fifty miles—from the little cañons back of the Soldiers' Home; some of the storm water of Los Angeles flows into it. Then it is a raging flood.

In summer it used to be a pretty respectable stream, but now it has dwindled down to a few feet of running water, sweeping through the tules, Sanford claims that his dam is necessary to collect this summer stream.

He tells a most astonishing story of his precious creek.

It was after a heavy earthquake a few years ago that the stream suddenly shrunk to half its size. Sanford believes that it now flows into some fissure of the earth and disappears.

The owner of the dam, which he is preparing to defend so zealously, is a mild, half-shy, middle-aged man, with a long gray beard and twinkling, quick eyes.

SECRET ORDERS FAIL TO FUSE.

HITCH IN PLAN TO COMBINE LOCAL FRATERNAL BODIES.

Individual Societies Would Not Relinquish Pet Features and the Project Died—Report That Sam J. Chappel is to Become Head of the United Patriots is Denied.

The shake-up which was recently experienced by the Fraternal Brotherhood, resulting in the retirement of several of the supreme officers and the withdrawal from the order of Assistant Supreme, President Sam J. Chappel, has brought about much gossip in regard to other fraternal orders operating in this field.

Los Angeles is the national headquarters for several fraternal insurance societies. Some of them are of several years' standing, and others have only recently entered the insurance arena. All of them have ambitions.

A proposition has been that these orders unite in one body, adopt the features which were common to all, and then select from the various policy forms the features which have proved the best business winners, combining them in the new policies of the amalgamated order.

The prospect for the fusion looked promising for a time, but finally fell through, as each society had certain points which it did not care to surrender.

A report was current yesterday that Sam J. Chappel, who last week was elected head of the Royal Court, was about to be made Supreme Patriot Commander of the United Patriots of America—another order with Los Angeles as its birthplace. It was current gossip that J. Irving McKenna, who is now Supreme Patriot Commander, and was the organizer, was to step aside for Chappel, and that Chappel would bring to the United Patriots at least 500 dissatisfied members of the Fraternal Brotherhood.

This is declared to be untrue at the offices of the United Patriots. Supreme Patriot Commander McKenna yesterday declared that the order had no plans for merging with any other body, and that it would continue along the original lines; that there would be no change in the personnel of the supreme officers, so far as he was aware. He admitted, however, that overtures had been made to Chappel to become an organizer for the society, but stated that the order could not pay the price demanded by Chappel.

In the top floor of the Bryson building, the Royal Court is fitting up its supreme offices, and there Chappel has taken up his headquarters. He stated yesterday that the plan of uniting fee of $50. This money was not refraternal societies had fallen through, and that it was his intention to devote all his energies to building up the Royal Court.

CHICAGOANS DEPART.

Members of the Chicago Commercial Association, who arrived here Friday to get, in closer touch with the commercial interests of this section, left for the North last night, having visited Santa Ana during the day. They expressed themselves as highly pleased with the success of their efforts thus far.

W. M. Thompson, chairman of the association, declares that the trip has been productive of a close friendly acquaintance which will undoubtedly result in a great mutual good to all interests concerned.

At San Diego the members of the association won the hearts of the natives for all time to come by pledging them their individual and combined support and influence for the securing of an extension of the Rock Island Railway from Texas to San Diego

Leaving last night over the Southern Pacific, the members of the party will stop off at the valley cities en route to San Francisco, and, returning by the Coast line, will pass through Los Angeles again on their way home, on the last day of the month

UGLY SLAP AT MEDICAL BODY.

State Examiners are Accused of Unfairness.

Favoritism Alleged in Awarding of Licenses.

Flunk Candidates to Limit the Supply of Doctors?

Ugly charges of unfairness and favoritism are made against the methods of the State Board of Medical Examiners in conducting the examinations of applicants for licenses to practice in California. Candidates allege that they are not given a fair show to gain access to the ranks of the profession in this State.

At the same time, it is said the law is such that there is no hope for a change in the situation. Aspirants for the professional mantle of a physician say their only relief lies in an aroused public sentiment that will result in a repeal of the law conferring the powers on the medical examiners.

The members of the board are appointed by the different medical societies of the State and it is charged that these members have orders to flunk a certain percentage of each batch of applicants in order that the medical profession may not become overcrowded.

According to the rules of the board, if any applicant falls below 50 per cent. in any one subject he is denied a license, no matter how high his general average. As there are a thousand and one catch questions that may be asked it is claimed to be no difficult matter to "flunk" a candidate in some subject.

It even is said that the different examiners take turns in disqualifying applicants.

In some instances, dissatisfied ones claim, the board has not thought it worth while to take the trouble of "flunking" them in the examinations, but has simply passed resolutions denying licenses on one ground or another.

Seven graduates of the local College of Physicians and Surgeons were turned down at the meeting of the State board last summer on the ground that their diplomas had not been filed in time, although each was allowed to take the examination and to pay the funded, and, when two of the unsuccessful applicants again went to San Francisco to take the examination over again, they were required to pay another examination fee.

FEE GOES TO BOARD.

This fee does not go into the State treasury, but into the treasury of the board. Members of the board claim the money paid in examination fees is used to carry on the work of the board, and in the prosecution of persons practicing without license.

One particularly flagrant case is cited where a candidate for a State license a man already holding a license to practice in the State of Missouri, was refused a license on the plea that his credentials were not correct, and, after making a second trip to San Francisco in response to a letter from the secretary of the board, stating that his papers were now filed in regular form, was again turned down on the same plea, and sent away without the desired license. In each case he was charged $30 for the privilege of being refused a license and of standing the expense of a trip to San Francisco and back.

After returning to Los Angeles he secured a position in the office of a local physician, where the detective of the board traced him and secured his arrest on a charge of practicing medicine without a license. The tactics employed by the detectives caused considerable indignation. The man rushed into the office late one evening when the physician was out, and told the young assistant that he was suffering from an acute attack of stomach trouble. The young man wrote out a prescription for him, but declined to take any pay, stating explicitly that he was not a licensed physician and could make no charge.

The next day he was arrested and charged with practicing medicine without a license. A prominent criminal lawyer took up the case and secured an acquittal.

OF WIDE REPUTE, FAILS.

Another example of the way in which the examiners carry on their business is quoted. A prominent eastern physician, a man with a national reputation as a pathologist, was before the board for examination. Although he is the author of works used as textbooks on pathology in many prominent medical colleges, he was failed in the very subject which he had been teaching for years.

A certain young physician of this city, who has a large and growing practice, was failed twice before he secured his license, and barely escaped that fate a third time. After taking his third examination, and as subsequent events proved, he had again been failed, he went to the examiners and told them he had taken his medicine twice and he thought it was now time for him to be allowed to pass. He received his license, but it was necessary to have several of the examiners raise their markings in order to let him through.

One of the applicants who was "flunked" last year, was told by his attorney when he went north to take his second examination, to take a carbon copy of all questions and answers. This he did in spite of the objections of some of his examiners. Less than an hour after the close of the examination he was congratulated upon his success by one of the members of the board.

Another complaint against the board is that their examinations are not practical ones, and do not really show whether or not the applicant is fitted to practice. It is freely stated that no physician who has been practicing medicine for ten years could possibly secure a license without a great deal of study, while medical students, who are far less qualified to treat diseases, secure their licenses without trouble, if they happen to be in the good graces of the board.

One of the chief grounds for complaint is the alleged readiness of the board to accept the examination fee of the applicants, though it may be a foregone conclusion that he will not be passed.

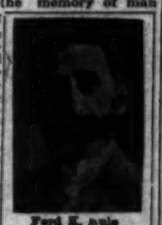
Dr. E. C. Buell, the only local member of the State Board, was out of the city and could not be seen yesterday to tell the "other side of the story."

BEARD AGAIN IN BIG CHAIR?

SHALL WHISKERS BRISTLE ON OUR NEXT MAYOR?

Question Brought up by the "Push" Springing Ford Rule as Candidate for Succession to Smooth-faced McAleer's Place—Says He's Too Busy Just Now.

In the little matter of Mayors Los Angeles has seemed to run to whiskers. Until recently, and for a period so long drawn out that the memory of man shies at going behind it, the municipal trademark consisted of a pair of blazing "mutton-chops" surmounted by a hat, a black Snyderian slouch. A disgust of monetary seizing the people, they exchanged that civic emblem for the bald countenance of McAleer. It has proved unsatisfactory, more or less, and the question now arises, "Shall We Return to Beards?"



Ford K. Rule

Harken!

If the push bosses have their way the next portrait hung up in the artful Gallery of Mayors' Faces will be recognized as that of a real estate man in the Laughlin building—a former railroad treasurer—clubman, societyite and free spender. In short, the chief pushers have hit upon Ferdinand K. Rule.

Saw Ferdinand yesterday afternoon. Said: "Mr. Rule, going to run for Mayor?" E said; "Hoo! Busy. Awfly busy since I left the Salt Lake. Who's been telling?—I mean, what do you think you're talking about? That is to say, I couldn't possibly accept just now. Too busy. Awfly busy since—but, well, six months from now I—might."

"Honor been formally tendered to you, Mr. Rule?"

"No, sir. Originated at the Jonathan Club jinks. Boys had a Christmas tree there, you know. Odd presents on it for everybody. Mine came wrapped in a big banner inscribed:

OUR NEXT MAYOR.

Guess the idea originated there; eh?"

"Yes. And then?

"Why, since then," said Rule, "some—ah, I may say quite a number—of the boys have—well, eh, stopped and shaken hands and congratulated me and, eh, said I was just the man for the place—eh, as it were. You know."

"Sure. But you're too awfly busy to think of such a thing just now, aren't you?"

"W-e-l-l, perhaps not too busy to t-h-i-n-k about it a little, though I am awfly busy since I left the—you know."

"Then you'd accept if the nomination were offered you, wouldn't you, Mr. Rule?"

"Um! If the honor were tendered me just now I certainly would, yes. I certainly would—decline. Too busy, too awfly busy at present time. But six months from now—well, things might change in the meantime, and I might, yes, I surely might, say Yes."

"And you'd make a f-i-r-s-t c-l-a-s-s Mayor, wouldn't you, Mr. Rule?"

"Ah, that's clever of you, 'm sure; awfly clever. Do you think so?"

HARPER MEMORIAL.

A meeting of Baptist ministers was held at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday and steps taken to hold a special service to the memory of the late William Rainey Harper, president of Chicago University. The memorial will probably be held in the First Baptist Church, at a time yet to be fixed, and all educational and religious bodies are invited to cooperate in making it a great success. The following committee on programme was appointed: Mattison B. Jones, Melville Dozier, Rev. W. H. Walker, Rev. A. S. Phelps and Rev. A. Hatcher Smith. Dr. Harper had many warm friends and admirers in Southern California, where he was as widely known as in other parts of the country.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

WHY MIDWAY IS SHUT DOWN.

How Associated Coerced the Santa Fe to Quit.

Loss of Freight the Club to Force Submission.

Railroad Had to Buy All; Why Magnates Sold.

Why did the Santa Fé buy a half interest in the Chanslor & Canfield properties at Midway after a long and patient inquiry as to their value, start up drilling operations on a big scale, announce that an extension would be built from the terminus of the Sunset railroad into the heart of the district, and then not do what it had planned?

Why were there so many months of delay in operations while rumors were circulated that the railroad had bought only a "gold brick," a manifest absurdity so far as the value of the property was concerned?

Why did the Santa Fé then buy the remaining half of the property? Why did it pay a higher price for this than for the first half, and why did it then renounce all its plans for building an extension, remove its material and shut down to await for some developments in the indefinite future?

These are questions which every oil man posted on conditions through California has been asking. For the first time The Times is able here to give the inside history of one of the most extraordinary deals that has yet occurred in what may be called "the oil politics" of California. In answering the questions, answers may also be found to several other questions that have been asked by many, though probably few on the outside suspected that there was any connection between them and the Midway deal.

The chief owners of the Chanslor-Canfield property were Joseph A. Chanslor of San Francisco and C. A. Canfield of Los Angeles, both of whom were among the chief organizers of the Associated, and they are now trustees and directors of the combine, the former being its president. When the Associated was formed they had large interests, including the Midway properties, which they did not put into the combine. An agreement, however, it is reliably stated, was made between them and their colleagues—verbally, it is said—by which they were not to undertake operations in competition with the Associated or to sell their holdings to any one else without first giving the Associated a chance to purchase at whatever price might be offered.

All went well until one morning some six months ago nine directors and trustees of the Associated were surprised to learn through their morning papers over the breakfast table that their esteemed president and his colleague and partner had sold half their Midway holdings to the Santa Fé, and that the district was to be immediately opened for exploitation. Naturally, they were not at all pleased, and at once there came demands upon Messrs. Chanslor and Canfield for an explanation. It is said that the latter offered the excuse that they knew that the Associated would never think of paying the price the Santa Fé had offered, and so they had not considered it worth while to bother their colleagues and disturb their peace of mind over the matter.

"PRESSURE" IS APPLIED.

This explanation was not very satisfactory—eminently unsatisfactory to the other nine directors, in fact. They at once began to take steps for the protection of their interests, and the Santa Fé officials were bluntly told that if they dared to build the proposed extension and operate the Midway wells they might as well abandon forever the hope of hauling another barrel of oil for the Associated where the same could go over the Southern Pacific. Indeed, the Associated would not care very much about seeking business in territory controlled exclusively by the Santa Fé.

About half a million dollars a year goes into the Santa Fé's coffers from Associated freights, and the business is growing, despite the purchase of pipe lines. Then, too, there are various ways in which the Associated-Expos combine could make things unpleasant for the Santa Fé, if it so chose to do. The threat was a powerful one. Once or twice before it had been used effectively. Other big shippers have frequently employed it on railroads all over the country, and it quickly brought the Santa Fé to its knees.

The railroad concluded to do what the Associated asked; that is, to shut down and not build the extension as agreed upon when the purchase was made, thus keeping the oil off the market. But there was more trouble. Messrs. Chanslor and Canfield and their partners refused to agree and insisted that the Santa Fé carry out its agreement, build the line from Sunset and place the Midway oil on the market.

HARMONY(?) AMONG MAGNATES.

Things began to look squally in the inner circles of the Associated. Then it was that the report came out that Messrs. Chanslor and Canfield had sold out their holdings in the combine, and would retire because of difference with their colleagues, the nature of their differences being carefully and effectually concealed. Mr. Canfield did, in fact, sell several very large blocks of stock in this city. For reasons of their own, however, this did not please the other directors, and they informed their colleagues, so it is said, that if they continued to sell to outsiders they would bear the market by cutting off all dividends, selling shares themselves and advertising the fact far and near.

Nor did they confine their threat to words. For almost immediately certificates of stock appeared and were handled in the open market indorsed by Directors M. H. Whittier and Burton E. Green. If necessary, it is said, the unruly directors were told shares would be beared to 5 cents. Then the selling stopped, everybody denied that there had been any sales, and all was apparently peaceful. The powers that be insured outward tranquility, it is believed, by getting an option on all the holdings of those who threatened to sell.

But the Santa Fé was still "between the devil and the deep sea." Neither the Associated nor Chanslor & Canfield would give way. Then the Associated told the railroad that the best thing it could do would be to buy the remaining half of the Midway lands

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Councilmen hope to get even with the Mayor for forcing on them tonight's library investigation by giving him a grilling when he appears as a witness.

Several Councilmen yesterday expressed a willingness to go into a conference with the Mayor over the selection of a municipal board of public works.

Owners of the Imperial Café yesterday received a continuance of one week; if the management of the café is not changed by next Tuesday the liquor licenses are very likely to be revoked.

South Pasadenans filed a suit with the County Clerk yesterday against the Pasadena Land and Water Company, alleging that it has no right to sell its property, as voted by a majority of the shareholders.

Herbert Rose, who was accused of robbery at a grading camp, was found guilty by a jury in Judge Smith's court yesterday of burglary in the second degree.

AT THIS CITY HALL.

HOPE TO GET CRACK AT MAYOR.

COUNCIL READY FOR LIBRARY INVESTIGATION.

Plan to Give Chief Executive Grilling if He Appears as a Witness. Woman Clubdom in Action—Many Ex-Directors Get Subpoenas—Cupids Grin at Prospect.

Immaculate in its spotless coat of white enamel the new Council chamber will tonight receive its christening at the library investigation. If the plaster-of-paris cupids go through the ordeal without cracking or losing their shape the contractor is to receive an extra fee.

Councilmen traveled yesterday in troupes; each required the presence of his brother legislators to keep his courage screwed to the sticking point. Five times the Council has gathered to hold this investigation, and five times the herd has been stampeded by the Friday Morning Club.

After closing time yesterday afternoon the hapless legislators slipped into the Council committee room and there in hushed whispers discussed the situation.

Plainly their sympathies are with the library directors under fire; but they are more afraid of the wrath of the women's clubs than of a Santa Fé application for a spur track.

Six months ago they put off until a remote date the final hearing of the library troubles; now they are bitterly regretting that they have permitted the inquiry to lag until it has run over into campaign year.

They say the Supervisors' troubles over Ascot isn't a circumstance to this.

The Councilman blame it all on the Mayor, and they are planning for their revenge when they get the Chief Executive tonight on the witness stand.

Woman clubdom came forward yesterday afternoon with a list of names of witnesses for whom they desired subpoenas issued. Here is the first installment:

W. B. Mathews, A. W. Fisher, Enoch Knight, Owen McAleer, Frank J. Thomes, Ross T. Hickox, Dr. D. W. Edelman, H. W. O'Melveney, Ferd K. Ruis, Miss Celia Gleason, Rev. C. J. K. Jones, J. Ross Clark, Rev. S. Hecht, W. E. Rodman.

Miss Celia Gleason is first assistant librarian. She was Miss Jones's right bower for four year. She has been fortunate enough to remain in the good graces of the Library Board, although never for a moment swerving from her allegiance to Miss Jones.

Willoughby Rodman is a member of the present Library Board; he is the one director whose removal is not sought by the Friday Morning Club.

With the exception of the Mayor and the City Attorney all the other witnesses are ex-library directors. By them Miss Jones's friends hope to prove that the Library Board could not have had "good cause" for her dismissal.

Red-lipped attendants in the library on the third floor of the City Hall gathered in fluttering groups when opportunity offered yesterday and discreetly gossiped about the coming trial.

Word had been carried to them that subpoenas were issuing in the Clerk's office and each was devoutly hoping to escape the inquisition.

If the Council has its way the hearing with the exception of the cross examination of Mayor McAleer will be a staid presage affair. They hope to confine the investigation to these points:

Was the removal of Miss Jones by the Library Board legal?

Has the public service suffered by reason of the change in librarians?

By confining the hearing to these points they hope to be able to sustain the action of the Library Board without incurring the wrath of woman clubdom.

But woman clubdom asserts that she is not to be appeased by any such arrangement. She has asked that Directors Dockweiler, Trueworthy, Wright and Mansfield to lose their official scalps for aiding and abetting the invasion of man. If she doesn't get this petticoat politics will play a prominent part in the next Councilmanic campaign, so at least asserts that portion of woman clubdom which has remained loyal to Miss Jones.

The attacked directors claim to have secret information to the effect that it is only the froth of the woman's clubs that is taking part in this demonstration against the Library Board. They assert that a majority of the women of the city are satisfied that the change in the management of the library has been for the betterment of the public service.

Mayor McAleer, through his attorney Earl Rogers, Esq., is preparing a surprise for the Council tonight. Mr. Rogers does not purpose to permit his client to undergo a cross examination by Spook Howton and the attorney for the opposition, if he can help it.

It is possible that the Mayor may insist that what he knows is only hearsay testimony and that he is not in the possession of any facts that will assist the Council in making its investigation.

SUGGEST A CAUCUS.

COUNCILMEN READY TO ACT.

Several Councilmen yesterday asserted that they are willing to meet Mayor McAleer half way on any suggested compromise that will lead to the early appointment of a municipal board of public works; apparently they will not run smoothly again until a board of public works is in action or the charter amendment creating such board is repealed. City Attorney Mathews's opinion concerning the legality of the Council's recent actions on demands has rendered the situation highly critical. No one furnishing supplies to the city knows whether he will receive payment for them, and the city's credit is suffering.

Chairman Kern of the Council Board of Public Works said yesterday morning that he has no inclination to tie up the appointment of a municipal board indefinitely.

"I am ready and willing to vote to confirm appointments on the municipal board," he said, "just as soon as suitable names are submitted. I will gladly give way to the municipal board. I am now devoting more time to Council matters than I can afford to take from my own business; my labors will be lessened one half by the municipal board."

Chairman Smith of the Council Finance Committee says that he is willing to confirm the Mayor's appointments, provided they are men qualified by experience to assume the highly responsible duties of the Board of Public Works.

"The present time is especially critical," said Mr. Smith, "for the reason that this municipal board will have sole supervision of the building of the Owens River conduit. Under the present arrangement between the Council and the Water Board, Mr. Mulholland is in charge of that work. I hesitate to turn it over to three unexperienced men on the Board of Public Works.

"I have no names to suggest for places on the board. I do not think that the Council should make any suggestions, the chosing of these men rests with the Mayor. I hope that we can get together on this soon."

One Councilman said he is in favor of a conference between the Mayor and the Council over the selection of the three commissioners of public works. "I believe that if such a conference were held," he said, "we could get together on a board this week. The City Attorney has advised an immediate appointment of a board, and I am ready to help."

ONE WEEK'S GRACE.

IMPERIAL IN TROUBLE.

Through the intervention of Mayor McAleer, the management of the Imperial saloon and restaurant yesterday received one week's grace from the police board.

Commissioners Johnson and Mason were in favor of revoking the café's liquor license on account of the row that occurred in the café last Saturday night. They said that the management has been warned repeatedly, and that it has not heeded the warnings.

Mayor McAleer asked that action be postponed for one week. "The present management is not satisfactory and never has been," said the Mayor, "but I am opposed to taking snap judgment in the case. The proprietors are not saloon men and never will be; they mean well, but they are not the proper persons to conduct a big business like that of the Imperial.

"I know Mr. Nickell, the senior partner, personally; I have known him for years. I think he means well. If we were to revoke these licenses today it would leave his family practically destitute. Nickell has been sick and in the hospital. I want to give him one more week's time to close out his business. He ought to be able to sell to some one who is capable of conducting the business as it should be conducted."

Incidentally, the Mayor sharply criticised a reporter of an evening paper for unprofessional conduct in interviewing the proprietors of the Imperial. The Mayor said that the reporter asked for an interview which would enable him to "knock" the Chief Executive.

After a short informal discussion Commissioners Mason and Johnson agreed to postpone action for one more week; but they stipulated that this is to be the last continuance. The management of the Imperial was warned several weeks ago to sell out under penalty of losing their license.

FAVOR STOCKADE.

POLICE BOARD MISCELLANY.

Recommendation was yesterday made to the Council by the Police Commission that funds be appropriated in the next official budget for erecting stockades in the parks, for the accommodation of transient hobos who get mixed up with the police courts. The commissioners would like to place the hobos and yeggmen at work making roads in the big parks, thereby relieving the congestion at the city prison and at the same time making the transients useful.

Chief Auble yesterday asked the Police Commission to aid in a movement to secure substations at Boyle Heights, and in the northwestern part of the city. The Chief would like to see these improvements included in the list of the ones for which the Council is about to ask a $750,000 bond issue.

"On account of the great growth of the city in recent years this is absolutely necessary," says the Chief in his communication to the Council, "the city has grown rapidly while the police department has practically stood still, the University substation being the only one we have been able to secure."

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

PAPERS FILED IN WATER SUIT.

SOUTH PASADENANS FIGHT THE SALE OF PLANT.

Plaintiffs Allege That Pasadena Land and Water Company Has Not Authority to Sell Property Nor to Cease Existence, as Proposed by Majority of Shareholders.

The long-talked-of suit to be brought by citizens of South Pasadena against the Pasadena Land and Water Company, is at last in actual being. Yesterday Attorneys Helm and Williams filed the complaint with the County Clerk. The plaintiffs as given there are O. W. Orcutt, J. B. Soper, E. H. Lockwood, Leo Longley, Margaret Collier Graham and Merton E. Keith. The first three named are trustees of South Pasadena, and the rest are persons holding land by a mesne conveyance from the old San Gabriel Orange Grove Association.

That association was formed in 1873, and bought 4000 acres of the old San Pasqual rancho. This included the parts of the Arroyo Seco, where Sheep Corral Springs and the Devil's Gate are, and some other water-bearing lands. Fifteen hundred acres of the association's land was divided up into forty-acre tracts and allotted to the stockholders in proportion to the stock held, and the rest of it was kept for the purpose of furnishing water to the divided part. Each share of stock had allotted to it a portion of land, and at the same time it stood for a share of water, so that practically the water went with the land.

The association had a charter for ten years only, so in 1882 the Pasadena Land and Water Company was formed, and in the fall of the next year it acquired all the water rights, works, franchises and property of the old association. The plaintiffs in the present suit claim that it also acquired all the duties of the old concern, and was bound, and is now, to furnish water to the lands comprised in the old San Gabriel Orange Grove Association. This the company has done, and in addition it has supplied other lands, so that it now serves 1508 families in Pasadena and 314 families in South Pasadena.

The plaintiffs in this action claim that the Pasadena Land and Water Company has no authority by law, or any power, to transfer, sell, or even lease its property, and no right to cease to exist. It undertook certain obligations when it assumed the rights and privileges of the association, and those obligations cannot be rescinded without the consent of all the parties affected.

The plaintiffs also state that the City of Pasadena has no right to acquire the plant, and that it cannot legally do so. If it should acquire the property of the company it could not legally furnish water to consumers outside the city limits. This would be in violation of the rights of those who had stock in the old association, who are entitled to water from the plant in virtue of that stock.

There are 2966 2-3 shares of the Pasadena Land and Water Company's stock outstanding. At the meeting held some time ago, 2007 of the shares were voted in favor of the proposition to sell to the city, and 154 against it. The latter shares are nearly all represented by the holdings of the plaintiffs in this action.

HIS HIP INJURED.

WANTS HEAVY DAMAGES.

Oscar Plummer brought suit yesterday before Judge Wilbur to recover $27,200 damages from the Banning Company, with the result that the Judge has a badly tangled legal problem before him. Two years ago Plummer was a stevedore in the employ of the Banning Company at Port Los Angeles. While he was helping to unload freight, a donkey engine was overturned, and Plummer was crushed beneath it.

The foreman, Richard Russell, had ordered Plummer to the position where he was crushed. The flat car carrying the engine was not guyed down, it is alleged, although it was stated that Russell's attention had been called to the fact. The plaintiff relied on these statements to show that the negligence was of the company. The nerves of Plummer's hip were injured and there were graver injuries to the pelvic region.

After the case of the plaintiff had been submitted, the attorneys for the company moved a non-suit, claiming the company was not responsible nor negligent. Judge Wilbur took the motion under submission, and it is probable that the case will not be resumed for ten days.

FACTORY NOT BUILT.

PROMOTER SUED ON DEAL.

The Park Land Company has filed a suit against Edward A. Guthrie, asking for $11,788 damages. The trouble has grown out of a real estate deal which was made in July of last year. Guthrie wanted land for manufacturing purposes, and the land company made him a proposition which he accepted. It offered him certain lots in Vineyard tract No. 1 for $8212, if he would locate there the Western Gas Engine Works.

Guthrie has failed to build and the company is after him. It alleges that the real value of the property sold him was $20,000; that the low figure named was because of his agreement to build, as that would increase the value and sale of the rest of the holdings. Now the company wants the difference between the real value and the price named.

SUIT ON CONTRACT.

CLERK'S ERROR ALLEGED.

Another tale of an option gone wrong is told in the new suit filed yesterday by W. I. Hollingsworth against Joe Mach, to compel fulfillment of a contract. On December 18, 1905, Hollingsworth paid down $100 for the south ninety feet of lot 128 of the Wills and Wicks extension of the Second-street tract, leaving a balance of $2400 to be paid.

Last Friday, while Hollingsworth was away, Mach came to his office and told a clerk, B. O. Miller, that he had already given an option to a man named Panill, and that therefore the option to Hollingsworth was not good. Without authority or instruction, it is alleged, Miller took back the $100, gave Mach a receipt for it, and indorsed the contract with a memorandum to that effect.

Now Hollingsworth wants the action of his clerk declared unauthoritative, and the option considered valid. He has tendered the rest of the purchase price to Mach, who has refused to take it.

OPTION FIGHT.

ALTERATION ALLEGED.

Giving of options seems to be a dangerous practice, to judge by the amount of litigation pending because of faulty or double options.

The latest case in point is the condition revealed in the suit before Judge Bordwell of Mrs. Katherine E. Joliffe against F. J. Steel et al. to quiet title. She gave him an option to the west half of lot 1, West Hollywood, in August, 1904. There was no consideration for the option, and consequently she considered it revocable at will. In November Mrs. Joliffe put some papers, including her copy of the option, in a strong box belonging to Steele. Steele was an old friend, and she trusted him.

The next month she revoked the option, and demanded the return of her papers. She alleges that Steele acknowledged the recision of the option, but delayed the return of the papers until July of last year, when she found that her copy of the option was not there.

When Steele filed his answer to the action for quieting title, he had a different idea of the option from that held by Mrs. Joliffe. In answer to cross-complaint, Mrs. Joliff flatly states that Steele has retained and altered her copy of the option, and that any other form of it than that given by her is fraudulent.

The property in question is valued at $12,500, and is part of the George F. Warner estate. The distribution of the estate was delayed, and that figures in the action in a question of validity of title.

ROSE FOUND GUILTY.

SECOND DEGREE BURGLARY.

Herbert Rose was tried on a burglary charge yesterday before Judge Smith, and the jury found him guilty in the second degree after a brief deliberation. The crime for which he was convicted was committed on the ninth of last December. On that day the bunkhouse at Crandall's grading camp at Fourth and Commonwealth streets was entered, and clothing, two watches and two pairs of cuff links were abstracted. The articles were the property of Frutoso Lopez and J. Montana.

That same day Rose sold the things to Reuben Axcelrod, a second-hand dealer of Los Angeles street. Detectives Steele and Craig captured Rose and he confessed to them that he had entered the bunkhouse and taken the goods.

The trial was carried on under considerable difficulty. Axcelrod is an old, shrunken man, who is almost absolutely deaf, and speaks only German and Yiddish. His testimony was vital, and it was only with the greatest effort that anything could be extracted from him. The defense was helpless in the face of his stolid indifference. Judge Smith and the various attorneys yelled down Axcelrod's speaking trumpet when the interpreter got exhausted, and before he was dismissed from the stand everyone connected with the case was red in the face from unwonted lung exercise.

Axcelrod seemed to be deafer for the defense than for the prosecution, and Attorney Hupp had the time of his life with him.

DIVORCE DENIED.

ASCOT SPORTS INTERESTED.

Ascot and Ascotism figured again in a divorce case yesterday—that of Elizabeth Ott against Andrew G. Ott, before Judge Monroe. Mrs. Ott alleged extreme cruelty, and her story on the stand was pitiful. The Otts were married in 1899. In July of last year Mrs. Ott could no longer stand the abuse of her husband, so she said, and left him, earning her living as a dressmaker.

Ott contested the suit and filed a cross-complaint, charging that his wife spent his money betting at Ascot in company with a young man. By a roundabout method he also charged her with unfaithfulness. On the stand Ott denied all the allegations of cruelty.

Judge Monroe denied a decree to either party. In doing so he scored Ott heavily for entering a cross-complaint such as he did without sufficient ground, and intimated that had Mrs. Ott's testimony been more fully corroborated she would be entitled to a decree.

COMPLAINT REACTS.

INSANITY CHARGE DISMISSED.

"Swearing out a complaint alleging insanity is a serious matter," said Judge Gibbs yesterday, in dismissing the complaint against Mrs. Delia Rice, "and I do not know but that it would be well to call the attention of the District Attorney to this matter."

Edwin A. Ferguson made the complaint against Mrs. Rice. He is her husband's business partner. What basis he had for supposing Mrs. Rice was insane did not appear during the examination.

It was stated that Mrs. Rice had broken a door. The defense set forth that she was trying to escape from her drunk and brutal husband, who was beating her. She ran down a hall, and he caught her at the door, breaking the glass in the upper part of it with his own shoulder as he pulled her away.

STILL ON WAR PATH.

WIFE'S FRENZIED CHARGES.

Mrs. Sophia Adler has again intruded her woes into the workings of the courts. Since her husband got a divorce in an action before Judge Trask, she has written several times to the judge, trying to show that she is a much-abused woman. She made a spasmodic effort to have the case reopened, and then subsided.

Now she has broken out in a new spot. County Clerk Hayes and Judge Trask have received letters from her at Baltimore. In them she states that her divorced husband went down to Mexico on Christmas Day and got married to a girl from San Francisco. In support of her allegation she inclosed a postal sent to her children, which she said came from Adler at the City of Mexico. The postal bears a Tia Juana postmark.

Both letters ramble on with many repetitions of the word "bigamy." While Adler would be guilty of bigamy if he married again, as the decree is not yet absolute, the District Attorney's office will make no move in the matter. Mrs. Adler's reputation for veracity has been extremely strained.

YEAR IN PRISON.

M'LANE PLEADS GUILTY.

C. A. McLane changed his mind yesterday and pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery before Judge Smith. McLane, a grading contractor, who lives in Court Circle, has been in trouble before on account of various fictitious checks that he is said to have passed. Some time ago he passed two bad checks, aggregating $14.00, on Lee Levalley, a grocer and butcher at No. 631 Sunset boulevard. The checks were signed with the name of C. A. Cicel, said to be a resident of Ocean Park. Patient search failed to reveal a man of that name, and McLane was arrested for forgery.

After McLane pleaded guilty, he asked the court to send him to San Quentin. Judge Smith complied with the request, ordering that McLane be confined there one year.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

ANKLES BROKEN. About a year ago, E. T. Bryan, a farmer 66 years old, while walking along Second street past the Hollenbeck Hotel, fell into a hole in the sidewalk. The excavation was not properly guarded, he says. Both of his ankles were broken and he was otherwise bruised, for which he wants $10,000 and has begun suit against the Hollenbeck Hotel to get it.

ADULTERY CHARGED. Two couples, E. H. Johnson and Ella Judson, and John McCaleb and Vina Wilson, were yesterday arraigned before Justice Young on a charge of adultery. All four are married, but have separated from their partners. They were held in bail of $2500 each, in default of which they went to jail. The complaining witness was William Vacher, and it is said that the women arrested are to be witnesses for his wife in a coming divorce suit.

MILLIONS IN IT. The Coalinga Consolidated High Gravity Oil Company yesterday filed papers, with the following directorate: J. R. Johnson, E. A. Meserve, L. S. Chandler, J. P. Chandler and Shirley C. Ward, all of Los Angeles. The capital stock is $2,000,000, and $1400 of that has been paid up.

TO PATTON. Louis Bosky, an Austrian nearly 50 years old, was yesterday committed to Patton by the Insanity Commission sitting before Judge Gibbs. Bosky had the usual delusion of people following him and trying to kill him. He has been in California eighteen years, during which time he has saved nearly $2000 from his wages.

MORE DIRECTORS. The Metropolitan Bank and Trust Company has filed with the County Clerk notice that it has increased the number of its directors from nine to fifteen.

NEW PAPERS. The Yucca Mining and Milling Company, which filed its articles Monday, yesterday put in new papers with a change in the directorate. Charles L. Bachellar of Los Angeles is substituted for Robert T. Jones of New York. The capital stock of $1,000,000, with $604 subscribed, remains the same.

REAL ESTATE. Godfrey Edwards, Harry L. Winters and Otto G. Wildey, all of Los Angeles, have filed the articles of the Edwards & Winters Co., a new real estate firm. The capital stock is $25,000, of which there has been subscribed $300.

UNLIMITED FIELD. The California Home Company has been incorporated to do any kind of business whatsoever. The directors are Clyde P. Campbell, A. F. Blanchard and T. E. Major, all of Los Angeles. The company is capitalized at $75,000, and $300 of that has been paid.

IN POLICE COURT.

PICKPOCKETS TO BE TRIED.

In Justice Chambers's court yesterday James O'Mally and George Hines were examined on grand larceny charges, growing out of their having been caught in the act of picking pockets at the prize fight. They were held in $2500 bail each for trial in the Superior Court.

Dr. C. F. S. Tate and F. A. McDonald each paid a fine of $15 yesterday, which was assessed against them by Justice Rose for speeding their automobiles beyond the legal rate. H. F. Burt put up a fight and will have it out before a jury February 5.

M. Hall and C. Lyons entered pleas of guilty on the charge of gambling, and were fined $25 each.

Chester W. Shry, who was charged with stealing a morning paper from a doorstep, was invited to spend sixty days on the chain gang. If he can dig up the cash at the rate of $1 a day he can go to work for himself.

FEDERAL JUSTICE MILL.

Term Trial Jury Called in the United States Circuit Court—Street Car Conductor Pleads Bankruptcy.

The term trial jury in the United States Circuit Court was impaneled yesterday morning, and thirty-eight men will answer to do duty, if eligible, in hearing the Federal cases.

The hearing of Frank Manha on his petition of habeas corpus will come up before Judge Wellborn tomorrow morning, as the petition was filed yesterday. Manha is now detained in the County Jail.

Michael J. Spillane, a street-car conductor, pleaded bankruptcy in the District Court yesterday. He owes $1880.54—all in debts of various sorts contracted in Colorado, and says that he has no available assets of any sort.

EXIT HOFFMAN.

Officer from Missouri Plays Sourcy Trick on Plucky Wife of Man Wanted for Embezzlement.

The final act in the C. L. Hoffman case was produced yesterday and its chief characteristic was a shabby trick played on Hoffman's pretty wife.

No matter what may be the merits of the case, the woman's pluck and persistence are to be admired, for when she found her husband "pinched" on a charge of embezzlement, coming from St. Joseph, Mo., she at once set to work to secure his release by means of a writ of habeas corpus. Her fight has been persistent and "game," and she held onto her hubby for almost a month.

Yesterday, however, the jig was up, and she knew that Hoffman was to be taken back to Missouri by Deputy Sheriff Wheeler, who came for that purpose.

All she wanted was to have an opportunity to say "good-by," but when she went to the Police Station to see him she found that he had already been taken away. She rushed to the railway station just in time to catch the 2 o'clock train, only to learn there that the officer had bustled her husband on board the 12:10 train, and was already two hours on the way East.

Tighe crumpled up, and as he fell his opponent drove hard to his jaw.

Tighe's seconds could not revive him and he was taken from the ring unconscious. When a physician had failed to revive him, the boy was removed to the hospital.

GADFLY CRACKS TRACK RECORD.

BOOKER'S HORSE CLIPS SECOND FROM WAGNER'S TIME.

Four Sprints Covered in Fast Time. Favorites Take Four Events and First Race Goes to Long Shot at Juicy Odds—Stoessel Furnishes a Surprise at a Mile.

Fast time and the breaking of a track record were the features of the Ascot races yesterday and the favorite players must have done very well, for four post favorites managed to win first money. One overlooked long shot, Marc Lichtenstein, grabbed the first race at the juicy price of 20 to 1, and Stoessel took the fifth at 6 and 5 to 1. In the fourth race The Gadfly clipped a second off the track record, covering the mile and fifty yards in 1:43¾, and after the race, was run up $400 over his entered price of $1000, but was retained by the owner. Stoessel ran a mile in 1:41¼ and Fustian stepped six furlongs in 1:13⅘. The crowd in the betting ring was considerably smaller than it has been for some days.

Results:

Six furlongs: Marc Lichtenstein, 109 (Donvitts,) 20 to 1, won; Coeur de Lion, 109 (Booker,) 11 to 10, second; Katie Crews, 104 (Harris,) 15 to 1, third; time 1:15¾. EMERYVILLE RACING.

TWO GOOD FEATURE EVENTS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—The racing at Emeryville today possessed considerable class. The programme contained two feature events. The fourth race, a handicap at a mile and fifty yards, was won by the favorite, Sir Brillar, in a driving finish, from Sais, a supposedly "good thing." Romaine, at 4 to 1, captured the Hermence Handicap by a neck, from Toupee, the favorite. Four out of the six races were won by favorites. The weather was fine and track slow. Results:

Four furlongs: Peerless Lass, 109 (Robinson,) 6 to 5, won; Yankee Jim, 109 (Fountain,) 11 to 1, second; Menden, 112 (Knapp,) 12 to 5, third; time 0:49⅘. Kogo, Dr. Kismet, Ella True, Rose Cherry and John J. Mohr also ran.

Six furlongs: Procrastinate, 107 (F. Sullivan,) 15 to 1, won; Dr. Sherman, 107 (Fountain,) 15 to 1, second; Alice Carey, 107 (Clark,) 15 to 5, third; time 1:15. The Roustabout, Jake Ward, Tramotor, Cousin Carrie, Pickaway and Hersian also ran.

Mile; Head Dance, 106 (Clark,) 4 to 5, won; Frank Flittner, 83 (Schade,) 12 to 1, second; Christine A., 106 (Robinson,) 3 to 1, third; time 1:42¼. Watchful, Lerida, Silver Heels, Rey Dare, Mr. Farnum and Thaddeus also ran.

Mile and fifty yards: Sir Brillar, 104 (Clark,) 8 to 5, won; Sais, 97 (Carroll,) 9 to 1, second; Gateway, 109 (Robinson,) 9 to 5, third; time 1:44¼. Briarthorpe, San Primo and Bombardier also ran.

Futurity course, the Hermence Handicap: Romaine, 107 (L. Williams,) 4 to 1, won; Toupee, 108 (Clark,) 6 to 5, second; Tom McGrath, 106 (Schade,) 15 to 5, third; time 1:10¾. Dorado and Sir Edward also ran.

Five and a half furlongs: Cloudlight, 105 (Fountain,) 7 to 1, won; Conreid, 105 (L. Williams,) 40 to 1, second; El Dinero, 91 (W. Welly,) 80 to 1, third; time 1:07⅘. Ruby, The Mist, Young Pilgrim and Facts also ran.

CLOSE WORK IN MEXICO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 23.—An unusual number of ties and a difference of only nine strokes between the winning pair and the thirteenth pair was the result of yesterday's golf match in the amateur and professional contests.

W. Smith, Mexico, and A. G. Lockwood, Massachusetts, held the low record of 145; Alexander Campbell, Brooklyn, and F. W. Lewis, Boston, were second with 148. Andrew Kirkaldy and C. E. Cummins scored 155.

MATCH GAME TONIGHT.

The billiard enthusiasts will have another chance this evening to see their favorite game in a match that will be played at Berry's rooms on South Spring street between W. A. Spinks of San Francisco and Frank Keniston of this city. Both of these men are too well known to need any but brief mention. They will play 300 points at 18-inch balk line, beginning at 8 o'clock.

FIGHT CARDS NEXT MONTH.

Local Sports are Promised Two Rattling Bouts.

Herrera-Herman Scrap is an Important One.

Winner of Hart-Burns Go to Meet Kaufmann.

Next month will be the banner "fight" month and it is not likely that Manager McCarey of the Pacific Club can provide two better cards than he offers for the February attractions. Herrera and Herman and Marvin Hart and Burns makes a very strong combination and the fight fans might go far afield and not find such a desirable double bill.

In all probability the Herrera-Herman go will be the most important in a pugilistic way, for the winner will be in line to take on any lightweight in the country and that both men appreciate this goes without saying. The Hart-Burns go is a little different because there are a number of good men that the winner would have to beat before he could be considered the real champion by the majority of sports and for this reason the little men undoubtedly have the right of way over the big ones in the line of importance.

Herman has had but one fight here, with Eddie Hanlon, and while his showing was extraordinarily good in that scrap, he did not make a great amount of reputation because Hanlon never was at the top of the heap or even very close to it. He has had many good fights but is too much of a "gentleman" to make a real champion and really has not enough "style" and finish to be a world beater. Herrera beat him and Herman also did the trick and so if one should judge these two fights alone there is nothing that would give either Herrera or Herman the edge in a meeting between them. Herrera got only a draw and Herman beat Hanlon decisively.

Herman undoubtedly showed the best over Hanlon but in meeting Herrera he will have a different customer to tackle and one that has everything he has and a fearful punch besides. The Mexican is shifty, quick as lightning and can hit hard with either hand, as Terry McGovern can testify to, and in him Herman will probably find the hardest man he has ever been against. Herrera's record should scare any ordinary scrapper for he has more knockouts to his credit than any other fighter in the game. He has won from all kinds of good men and on his known ability should go into the ring a favorite over Herman.

The Kaufmann-Barry scrap last Friday was important principally for the reason that it provided a match for the winner of the Hart-Burns go next month. Manager McCarey was wise in making these two heavy matches so closely together for both winners will be in fair condition after their fights, without going to the expense and trouble of a long season of training. It looks as if Hart would get the better of Burns, if there is any ground for his championship aspirations and he will be a very good man to try out Kaufmann with whom Delaney thinks so much of. Kaufmann's fight with O'Brien was ill-advised and should not have been put through by Delaney, when there are so many easier pugs for the big fellow to make a reputation on. His beating by O'Brien didn't lose him any reputation and what he can make by defeating Hart will put him very near the top of the heap, now that Jeffries is no more to be considered.

BASKETBALL TEAM DISBANDS.

GIRLS OF U.S.C. DECIDE TO GO OUT OF BUSINESS.

First Team Quits on Account of Loss of Two Crack Players—Effort Will be Made to Organize Strong Minor Club—Interclass Meet Set for This Afternoon.

The members of the girls' basketball squad of the University of Southern California held a meeting in the gymnasium yesterday afternoon to consider the feasibility of organizing a representative five to compete in the schedule games. It was finally decided that, owing to the loss of the two forwards of last year's championship team, Misses Payton and Hogan, and considering the inexperience and lightness in weight of all present available material, the first team be disbanded and the schedule of league games be canceled. Oliver Best, who has coached the five so successfully during the past two years, has resigned as coach and manager and Miss Comstock, instructor in outdoor sports for women and an experienced basketball player, will endeavor to build up a creditable second team out of the girls enrolled in the gymnasium classes. Miss Lorraine Montgomery was elected captain of the second team.

Yesterday afternoon the men's intercl...ss championship basketball games were played off. The final game was between the senior-junior college five and the third and fourth academy team, the former winning handily by their superior team work, and accurate goal throwing, the score being, Senior-Junior, 27; Academy, 7.

The line-up was as follows in the final game:

Senior-Junior.		Academy.
O. Best	forward.	C. Prior
H. Willett	forward.	W. Munsen
E. Breitkreutz	center.	G. Prior
W. Lennox	guard.	J. White
W. Carnes	guard.	H. Carmichael

Field goals—Best, 5; Willett, 5; Breitkreutz, 4; C. Prior, 2.

Goals from free throws—Best, 3. C. Prior, 3.

INTERCLASS MEET.

The annual interclass and interdepartment field meet will be pulled off this afternoon on University oval at 3 o'clock. Teams will compete from Liberal Arts, Law, Dental and Academy departments.

ANSON'S TEAM'S BOWLING.

BEST THREE-GAME AVERAGE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Rolling a great series in the Monroe League, last night, the Anson team set a new world's bowling record for three games, averaging 1062. The best previous figures on the books of the American Bowling Congress were 1061 1-3, made by the Bensinger team last year in the Chicago League. The Anson quintette went over the four mark each time, and although scoring 1206 in their second venture, were beaten by two pins by the Hoffmans. The other two games went to the Ansons.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD.

MARRIOT'S FREAK AUTO RACER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ORMOND (Fla.) Jan. 23.—A new world's record for a mile of 32 1-5 seconds was made here today in the opening day of the annual meet, by Marriot in a freak racer in the first preliminary heat for the Dewar trophy. Earp was second.

Marriot, in a steamer, won the one-mile race for the Sir Thomas Dewar trophy in 33 seconds. Cedrino was second in 38 seconds.

Marriot, in a cigar-shaped steam car, made a mile in the class for steam racers in 31 4-5 seconds. This breaks the world's mile record of 32 1-5 seconds, made by Marriot earlier in the day.

Lancia won the heavyweight championship race for gasoline cars, distance one mile: time 37 sec. Fletcher was second in 37 3-5.

ORMOND-DAYTONA MEET.

WORLD'S MILE RECORD BROKEN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HOTEL ORMOND (Fla.) Jan. 23.—The world's record for the mile was twice lowered today in the fourth annual Ormond-Daytona automobile tournament and both times by the same car, the cigar-shaped steamer driven by Fred Marriott. In the first start, the contest for the Sir Thomas Dewar trophy, the racer made the mile in 32 1-5 seconds.

Rain during the morning delayed the starting of the racer, and the course was not in the very best condition for high speeding. In the one-mile international for the Dewar trophy, the preliminary heats were run, Marriott, Lancia and Cedrino qualifying for the final. The second heat was particularly close, only three-fifths of a second separating Lancia and Cedrino for first and second place. In the final Marriott won, going the mile in 33 seconds flat. Cedrino was second and Lancia, owing to the trouble with his car, was unable to start.

In the one-mile heavyweight championship for gasoline cars two preliminary heats were run off, Cedrino, Fletcher and Lancia qualifying for the finals. Lancia won first heat, with Fletcher a close second.

The steamer Saces, driven by Marriott, was the only entry in the one-mile championship for steamers, and did the mile in 31 4-5 seconds, breaking all mile records, including his own former one. The middleweight one-mile championship for gasoline cars went over until tomorrow. The summaries:

One-mile international for the Sir Thomas Dewar trophy: First heat won by Marriott steamer in 32 1-5 seconds; Earp, gasoline, 40 seconds flat. Second heat won by Lancia, gasoline, 37 3-5 seconds; Cedrino, gasoline, 38 1-5 seconds. Final won by Marriott, 32; Cedrino, 38.

One mile, heavyweight championship for gasoline cars: First heat won by Cedrino, 39 3-5; Fletcher second, 39 4-5. Second heat won by Lancia, 42; Earp second, 43 3-5. Final won by Lancia, 37; Fletcher second, 37 3-5.

One mile, steamer championship, one entry: Marriott went the mile in 31 4-5.

At New Orleans Fair Grounds.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23.—Three furlongs: Rose Hart won, Firalto second, Duchess of Montebello third; time 0:37.

Six furlongs, selling: Col. White won, Paul Clifford second, Uncle Henry third; time 1:15.

Two miles: Little Scout won, Capt. Bob second, Louis Krafts third; time 3:26 2-5.

Mile and seventy yards, handicap: Lieber won, Whippoorwill second, Rainland third; time 1:48 4-5.

Six furlongs: First Premium won, Etheired second, Holloway third; time 1:14 1-5.

Prairie Dogs Killed by Soap.

John F. Braun, a farmer near Miltonvale, Kan., had about 100 prairie dogs on his farm and started in to wipe them out. He used traps. After he had caught about thirty the rest got wise and would walk around his traps. Among the thirty was one that the trap didn't injure, and he put it in a cage for a pet. By mistake his children fed the prairie dog in the cage a small pieces about the size of a hazel Within five minutes the prairie dog was dead. Mr. Braun decided to experiment. He cut a bar of soap into small piece about the size of a hazel nut and threw a few pieces into each hole in "dog town." The next day there wasn't a solitary prairie dog left to tell the story. All were dead. Ten cents worth of soap will clear a big farm of prairie dogs.—[Kansas City Journal.

Pen Points

It is not difficult to locate the road houses—they are all on the road to ruin.

What Col. Mann really did was to borrow money from the skeletons in the closets.

Pretty soon it will be a poor Southern California beach town that hasn't its own harbor.

No matter what opinion people may have of his victims, there can be but one opinion of Col. Mann. He is a human vampire.

It is becoming even more difficult to serve a subpoena on an officer of the Standard Oil Company than it is to put salt on a bird's tail.

Col. Mann ought to make a very good mining broker. Any one who can sell $1 stock for $1000 would do well with holes in the ground.

It may be worthy of notice that while England has elected several Irishmen to Parliament, Ireland has failed to reciprocate by electing any Englishmen.

One of the ships of the Brazilian navy has been sunk. If a similar accident should befall the Panama navy it wouldn't have any ships left.

A correspondent of the New York Sun says the walking delegate is beginning to lose his power. If so, the end of the devilment is in sight.

If Arizona and New Mexico shall be joined together, New Mexico will lose her name. That's the only good thing we can see about the whole business.

The "open shop" is fast becoming the most popular institution in America. When a thing has the truly American flavor Americans are sure to like it.

A firm of Pennsylvania merchants has been discovered that is doing business under the real names of Love & Bumsilver. They should remove to California.

Japan having decided to have a steel trust, they may expect a visit from Anna Held and the other soubrettes as soon as the magnates realize on the venture.

A Chicago correspondent writes of the music of brass bands drowning the clangor of the elements. Perhaps the elements in Chicago do clang. There's no telling.

There are two kinds of whisky—the fighting kind and the crying kind. There is a suspicion that the bartender rang in both bottles on the Senator from South Carolina.

It seems that while some of those rich New Yorkers were afraid Col. Mann would write up their fads, there were others who were afraid he would write up their dads.

While allowing John D. Rockefeller due credit for giving so much money away, it must be remembered that he never misses it, and doesn't have to do any crying over it.

The dispatches state that the people of Venezuela are entirely ignorant of the situation. But, even so, they have none the best of some American editorial writers.

The Democrats say they have a splendid chance to elect a Governor in New York State this year. It is the same chance that they always have until the votes are counted.

If it be true that the United States is to join with France in the effort to blockade the ports of Venezuela, it may be possible that Gen. Castro will be compelled to throw up his hands.

The question as to what shall be done with ex-Presidents does not trouble the republics of South America as much as it troubles us what to do with ours. They either kill them or banish them for life.

We do not desire to assert that religion is confined chiefly to the poor, but it has been noticed that the "God Bless Our Home" mottoes seldom appear in houses that were erected at a cost exceeding say $50,000.

No alarm need be felt owing to the prediction of President Eliot that this country will be so all-fired Democratic a hundred years from now. If we can keep her Republican until then the danger point will have been passed.

The question whether any man is worth a salary of $100,000 a year is now being widely discussed. It is a very simple question. If a man can get that much salary he is worth it, on the principle that you are worth what you have.

Marshall Field's advice was as follows: "Never give a note. Never borrow. Never place a mortgage. Never buy stocks on a margin." We'd like to know how a man is ever to get ahead in the world if that sort of advice is followed.

When d'Annunzio, the Italian poet and dramatist, travels, he carries with him seventy-two shirts, 144 pairs of socks, eight violet umbrellas and ten green parasols, among other things. With an outfit of that kind it is needless to say that he needs no press agent.

A SMALL AND WEAKLY GANG.

There could not be more interesting evidence of the truth of the contention of The Times that the labor unionites constitute a small proportion of the whole working citizenship, than the extraordinary efforts being made to drum up an attendance for the meeting of next Saturday evening to declare against the Citizens' Alliance.

Smarting under an overwhelming defeat, to which the uncompromising attitude of the Citizens' Alliance has contributed, the Typographical Union has arranged to bring down Mayor Schmitz from San Francisco to unite with "Doc" Howton and T. D. Fennessy and other employés of the Examiner in an outburst of billingsgate against this large and influential body of business men who believe in running their own business and succeed in doing it.

The last gathering of the labor union gang, at which the Alliance was defamed and menaced with physical violence, was a disappointingly small affair, and the union bosses have made up their minds that the next must make a greater showing of strength. Hence they have employed solicitors to personally interview the members of the local unions and insist that they turn out Saturday night. The rank and file are to be cajoled or threatened or bulldozed, as occasion may require. Members have been told that they will be fined, in some cases, and in others ostracized, if they fail to obey orders, and absent themselves from this gathering.

It goes without saying that it would be unnecessary to resort to such measures if the labor unions really possessed a small part of the strength in Los Angeles of which they are fain to boast. In order to make a decent parade they must drive their men with clubs or attract them with free beer. The whole labor union combination in Los Angeles is a weak and impotent set, three-fourths of whom do not believe in the union's tenets and practices and merely take out cards to save annoyance, a large proportion of the other fourth being perfunctory followers of a small band of noisy leaders. Only by the most persistent cracking of the whip can the latter make even an appearance of strength.

As for the Citizens' Alliance, it is composed of the bone and sinew of industrial Los Angeles. Its members have enlisted in a warfare to preserve the industrial liberty of the city. They have fought the walking delegates and trouble-breeders to a standstill and expect their animosity. The cries of rage issuing from the unionite blatherskites will no more disturb than if these shrill and ridiculous expressions of chagrin came from a lot of rats in a trap. The Alliance stands for the dominant and steadfast sentiment of Los Angeles. The Howtons and Fennessys and Schmitzes speak for a puny gang of rioters, brass-knucklers and disturbers of the peace. They do not even represent the mass of labor unionists, who are opposed to their lawless and dangerous methods—and all these together make up not more than 10 or 20 per cent. of the whole body of working people.

Work and pull and bluster as they may, this disreputable gang of inciters to assassination can bring together only a trifling minority of the sure-enough workers of this great and busy city, an army of honest and law-respecting men and women whose convictions and interests as well are with the Citizens' Alliance. Nine-tenths of the people of Los Angeles are to be reckoned on the side of law and order and peace.

PUSHING JOINT STATEHOOD.

A favorable report on the Joint Statehood Bill was submitted to the House yesterday by Representative Hamilton of Michigan, author of the bill and chairman of the House Committee on Territories. The bill, as presented, is substantially the same as when it was referred to the committee. It provides for the jointure of Oklahoma and Indian Territory as one State, to be known as Oklahoma, and of Arizona and New Mexico, under the name of Arizona. The State capital of Oklahoma is to be at Guthrie, and that of Arizona at Santa Fé until 1915, when the people of the respective States are to decide for themselves where their State capitals shall be located.

It is hardly necessary, at this time, to repeat the many and cogent reasons which should serve to defeat this measure. Readers of The Times are familiar with them. The attempt to force Arizona into an unwelcome union, against the almost unanimous protest of her people, is unjustifiable from any and every point of view. The jointure will be, if successful, a violation of the pledge given by Congress to the people of Arizona in the organic act by which the Territory was created. It will add to the Union another State of large and unwieldy dimensions, necessitating hundreds of miles of travel to reach the capital when sessions of the Legislature are to be held. It will join together populations which are uncongenial and dissimilar.

The Democratic minority of the House Committee on Territories submitted a minority report, opposing the admission of Arizona and New Mexico as one State. This report declares that "there is no more reason for joining New Mexico and Arizona than there would be for joining Alaska and Porto Rico;" also that "the manifest purpose of the majority is to keep Oklahoma out of the Union unjustly, unless they can, with greater injustice, force Arizona into the Union."

Another sharp point is stuck into the joint Statehood job, when the minority report expresses regret at "the President's action in recommending, without assigning any reason, joint Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, and thus ignoring the last expression of the Republican national platform on the question of Statehood for the remaining Territories." In closing, the minority report declares that, "should the Republican party pass this bill, wicked as it is in the denial of equal rights of representation, and partisan in all of its material details, it will but afford another indecent example of the suppression of individual, territorial and national rights to subserve party ends." Most unfortunately, this severe indictment is not without truth.

The "stalwarts" of the House expect to put this bill through with a safe majority, by grace of Uncle Joe Cannon and the big whip which he knows so well how to wield. The success of this programme is not conceded, and will not be conceded before a test vote on the bill shall have been taken. But if the bill should pass the House it will yet have to run the gauntlet of the Senate, where it will receive many an unfriendly whack, which may put it out of commission.

At any rate, "while there is life there is hope." The opponents of the measure should not despair, so long as there is any fighting ground left upon which they can erect a barricade or form intrenchments, for offense and defense. Many a cause less hopeful than theirs has triumphed.

THE LEAVEN IS WORKING.

We are living in an epoch-marking period of human history. The militant spirit of constitutional liberty is abroad in the world. It is the fire snatched from heaven by Prometheus, and it never can be quenched.

"The great movement of the world today is toward democracy," declared President Eliot of Harvard College, in an address at Cambridge on Monday. "The great keynote of the present century—the century that we are just entering upon"—continued President Eliot, "will be democracy in all things. One hundred years from now the section of our country which is now for the most part wilderness, will be beyond any present conception, and this great nation will be the most democratic that the world has ever known. The progress of democracy will be the great future of the advance of civilization in the present century."

It needs no college professor to tell us this. The air is pregnant with the prophecies of increasing liberty for the oppressed peoples of the earth. President Eliot's forecast of a greater empire of democracy for the United States will doubtless be brought to ample realization. We shall be able to overcome all obstacles to our advancement in the future, as we have overcome them in the past. We shall move onward in continuing and increasing greatness to our ultimate and manifest destiny as the leader and exemplar of republican freedom throughout the earth.

"A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump." So declared the Master. So declare the signs of the times. The movement toward democracy is apparent in almost every part of the world. Even "far Carthay" has felt the upward impulse, and in all probability the Chinese Empire, within the next decade—perhaps sooner, perhaps later—will be under a constitutional form of government. These world-old orientals are slow to change their methods and their systems, but a radical change is coming to them in the near future, and this change will be distinctly in the direction of larger freedom and constitutional government.

Dispatches from Teheran, coming through St. Petersburg, announce that a strong movement is in progress to establish a constitutional government in Persia. One thousand merchants and Mullah priests have left the Persian capital and have established at the village of Shah Ab-Ulazim a representative assembly, elected by the Mullahs, merchants and land owners. The assembly is called "The House of Justice," and it is proposed that it shall exercise administrative powers. The equality of all before the law will be proclaimed. It is difficult to form an opinion, from the meagre information thus far received, as to how formidable this movement is, or how successful it may become. But the proclamation of "the equality of all before the law," has the right sound. Such equality is the corner-stone of constitutional liberty, and those who strive to attain it, if they keep that purpose steadily in view, are contributing to the wide and inevitable movement of the world toward democratic ideals.

The Russian Empire, as all the world knows, is even now in the throes of revolt against the rule of absolutism. The idea back of this revolution is constitutional liberty, equal rights and just government. As is too often the case in movements for better conditions, mad extremists have projected themselves into the struggle of the Russian people for constitutional liberty, and their excesses have served to tighten the bonds of despotism rather than to loosen them. If Russia should go backward to the old régime, it will be the fault of these fanatics, who by their excess of misdirect zeal have made possible, if not absolutely necessary, the tightening grip of the iron hand.

The impulse which moves the revolutionists in Russia, is fundamentally the impulse which moves the hands of justice. But this primal impulse has been overlaughed by the aims and theories, the passions and the mad impatience, of all sorts of theorists and murderous fanatics, until it has become a question whether the restoration of the autocratic régime will not be necessary to bring about an orderly government, or at least the semblance of one.

But the terrible sacrifices made and still making in Russia serve to emphasize the movement toward constitutionalism which is in progress, whether openly or in secret, all over the world. Out of the clash and chaos, the suffering and the sorrow must eventually come larger and still larger freedom for the afflicted race of men. Human progress may appear to be slow at times, but its forward movement is as sure as the precession of the equinoxes. We may not, within the life of any man now living, attain to "the parliament of man, the federation of the world;" but time will eventually show this as a prophecy fulfilled, rather than the fanciful dream of a great poet.

I'VE BEEN THINKING.

BY CHARLES BATTEL LOOMIS.

Are you socially your husband's inferior or superior?

If you are his inferior he is probably too much of a gentleman to have told you so, but if you are his superior I am very much afraid you have let him know it.

But if you are and if you have, don't let it rest at that. Try by all the means in your power to lift him up to your social level. If your table manners are better than his; if you cannot eat a dinner without the use of from two to three forks, while he is prone to get along without any, try to educate him. If he won't use three compromise on one. That will be a beginning.

It will be a great pity if you let him drag you down to his level. It is always a pity when a man or a woman coasts from birth instead of climbing from birth. Let your motto be, "Ever upward." Don't you want to be superior socially to anyone on earth? How can you become so if you do not climb and drag your husband along, too?

Lift him up and teach your children to be a little better than either of you. This will not be hard, as they already feel they are—that is, if they are good Americans. If they are Chinese they are becomingly humble and think that the sun rises and sets in you and your husband. But it is safe to say that your children are not Chinese. They want to move on a higher social plane than you moved, and on a much higher plane than their father moves.

And when they have reached what they have striven for, just use them to pull you and your husband up and the end of your family will be some Blue Book.

It's a great ambition.

I think it was Zangwill who said that, like a poet, a gentleman was born, not made. The same aphorism can be applied to the opposite sex. A true lady is born, not made.

Being born a lady she can be improved by education and by refining influences, but she will not suddenly begin to be a lady, she will always have been one; while if she was not born a lady no amount of education or refinement or stimulating environment will make her a true lady.

She may educate herself to become a very passable imitation of a lady by cultivating her sense of her obligations to her brothers and sisters in this world.

She may act the part so often and so well that after a time she will convince people that she is a lady; but if she only takes the trouble to be born one, if she will only choose for her ancestors kindly, unselfish people, she will be apt to start her life with the chief requisites, and then, no matter what her education may or may not be, her heart will every day incline her to ladylike actions and people will say when she dies, "She was a true woman if ever there was one."

And to be a true woman is to be the best possible kind of lady.

I heard a beautiful story the other day about an afflicted father, a loving daughter, and a piano.

It seems that the father had long wished his daughter to become a proficient performer on the piano, and the daughter, distrusting her own capabilities, had made up her mind that she could never play well enough to make her devotion of hours and hours of practice worth while.

Suddenly, and almost without warning, her father was stricken with blindness, and then the daughter, taking a leaf out of Dickens, determined to play Dot to his Caleb, and with that in view she bought a piano player on the installment plan.

Her father had been away for some weeks when the automatic player came to the house, and upon his return she said to him: "Father, dear, would you like to hear some music?"

And her father said: "I would, indeed, daughter, if you can play some for me. I want to see if you have improved during my absence."

So the old gentleman sat himself down on the sofa and turned his ear toward the piano, and the daughter put a Hungarian Rhapsody by Liszt in its place and started the mechanism.

When she came to an end her father called her to him and kissed her upon her forehead and patted her cheek and said: "What a dear little thing it is and how much it loves to please its papa. Paderewski might interpret it differently but he could not play it any faster."

And while the daughter's pride and her conscience were having it out between them, her father said: "Daughter, I, too, have a surprise."

He turned toward her and continued: "While in New York I visited an oculist and I can now see as well as I ever could. How much do you haev to pay a month for the thing?"

Have you a meek husband?

Don't bullyrag him.

Remember that even if you did omit the "honor and obey" clause in the marriage service you were made partners, and as he probably suggested the partnership in the first place he has some rights.

If you must bullyrag him be sure that you do it in the quiet (or tumult) of your own home. This baiting of a husband in public, while it may afford food for laughter on the part of the groundlings, can but make the judicious grieve.

A large woman leading around a small puppy is always a ridiculous sight.

If you make a puppy of your husband and accompany him out of evenings, remember that some of the afterlaughter will be expended upon you.

If he is a puppy feed him well, treat him kindly—and perhaps he will become a jolly dog.

But do not live a comic supplement life with him, because the comic paper habit is so general in this country and the types are so firmly grounded in the minds of even the young that you will be recognized at sight, and depend upon it, all the sympathy will go out to the (under) dog.

Perhaps you are intellectual and your husband is not. Don't twit him with your college education.

When you come right down to it, if he never went to college, you have forgotten most of what you learned there, and so you are not in a position to snub him as unmercifully as you do.

He was a coward. No man save himself knew it, for he had been fortunate enough to keep the knowledge of it from others. But he knew that he was a coward.

He admired bravery in other men. He read tales of heroes with keen pleasure and he wished that the gods had given him the quality of courage. But he was nevertheless a coward.

When the Spanish War broke out he saw his friends go to the front and he envied them. They will do brave deeds and be admired of men, thought he, but I who am a coward must stay at home with the women.

And he loved a girl and was loved in return by her. And she did not know that he was a coward. But well he knew that he was.

And as the weeks went by and much fighting had been done and yet he had not offered up his manhood for the cause his sweetheart grew impatient and asked him what kept him at home. And he could not answer her. For he would not admit that he was a coward save to himself.

Then as she importuned him to go he weighed his chances. If I go, said he, I may not see actual service, but she cannot twit me with cowardice. I will risk it for my soul's sake.

And he enlisted. And for many months fortune favored him and he saw no active service. But yet his knees shook daily when he thought of the possibilities of the future.

And at last he was ordered into battle, and because his moral cowardice outweighed his physical fear and he feared ridicule more than he feared danger he exposed himself to the fire of the enemy. And he was unharmed, but his fellows said, he is a brave man.

And his first battle was his last, also, for the war was ended on that day and he went home. And the papers and his comrades spoke of his bravery, and his sweetheart accepted him at his reputed valuation and they were married.

But his life was embittered, for he hated hypocrisy, and in his heart of hearts he knew that he was still a coward.

A VALUABLE STAMP.

Worth $1400 and Was Issued in Baltimore by Postmaster James M. Buchanan.

[Baltimore American:] It is not generally known that the rarest and most highly prized postage stamp of all that have been issued in this country is the famous 10-cent one issued by James M. Buchanan when he was postmaster of this city, in 1845. This Baltimore stamp has the distinction, too, of having brought the highest price ever paid for an American stamp. One of these rarities is now in the possession of a Boston collector, who paid $1400 for it. The stamp bears the autograph of the postmaster and the value below it.

This 10-cent stamp was issued before the government controlled the output of the stamps for the country, and when they were issued by the local postmasters, and this accounts for the high value put upon it. There was a 5-cent stamp issued by Postmaster Buchanan also, and a number of these are still in existence and can be accounted for by the collectors but so far as is known this $1400 treasure of the Boston stamp enthusiast and another one of the same sort that was found by a Washington [illegible] looking over some [illegible] tive, and that since [illegible] sum, are the only [illegible] that can be accounted for [illegible] nowadays.

Ellis Club.

In considering the Ellis Club, which [illegible] man of perception must recog[illegible] as the leading choral body of Los [illegible] one wishes for more serious [illegible] from their voices.

[illegible] said, "it is not the song, [illegible] singer, which matters," but this is [illegible] only in a certain sense, and when [illegible] multiply the singers, the truth [illegible] in proportion to the multiplica[illegible] Half a programme of dainty bal[illegible] and lyrics, and half a programme [illegible] atic choruses, oratorio excerpts, [illegible] or heavy cantata music would [illegible] admirably to display the versa[illegible] talents of these singers.

[illegible] night's programme, delivered [illegible] one of the biggest concert audi[illegible] of the season, was given with [illegible] precision, and delightfully mu[illegible] spirit.

[illegible] two chief numbers were Horatio [illegible] "Spirit of Beauty," and the [illegible] "Song of Hiawatha." While the [illegible] composition is eminently in the [illegible] spirit, Parker's ode, massive [illegible] many-aired as it is, bears unmis[illegible] traces of manufacture, and [illegible] the lofty, sustained interest of [illegible] tention. Under Poulin's direction, [illegible] ver, both were splendidly given.

[illegible] of the most beautiful things of [illegible] evening was DeBois's tender "Brier [illegible] voiced with delicate feeling by [illegible] man in the club, and amounting [illegible] simple beauty to a perfect lyric [illegible]

ASK THAT LAW BE ENFORCED.

WOMEN ENTER PROTEST AGAINST LABOR BY CHILDREN.

Consumers' League Adopts Resolutions Calling Attention to Violations of Statute Enacted Last Year—Mrs. George P. Gates Tells of Conditions Among Foreign Working Classes.

The Consumers' League of Los Angeles, which Mrs. R. J. Waters is the head, has found a number of cases in which the child-labor law is being violated in the city. A resolution adopted at a meeting of this body yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce is as follows:

Realizing come to the knowledge of the Consumers' League, a branch of the Women's Association of Los Angeles, that [illegible] is being employed in some of the mercantile establishments in the city under the age of fourteen years, contrary to an act of the State Legislature passed on February 29, 1905, providing as follows, to wit:

"That no child under fourteen years of age shall be employed in any mercantile institution, office, workshop, laundry, manufacturing establishment, restaurant, hotel, apartment house, or in the distribution or transmission of goods or messages. Provided, however, that the judge of the Juvenile Court of any county, or city and county, or in any county or city and county in which there is no juvenile court, then any judge of the Superior Court of the county, or city and county in which a child resides, shall have authority to issue a permit to work to any such child over the age of twelve years, upon a sworn statement being made to him by the parent of such child that such child is past the age of twelve years, that the parent or parents of such child are incapacitated for labor through illness, and after investigation by the probation officer or truant officer of the city, or city and county, in which such child resides, or in cities and counties in which there are no probation or truant officers, then by such competent persons as the judge may designate for this purpose. Every permit so issued shall specify the kind of labor and the time for which it is granted, and shall in no case be issued for a longer period than shall seem necessary to the judge issuing the same. Such permit shall be kept on file by the person, firm or corporation employing the child therein designated during the term of said employment, and shall be given up to said child upon his quitting such employment. Such certificate shall be always open to the investigation of the truant and probation officers of the city and county, city or county, in which place of employment is situated or of the officers of the State Bureau of Labor Statistics."

Now therefore, be it resolved that the Consumers' League deprecates such employment on the part of any manufacturers and merchants, and asks their co-operation in the enforcement of the law to the end that such labor contrary to the law may be wholly eliminated.

The action of the women of the local association was not surprising in view of the vigorous talk of Mrs. George Gates of Pomona, who reviewed conditions of the working peoples of America, and in England and Ireland as gleaned from her own personal investigations.

"There are 29,000,000 children under 14 years of age at work in the world," she said; "there are thousands of children only 6 years of age at work in the cotton mills of the South, where American blood with no forbears to the welfare of the world. Any man who has been robbed of his childhood and you have a man embittered with conditions, a man who will make himself felt in strikes and in any manner of unlawful disturbances.

"People argue that child labor is necessary," she continued. "They put the life of the child against the worth of the almighty dollar, but they are wrong. Child labor is not cheap. It is the dearest cheapness that the world holds.

"It has been estimated that the labor of one man is equal to the labor of three children, and the child labor costs more than their bare keep, for they need discipline and must be employed to keep order among them, hence a waste in the whole arrangement. Children are careless in their work. It is natural, and there is again a waste in the material spoiled, which always be allowed for where labor is employed."

Mrs. G[illegible] the value of the children in the

by a Washington [illegible] looking over some old [illegible] tive, and that also [illegible] sent, are the only ones of [illegible] that can be accounted for [illegible] safeguard.

Up to the time that the [illegible] 10-cent stamp brought [illegible] higher price, paid for an [illegible] stamp was $1000, the sum for [illegible] 20-cent stamp of the sort that [illegible] sued by the postmaster of [illegible] in 1845 was sold to Mr. W. [illegible] of Springfield, Mass. This [illegible] distinguished by its picture [illegible] bears standing beside the [illegible] of the place, with the name of [illegible] and the value at the top of [illegible] and the words "Post Office" at [illegible] tom.

ASK THAT LAW BE ENFORCED.

MOTHERS ENTER PROTEST AGAINST CHILD LABOR BY CHILDREN.

Consumers' League Adopts Resolutions Calling Attention to Violations of Statutes Enacted Last Year—Mrs. Frank P. Gates Tells of Conditions Among Foreign Working Classes.

The Consumers' League of Los Angeles, which Mrs. R. J. Waters is the head, has found a number of cases in which the child-labor law is being violated in the city. A resolution adopted at a meeting of this body yesterday afternoon by the Chamber of Commerce is as follows:

"Be it [illegible] to the knowledge of the Consumers' League, a branch of the Civic Association of Los Angeles, that a child is being employed in some of the mercantile establishments in the city under the age of fourteen years contrary to an act of the State Legislature passed on February 20, 1905, providing as follows, to wit:

"That no child under fourteen years of age shall be employed in any mercantile establishment, office, workshop, laundry, manufacturing establishment, restaurant, hotel, apartment house, or in the distribution or transmission of goods or messages. Provided, however, that the judge of the Juvenile Court of any county, or city and county, or in any city or city and county in which there is a Juvenile court, then any judge of the Superior Court of the county or city and county in which a child resides, shall have authority to grant a permit to work to any such child over the age of twelve years, upon a sworn statement being made to him by the parent of such child that such child is past the age of twelve years, and that the parent or parents of such child are incapacitated for labor by reason of illness, and after investigation by the probation officer or truant officer of the city, or city and county, in which such child resides, or in cities and towns in which there are no probation or truant officers, then by such other persons as the judge may designate for this purpose. The permit so issued shall specify the kind of work and the time for which it is granted, and shall in no case be issued for a longer period than shall seem necessary to the judge issuing the same. Such permit shall be kept on file by the person, firm or corporation employing the child therein designated during the term of said employment, and shall be given up to said child upon quitting such employment. Said permit shall be always open to the investigation of the truant and probation officers of the city and county, or county, in which place such employment is situated or of the officers of the State Bureau of Labor Statistics.

"Be it, therefore, be it resolved that the Consumers' League deprecates such employment on the part of any manufacturers and merchants, and asks their co-operation in the enforcement of the law to the end that such labor condemned by the law may be wholly eliminated."

The action of the women of the local league was not surprising in view of the vigorous talk of Mrs. George Gates of Pomona, who reviewed conditions of the working peoples of Europe, and in England and Ireland gleaned from her own personal observation.

"There are 20,000,000 children under 15 years of age at work in the world," she said; "there are thousands of children only 6 years of age at work in the cotton mills of the South, where American blood with no foreign admixture.

"Our industrial children are a distinct menace to the welfare of the world. The man who has been robbed of his childhood and you have a man embittered with conditions, a man who will make himself felt in strikes and in a manner of unlawful disturbance.

"Some argue that child labor is cheap," she continued. "They put the value of the child against the worth of a paltry dollar, but they are wrong. Child labor is not cheap. It is the dearest cheapness that the world holds.

"It has been estimated that the labor of one man is equal to the labor of three children, and the child laborer is not more than their bare equivalent, for they need discipline and must be employed to keep order among them, hence a waste in the arrangement.

"Children are careless in their work, it is natural, and there is again a waste in the material spoiled, which must always be allowed for where labor is employed."

Speaking of the value of the children in the future of the country was eloquently set forth by Mrs. Gates. "The old Spartans," said she, "when asked for fifty children as hostages, refused, but offered 100 of their greatest men instead. They appreciated the worth of childhood in those old times."

Mrs. Gates's talk was full of interest and suggestions from beginning to end.

"I do not care so much for fine linen as I once did," she said, "for I have seen the women working over there in Belfast under conditions that they cannot long survive. There are air shafts in the carding-room of the linen mills now, because the men who worked there could not live more than a few years at most, on account of their lungs filling up with the fluff. Do you know the men themselves actually complained when the air shafts were put in? They said it made them so hungry and their wages could not satisfy it, whereas before they had small appetites and their wages were sufficient to keep away the gnawing of it."

Mrs. Gates's talk closed with practical advice to the Consumers' League as to the best means of bettering conditions in the world and this locality

Robes Half Price
The price-cut would be radical enough on out-of-date or undesirable robes, but these are our very finest imported qualities, in lace, spangled net and embroidered effects; white, black, cream and a few shades. Former prices were from $75 to $200: buyable now from $37.50 to $100.
Linen Remnants
One-Fourth to One-Third Off
Spirited selling has one disadvantage—it leaves an alarming number of short lengths and odd patterns in its wake. While these are every bit as good, from YOUR view, as though we had full pieces, we would rather close them out at a loss than to let them interfere with clean stock-keeping.
So every remnant of medium to fine table damask (lengths of from 1½ to 4 yards,) and all odd half dozen or dozen napkins have been reduced in price one-fourth to one-third before stock-taking.
35c Fancy Ribbons 25c
Full 4-inch polka dot ribbons, shown in white grounds, with red, green, navy, black, pink and various other colors of dots; also in dark grounds with lighter dots. These ribbons are largely in demand for making the new-style collars displayed at the ribbon counter.

MINES AND MINING.

SEARCHLIGHT STOCK LISTED.

CYRUS NOBLE TO BE SOLD WITH COMSTOCK SHARES.

San Francisco's Biggest Mining Exchange and Wall Street's Board to Handle Shares from Los Angeles' Greatest Tributary Camp—Examination is Made.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SEARCHLIGHT (Nev.) Jan. 21.—The Cyrus Noble Mine which has, of late, come into much prominence by reason of the sensationally rich ores discovered in its north levels, is to be listed on the San Francisco Stock Exchange board (the old Comstock arena) and the Wall Street Mining Exchange in New York.

With the single exception of the Quartette, the shares of which, though practically withdrawn from the market are firm at $15, the Cyrus Noble is the first property in the Searchlight district to be listed on a mining exchange.

Interviewed by a Times representative, Judge George E. Otis of Redlands, president of the company, said: "Our reasons for taking such a step are these. The mine has, within the past six months, shown remarkable progress under development, and we have, in view of the extent and value of the ore bodies blocked out, felt fully justified in installing the ten-stamp mill now building. Without question we could, with that mill, develop the mine and regularly pay very handsome dividends on our investment for years to come.

"A number of the principal shareholders, myself among them, are, however, no longer young men. We feel, some of us, that this property, operated as we had proposed, on a small scale, would probably long outlast us; and it seems therefore better to take in more capital, to work on a much larger basis and to realise more rapidly the profits that we are now justified in expecting.

"The mine has turned out to be richer and bigger than we had reason to anticipate. We intend, now, to sink to 1000 feet as rapidly as possible, and to put the whole enterprise on a basis for bigger work and heavier production."

The Cyrus Noble Mine, is well known through these dispatches. It has, it is learned, been recently examined and sampled by an engineer on behalf of the listing committee of the San Francisco Stock Exchange Board. It is reliably stated that there are now $500,000 in reserve in the mine above the 400-foot level. The main shaft is down 485 feet, and there are some 1600 feet of underground workings exposing the four known ore shoots. It is expected that the new mill will drop its stamps on February 15 next. There are on the dump 1100 tons of ore ready for crushing, and stopes have been started in the mine to supply ore for continuous running.

The property has been well and conservatively handled from the beginning, and it is confidently believed here that it will prove as regular a dividend payer as has the Quartette.

The Carlsen-Ethen Company of Searchlight are representing the two exchanges in the necessary business arrangements.

SEARCHLIGHT NOTES.

Messrs. McLaughlin and McGhan, who, during last year, located some twenty claims at McGhan's camp, four miles north of the Pompei Mine, have transferred their entire holdings under lease and bond to A. C. Lusby of Los Angeles, and Geo. P. Spitall of Philadelphia. By the terms of the agreement, development must be continuous. The consideration for final transfer is $350,000.

On the Shinn property, north of the Cyrus Noble mine, a two-foot ledge sampling $367 the ton in gold has been uncovered in a new shaft, at a depth of ten feet.

The Searchlight Consolidated Mining Company, controlled by the Carlsen-Ethen Company, has completed buildings for the accommodation of employés at the Oregon mine, and has started the new 250-foot double compartment working shaft.

The Searchlight M. & M. Company will drop the stamps of its new mill in three weeks time. Two thousand tons of good grade milling ore are in the ore bins and on the dump, in readiness.

The Pompei mine will be again unwatered this week, new parts for the Cornish pump ball valves having been received. The mine is now making 180,000 gallons a day. It was flooded by a recent breakdown of the pump.

GOLD ROADS BIG RECORD.

ARIZONA'S STEADY PROGRESS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Jan. 22.—The last ten days' run of the Gold Roads mill, Mohave county, gave as product a gold bar valued at $53,000. The ore now being handled is the richest ever taken from the property.

The Great Belcher mine, in Big Bug district, south of Prescott, has been sold to S. T. Henderson & Co. of St. Louis. That firm announces that the property is to be worked for what is in it. The mine is one of those controlled up to a few months ago by Henry R. Clifford & Co., who advertised it elaborately as one of the greatest of the world's bonanzas. The stock was sold all over the United States, mainly to inexperienced investors, who, presumably, have realized nothing save experience through their speculation. Much work has been done by the Cliffords on the mine, which is believed capable of development into a profitable producer.

C. J. George of Los Angeles, president of the Poland-American Mining Company, announces that the company's mill at Poland will be started again within a few weeks and that it will be run steadily. The mill, a very fine one, has never been operated since completion.

The Theising mill near Prescott is being operated steadily and is turning out about $70 in gold bullion a day.

The old Val Verde slag dump has been taken over by Bradrick & McKinnon, who will break it up and send sorted slag to the new Humboldt smelter. Through carelessness or lack of knowledge, it is understood that high values in copper and silver were allowed to escape into the slag pots from the old smelter.

The new Cleopatra shelter at Jerome will be handling fifty tons of ore a day by March 31. Far more than enough ore is ready for stoping in the mine to supply the demand.

The United Verde smelter closed down Thursday for a few days, taking advantage of the time of coke scarcity to make a general clean-up of the furnaces, which have been running steadily for three months. Now being installed is a sulphide furnace in which it is proposed to reduce ores without the use of coke and without the heavy expense of heap roasting that is now one of the most serious drawbacks of the process in use at Jerome.

CYCLONE HITS KERN COUNTY.

RANCH HOUSE DEMOLISHED AND OTHER DAMAGE.

Man is Hurled One Hundred and Fifty Feet—Eighty-Foot Strip is Cut Through Stubble Fields and Debris from Destroyed Buildings is Scattered for Two Miles.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 22.—Out in the rim of this valley, forty miles southeast of Bakersfield, and where the desert winds sweep down through the Tejon Pass onto the plain, a cyclone of the intensity of those that visit the Middle West occurred on Thursday of last week, when the ranch house and outbuildings of J. M. Morris were demolished and his machinery destroyed and Mr. Morris himself was hurled 150 feet into an adjoining corral.

The path of the cyclone is plainly visible for a width of eighty feet through the stubble fields on the Morris ranch, and débris from the demolished buildings was scattered for a distance of two miles. Mrs. Martha Scofield, the housekeeper for the ranch, was blown out of the house and slightly injured and for a time it was feared that Mr. Morris was fatally hurt.

A heavy wind blew all day and night in the country where the Morris ranch is located, but aside from the destruction of the houses on this ranch there was no evidence of the cyclone, which is the only one on record in the history of the county.

PROPOSE A LEVEE.

Under plans now formed by the Trustees, and in response to a petition signed by nearly all of the property owners in Bakersfield, there will be a joint meeting of the Trustees and Supervisors during the first week in February to devise means of raising funds for building a levee to protect Bakersfield and vicinity from the waters of Kern River in times of freshets.

BIG HILL-STREET SALE.

Local Syndicate Buys Lot Just South of Fourth for Eighteen Hundred Dollars a Front Foot.

John T. Griffith & Co. yesterday closed an important deal by which Dr. J. P. Widney transfers to a local syndicate a lot on the west side of Hill street, 190 feet south of Fourth, 63x165 feet, for $1800 per front foot, making a total of $113,400.

This is the first sale on this part of Hill street for a long time. The price is naturally considerably higher than was paid for lots in that locality some months ago. Taking into consideration the fact that the southwest corner of Hill and Sixth streets, fronting directly on Central Park, was sold about three months ago for $2700 a front foot, the present price would seem to be a good one for the property in question. It is not made public what use the buyers will put this property to.

The J. W. Cline Realty Company have sold for D. J. Nofziger five lots 25 to 40 by 100 to 150 feet, with five cottages, at $11,400. The Union Realty Trust Company are the buyers. The property is on Sixteenth street, near Tennessee. For Charles Mettler & Co. the same company has sold seven lots on Thirty-sixth near San Pedro and adjoining streets for $5150. The lots are all unimproved. A. Witherspoon is the buyer.

MIDWAY SHUT DOWN.

and shut down the wells for five years, or until it got permission to open them. The Santa Fé gave in, but the owners of the half interest, well posted on every movement, promptly raised their price, until the total cost was $1,800,000, a pretty neat little sum to get for wells from which not a barrel had ever been shipped.

Thus did the Associated effectually bottle up the Midway wells. When they will be opened, if the course of events does not change, is a question that only time will answer. The Sunset Railroad is owned jointly by the Santa Fé and Southern Pacific, and they take turns at operating it. The Santa Fé has had it for five years, and the agreement was renewed some time ago. By the time the field is to be opened with the permission of the Associated, the line may have passed into the hands of the Southern Pacific. If the agreement is strictly adhered to Midway is eliminated for some time unless a pipe line is built by capital outside of the combine.

THE ARGENTINE CASE.

Judge Wellborn's decision on Monday against the claims of the Argentine Oil Company to lands on section 25 in Midway, will be appealed by that company, according to reliable information. This means in all probability a further tie-up of work for another year, or perhaps two years.

PUSHING ACROSS DESERT.

Railroad is Steadily Reaching Out from Las Vegas Toward Mines.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LAS VEGAS (Nev.) Jan. 22.—The new railroad to Tonopah has pushed its nose out on the desert about fifteen miles and the shovel engine has arrived. Men are daily coming from Los Angeles and Salt Lake to work on the road.

J. Ross Clark and C. O. Whittemore spent Friday here looking over the situation.

Trainloads of ties are arriving from San Pedro and cars of steel rails are daily coming from the East.

Three fine brick blocks are going up and many fine stone houses for dwellings are being built.

The land company has given orders to remove all tents, and it will be enforced, so this place may not be called ragtown by the newcomers.

"HOW LOS ANGELES GROWS."

An illustrated article, "How Los Angeles Grows," appears in the Sunset Magazine for December. It is from the pen of Arthur MacDonald Dole, and the text and views, which include handsome halftones of the residence and business sections of the city, cover thirteen pages. In a brief way, it is an excellent index of the most recent activities of importance in the life of the city.

CONSUMPT

Is Deceiving—No One Knows How They Have It.

Always Starts with a Slight

The worst thing about consumption is that it is not realized until it has gone so far that it is almost beyond control. Dr. Acker's English Remedy cures consumption even after it has gone beyond the stage where the victim "does not know."

But it is, of course, quickest and safest to cure consumption in the first stage.

A Cough is a Distress Signal from the Lungs.

It is a warning that the delicate lungs are weakened, inflamed or sore. Pneumonia and consumption are everywhere, and it is only those lungs that are able to resist the deadly germs. Dr. Acker's English Remedy soothes the harsh, dry cough—compels nature to throw off the evil germs and does this before the disease has gone far gone in the disease, but better, of course, to do it at the first cough. Dr. Acker's English Remedy is no ordinary medicine. It is not a cough syrup, which only relieves and soothes your cough without reaching up the lungs themselves. It is not an alcoholic medicine. It is better than all these. It is a sure, quick, positive cure for the lungs. It gives immediate soothing effect and a permanent correct cure. It is perfectly harmless. Any druggist will gladly give your money back if Dr. Acker's English Remedy fails to do particular to do all we claim. 25c, 50c, $1.00 sizes.

FOURTH AND

EVENTS IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

LADY'S engagement book is an expert to balance it at ease, or rather to dovetail the days of the near future so that no day may be lost. So many affairs are scheduled for the coming week and next that it will require close management to make them all.

Among the events already announced is that delightful hostess, Mrs. Florence Fuller, will entertain at a "five hundred" card party Thursday afternoon next. Young ladies invited as especial guests are Misses Ethel Jackson, Lucille Leovy and Ruth Fifty are bidden for the occasion, plans for the assisting young ladies to be provided, as well as four gallants to lend a zest to the play. Many delightful little features will be added by the hostess, this being the first large function to mark the debut of her handsome new home.

"Many guests have accepted," said a caller yesterday, "isn't that lovely? Some people say they always invite a third more than they expect, for there are always some who refuse, but find it that way."

Mrs. Fuller's guests say that, she has the explanation of this happy tune.

Entertainments to mark the end and the beginning of the next month. A card party to be given by Mrs. V. Baldwin of Union avenue Saturday afternoon, and a quiet afternoon tea which will follow the same hostess. The guest in honor of Mrs. Arthur Burritt is staying at the Lankershim.

A dance on Union avenue Saturday evening will be the informal given by Mrs. Herman Darling for Charles P. Ensign in honor of Miss Best of Marietta, O., and Arthur Burritt. Mrs. Burritt is well known in Los Angeles as Miss Ethel Shue, she is a sister of the hostess, and her wedding was one of the affairs of the late summer. A reception will be given at the residence Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. A. LeDoux will soon entertain in honor of the second wedding anniversary of her daughter, Mrs. C. Callender.

Callender Ball.

The social world of Los Angeles be[gan] to Kramer's Hall last evening. [The] lights and laughter, music [and] merry tripping feet [the] carnival, and nearly five hundred maskers and merry-gowned maids and [mas]k- and black-coated men, had [as]sembled to enjoy one of the brilliant [af]fairs of the winter season, the re[cep]tion and ball given by Mr. and Mrs. [Ja]mes Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. [Ar]thur Callender, in honor of Miss [Ma]rion.

The dancing hall gleamed with [lig]ht twinkled softly through [pal]ms, chrysanthemums, shedding [an] that enhanced the natural [be]auty of the scene. The green tracery [of] the glorious edged the mir[ror] floor with a lacy beauty, while [the] orchestra screened Arend's orches[tra] softly defined the sweet strains [of] waltz and two-step.

The dining-room below stairs [had] been evolved an unique [de]coration in buttercup yel[low] and living green. Great strands [of] smilax artistically draped over[head] and yellow threads intertwined with soft green ferns. Fern baskets were hung here and there, and the tables were decked with pots of asparagus sheathed in yellow, and candelabra, whose buttercup, green and white shades caused the fetching candlelight to coquette with the bright faces clustered about in congenial coteries.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson with Mr. and Mrs. Callender and the young hostess of the occasion, stood at the upper end of the hall to greet the guests who thronged about. Miss Patterson made a bright picture of girlish simplicity and sweetness, her sunny hair, her bright blue eyes and the ultramarines of the necklace clasping her round throat flashing a brilliant contrast to her soft white gown made of imported silk, inset with lace, the low neck and elbow sleeves completeing this quaint and becoming dancing frock.

Mrs. Patterson was attired in a handsome costume of black net trimmed with lace and velvet and white lace bertha, and Mrs. Harry Callender wore a striking robe of spangled net over pink silk.

Those assisting in the reception and has ever given and when she is a belle of nineteen or more she can hardly hope to duplicate the pure delight of this first event. About fifty young belles and beaux have been bidden and the lovely fancy dress affair will give scope for the costuming that children so enjoy.

Carlton-Archer Nuptials.

A recent marriage of interest to Los Angeles people was that of R. P. Archer of this city, manager of the California Investment Company, and Miss Josephine L. Carlton of Illinois, the marriage being solemnized by Rev. B. F. Boller at 4 p.m., January 20. After a brief sojourn at the beach resorts the young couple will occupy their handsomely-furnished new home at No. 1406 Harvard boulevard, where they will be at home after March 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Wren entertained at whist last evening in honor of Miss Estelle Hays of Washington, Ind., who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Addie Lee Buckler, of Hotel Wellesley. The affair was given at the residence of Mrs. Wren's mother, Mrs. Ethel R. Graham, at No. 1211 Ingraham street, Miss Ethel Graham assisting Mrs. Wren. The prizes were a cut-glass olive dish, and a burnt-wood ornament adorned in violets for the women, and a silver ash-tray and silver pocket pencil for the men. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Collins, Misses Maude Elizabeth Richards, Louise Payne, Clara Heintz, Eva Gray, Florence Wheelan, Francisco Wartelle, Alice Atwell and Dr. E. S. Elmer Elsworth of New York acted as best man, the bride being given away by the groom's brother. Fortnightly Whist Club.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Six and Six Whist Club was held Friday evening at the residence of J. F. Thompson, No. 2555 Hoover street, all members being present. The occasion was of unusual interest inasmuch as the hostess had planned a Chinese evening in view of the approaching Chinese New Year. Decorations, prizes, score cards and refreshments were particularly suitable to the occasion. The first prizes, captured by Mrs. Frank Humphreys and D. W. Field, consisted of a quaint Wisteria tea-caddy basket with service, and a handsome fern dish. The consolations, which excited much merriment, were awarded to Mrs. D. W. Field and J. B. Mitchel.

That Old French Gallantry.

People say that old French gallantry is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. Those who are prone to forget thus our national traditions should take to heart this litle lesson from the Hungarian poet, Jokai:

At a banquet given in his honor the poet thanked the ladies present, and ended with the words: "I drink to you, mesdames; may you live until my hair turns gray!"

The ladies were startled, and hardly knew what to make of the strange compliment. Then Jokai, taking from his head a fine wig, revealed a head entirely bald. "My hair, as you, see," he continued, "can never turn gray."—[Paris Figaro.

UNIQUE FROZEN MENAGERIES.

Frigid Alaska, Where Animals Stand All Winter Refrigerated by Natural Processes.

[San Francisco Chronicle:] The world's most unique game market is in Fairbanks, Alaska. If you will take the trouble to examine the latest map of the vast and valuable Northwest Territory purchased by Uncle Sam from Russia in 1867 you will find that Fairbanks is on the Chelena River, in the rich Tanana district, of which it is the thriving metropolis. It lies close to the Arctic circle, and in common with other communities in the valley of the Yukon, has an average mean temperature of about 10 deg. below zero during the months of November, December, January, February and March. At intervals during the long winter season the thermometer goes as low as 75 deg. below the zero mark, but such an excessive temperature is not absolutely necessary for the successful operation of the Fairbanks game market, although, it is true, the intensity of the Arctic cold is the chief factor in establishing and maintaining the town's claim to distinction in the item of its game market. It is almost superfluous to suggest that the market, operating as it does only during the months named, is saved the expense of artificial refrigerating apparatus.

Now here is where the novelty begins. Instead of skinning the game and curing up the carcass as in the ordinary, every-day market, the deer, the moose, or the bear, as the case may be, is simply stood up on the floor of the market, which is located in one of the principal buildings of the town, and allowed to freeze solidly, or, probably, it has frozen solidly within thirty minutes after being killed. The low temperature that continually prevails permits the keeping of the game in this shape for months at a stretch, as once the carcass is frozen there is no decay until the freezing weather is over.

One may enter the market and order a bear steak cut from Bruin who has occupied a particular corner in the establishment, looking for all the world as if he were alive, for several months; or a haunch of venison from the deer that has been in another corner for an equally long period; or, perchance, a choice cut of the lordly moose or the kingly caribou that have been making lifelike poses in other sections of the market. Or, if it be a mountain sheep or a goat that the fancy craves, the same opportunity is offered for selection. The animals appear just as they did in life, and the person who visits the place for the first time is apt to imagine himself in a menagerie rather than a market.

The flavor and quality of the game under such conditions is said to be unexcelled. The freezing process and the length of time that is allowed to elapse between the killing and eating of the animal seem to impart to the flesh a tenderness and a ripeness that is characteristic.

The market attracts attention to its location by placing on the sidewalk before its door, just as the cigar man puts out his wooden Indian, a bear, a moose, a stag or some other animal from its stock in trade. Last season the same bear was used for the purpose every day for five months, and was then cut up into steaks that were pronounced to be the most delicious that had ever been eaten in a locality that is famous for its well-flavored bear steaks.

GRAZING FEES IN ARIZONA.

For Cattle, Sheep and Horses, on San Francisco and Black Mesa Forest Reserves for Next Year.

[Flagstaff Sun:] Forest Supervisor Breen has been advised that the grazing rates for the Black Mesa and San Francisco Mountains forest reserves will be 20 cents a head for cattle and horses for the grazing season and 35 cents per head for the year. A half rate will be allowed for cattle only on seventy-five head or less, all over that number to pay full rate. All horses will be charged full rates except for saddle horses actually necessary to handle the cattle for which permit is granted. A mount of about five head per man will be allowed free.

A rate of 5 cents per head will be charged for old sheep; lambs will be counted in at the rate of two lambs for one old sheep. Bands lambing on the reserve will be charged 2 cents per head extra. In other words, if lambing average 80 per cent, it will amount to an increase of 1600 head of lambs in a band of 2000; half of these lambs would be charged for at the regular rate, making a 5-cent charge per head for 800 lambs and 2000 old sheep. The necessary equipment of burros and horses for properly handling the sheep are allowed on the reserve free.

POSTER TO SPREAD LA FIESTA'S FAME.

THE design for the official La Fiesta poster has been selected. The awards were made yesterday by the special committee selected by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

Winner of the first prize, $50, is Charles W. Svensson, and the second prize, $25, went to J. Frank Derby. Twenty designs were submitted.

The official poster will be striking, with deep red as the predominant color. Two pages stand out in the foreground, each blowing a poppy trumpet. On the left side is a page gorgeous in buff and old gold, while the page on the right is in costume peagreen, shading to deeper tones. Each lad has a brilliant golden poppy on his breast. In the center of the poster, between the two figures, is the emblem of the Mystic Shriners, in white, gold and green. The lettering on the poster is of white and stands out strongly against the dark red body.

Bids for printing the posters will be asked for at once. They will be finished, probably, in forty days, and will be distributed March 15 to all parts of the United States.

Charles S. Svenson's winning design, above, officially adopted, and the second choice, executed by J. Frank Derby.

Good progress is being made on the fiesta floats. Seven of these have been completed, so far as the heavy work is concerned. The decorations will not be placed in position until the week before the fiesta. There will be six floats with mechanical effects. Two of the floats will be especially typical of the Shriners, and the general theme of the fifteen floats to be shown by the M. and M. is "Celestial Visions."

There will be 125 beautiful young ladies on these floats. They will come from the various business colleges of the city.

Good progress is being made by the committee in charge of the floral parade. The rules and the prize lists are now issued and in the hands of the committee. This will be made an unusually prominent feature this year.

The first night of the parade will be May 8. On this evening all the visiting Shriners will participate in the parade. It is expected that there will be fully 15,000 Shriners in line, all in full dress and wearing the fez.

The electrical parade will take place three nights, but the Shriners will participate only the first night.

TIGER STICKS TO JEROME.

JURY SAYS CITY COUNCIL IS NOT LEGALLY ELECTED.

Three of the Camp's Gamblers Open a Game of "Stud Poker" in Order to Have Themselves Arrested—Defendants Say They Intend to Sue Town for Damages.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Jan. 22.—Jerome has the best of intentions toward the abolition of gambling within the city, yet cannot "make it." A few days ago three of the most important of the camp's gamblers opened a game of "stud poker" in order to have themselves arrested. The arrest followed quickly, as well as trial by jury. The jury found that the City Council that passed the anti-gambling ordinance had not been legally elected, hence the ordinance itself was illegal and invalid.

This decision was made in the cases of Charles Hooker and Philip Pecharich. Arthur Cordiner, the third man arrested, had previously pleaded guilty. Just how it was done is not very apparent, but the attorneys for defendants made the jury believe that it was constituted as a trial body on the legal status of the City Council, instead of one for the trial of an infraction of a gambling ordinance.

The three gamblers now announce their intention of suing the town of Jerome for $10,000 damages each for false imprisonment. The gambling question will be one of the most material of the issues that will come before the voters in the election to be held April 2. Two tickets already are in the field. It is generally believed that the anti-gambling movement will meet defeat.

UNBRANDED ITEMS.

One hundred and thirty members attended the second annual banquet of the Tavapai Club. The feast was introduced in true baronial style, by a procession of cooks and sewers, bearing in the baron of beef. The members joined in telegraphing to Washington their hope that joint Statehood might not prevail.

The negro, Peter Barr, shot and mortally wounded lately at Ash Fork by Special Officer Whitely, was an escaped convict, according to letters received from his former home, Coushatta, La. Two years ago Barr was sent to the Louisiana State Prison on a life sentence, after being found guilty of the murder of a man of his own color. Nearly a year ago he escaped from his guards and had not been heard of till telegrams concerning him came from Prescott. There is no disposition on the part of the local officers toward the prosecution of Whitely, who is now in Los Angeles, recovering from wounds inflicted by the negro.

At Coyote Hole, five miles from Kingman, T. C. Lake of Cerbat, Mohave county, was shot twice in the region of the stomach by H. Ogden, a stage driver. Particulars of the shooting have not come, though it is stated that Lake was mortally wounded. Lake has lived in northwestern Arizona more than twenty years, managing stage lines and in the cattle business.

Nothing is known here of M. A. Eaton, alleged to have fled here from Los Angeles with a "lady barber" about a month ago. If there were a flight, it is probable it was to some other locality.

Near Wickenburg has been found a magnificent deposit of fire clay, in solid formation which can be drilled and sawed. Exposure of the material to the fiercest smelter heat has no affect upon it nor is its pure white color changed.

SUCCESSFUL AMERICAN.

The 1905 bound volume of "The Successful American" published by the Writers Press Association of New York City has just come from the press and is being sent to the leading newspapers of the country. The volume contains concise biographies of the men who "do things" written from the point of observation that is most likely to interest the general reader, and it does not fail to throw light upon the methods by which they attained their places in the pursuit that have carried their names to the honor roll of achievement. There are numerous portraits and many illustrative comments on the events that have marked the progress of the year.

J. F. Reilly, associate editor of the magazine, is now in Los Angeles compiling a new section on Southern California.

DECISION SUITS THE GOVERNOR.

ALSO THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL OF THE TERRITORY.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Jan. 21.—The Supreme Court of Arizona today handed down a ten-thousand-word decision in the several cases of mandamus and certiorari affecting the immense raises made last summer by the Territorial Boerd of Equalization in the assessments of the producing mining properties of the Territory.

The decision, while not flatly in favor of the board, yet is decidedly satisfactory to Gov. Kibbey and Attorney-General Clark, who have been fighting what they have considered a battle for the people at large. The mining corporations have won in the point that, in counties where the raised assessment was refused by the county boards of supervisors, no increase will be enforced for the current fiscal year. The raise is effective in the counties where no such official action was taken by the supervisors.

In essence, the decision sustains the contention that the Territorial Board of Equalization has power to raise mining or other assessments when the board deems them too low, in connection with assessments on mines in other counties, but decides that the board erred in not fixing a specific level, upon which to equalize the values of all mining property. There were minor and highly technical differences among the five justices of the Supreme Court in consideration of various phases of the questions submitted, and dissent was entered by a minority of the court on a couple of such questions, yet the justices concurred in the most important of the findings.

Upon the face of the decision it would appear as if the Copper Queen, Calumet and Arizona and others of the great copper producers of Cochise county will have to stand the raise, as the Cochise County Board of Supervisors, acting on the advice of the County Attorney, placed the raises upon the assessment books. Against this, Col. William Herring, attorney for the Copper Queen Company, has given notice of appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. The United Verde will escape the assessment for this year, as will the copper mines at Globe, Clifton and Morenci. In net results, the decision drops the taxable valuation of the territory about $8,000,000, leaving it at about $33,000,000.

The decision outlines, more or less clearly, the manner in which a legal assessment of the mines may be made and upon this basis it is understood the Territorial Board of Equalization will proceed. There can be no doubt, as well, that the county boards will join in the movement for more equitable taxation by raising the mining assessments from the figures that have prevailed hitherto. The condition can well be shown by the mere statement that the mines of Arizona in 1905 produced gold, silver and copper to the value of $45,000,000, or $7,000,000 more than the total assessment of all property in the Territory. The mining assessment by the decision is left at only about $6,000,000.

H. COHN & CO. SOLD TO THE BUSY MAMMOTH SHOE HOUSE 519 SOUTH BROADWAY.

The sale of the H. Cohn & Co. stock at the Mammoth is the interesting topic of hundreds of people who have been down to this busy store. $12,275 of high grade shoes and at 62 cents on the dollar will come in pretty handy for scores of people who appreciate getting their footwear at less than factory price. If you are a "bargain hunter," here's your harvest, and, really, when you see the splendid shoes at the saving prices, there's little wonder that every one should suddenly turn bargain hunter. Think of buying men's $2 shoes at $1.23, all the sizes, not just a few odds and ends. Then at $1.45 splendid values are offered that formerly sold at $2.50 and $3 in men's and women's sizes. In the woman's shoe at $1.45 you will find all sizes of that famous "Bernalda" shoe, known the world over as an advertised $2.50 shoe. In men's shoes at $1.95 they have put on sale every pair of Cohn & Co.'s great $3.50 line, "The Regent Shoe." Going back farther in the store to the children's department there were literally thousands of pairs marked to sell at 50c to 98c that are fully worth twice or three times as much. Boys' shoes in good stout soles and fine feeling leather at 98c that sell up and down the street at $2. When Cohn & Co. sold the lease to their store the money they made on the lease paid them for the loss they had to stand on their shoe stock, and the purchase price of 62c on the dollar makes great bargains for the buyer at the Mammoth 519

Lawson in Court

Lawson's enemies have been trying their best to get back at him ever since he began his merciless attack upon the "System", twenty-one months ago, in Everybody's magazine.

Malicious vilification, threats of suits, traps laid for him at every turn—with the Rockefellers, Addicks, and big insurance men (Perkins, McCall and McCurdy) all arrayed against him. All attacks have failed.

The last was a suit for criminal libel—quashed by the Grand Jury of Boston after a very few minutes deliberation.

Lawson's story of the court-scene, is one of the greatest dramatic bits of writing you have ever read.

Such is believed to be ...e significance of the creation of the ...ffice of superintendent of the Rio ...ande Western, to which F. S. Elliott ...s been appointed.

Already Mr. Welby has had considerable to do with Western Pacific matters. Even now he is in San Francisco, there is reliable authority for saying that his mission there has to do with the controversy between the Western Pacific and the Western Pacific over terminal matters. With him is Waldemar Van Cott, one of the Salt Lake counsel for the Gould interests, who will return Sunday.

It is said that the position to which Mr. Elliott was appointed was made necessary by the constantly increasing demands of the Western Pacific upon Mr. Welby's time. Mr. Welby will still remain as general superintendent of the Rio Grande Western, but, according to appearances, he is to be relieved of many of the details of that work in order that he may devote more time to Western Pacific operations.

Next summer, according to present indications, will witness a great deal of construction on the Western Pacific, although those in a position to know say it will probably be three years before passenger trains are running on the line.

F. S. Elliott, the new superintendent of the Rio Grande Western, left yesterday on a special train for a tour of inspection of the entire road between Salt Lake and Grand Junction. Colo. In the morning he made a trip to Ogden, and in the afternoon, accompanied by Master Mechanic William Donald, departed for Grand Junction. He intended stopping at Bingham on the way.

It developed yesterday that Mr. Elliott was in Salt Lake about ten days ago conferring with Mr. Welby. None of the other local officials of the road knew at the time that he was here, and the appointment came as a complete surprise to them.

Mr. Elliott did not even wait yesterday to be introduced to the other officials of the road before starting out on his tour of inspection.

WORK FOR INDIANS.

United States Agent Arranges for Employment for Them at the Laguna Dam.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LAGUNA DAM (Yuma, Ariz.) Jan. 23.—Charles E. Daggett, United States Indian agent to secure employment for ...Indians in the Southwest, visited Yuma ...the Laguna Dam on the 19th and 20th insts. in the interests of Indian laborers now at work for Messrs. J. G. White & Co., and for the further purpose of arranging for the employment of others who desire to be employed on the construction work.

C. G. Young, vice-president and general manager for J. G. White & Co., New York City, arrived at Laguna on the 20th inst. and is inspecting the work accomplished, labor conditions, etc. He states that he hopes to be able to arrange for a larger force and push the work forward more rapidly.

A large scow has been moved from Yuma to the dam and is being fitted up for the installation thereon of the new dredging equipment recently ordered.

Gradually the night shift of laborers is being increased and an effort will be made to accomplish practically as much during the night as during the daytime.

The wagon road on the Arizona side of the Colorado River between Yuma and Laguna is again in use, but is still in poor condition as a result of the damage done by the recent high water.

The tent for school purposes has finally been erected and school was opened this morning.

ENGINE BLOW-UP IS TERRIFIC.

LOCOMOTIVE IS EXPLODED IN SAN BERNARDINO.

Great Pieces of Metal are Hurled Afar and a Number of Men Have Exceedingly Narrow Misses from Death by the Flying Fragments. Hot After School Trustees.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 23.—With a roar which shook the city and was heard throughout this valley, Salt Lake locomotive No. 204 was blown to fragments at an early hour this morning, while standing in the freight yards just north of First street. Night Hostler Sam Walker had a narrow escape. He had been inspecting the engine but a few minutes before the explosion. The night towerman in the Santa Fé tower, 300 feet south, also had a lucky escape, the head end of the boiler having been hurled past the towerhouse, missing the towerman's quarters, high in the air, by less than a foot.

Some idea can be gained of the fearful force of the explosion by the manner in which immense pieces of steel were scattered about. Besides carrying the boilerhead past the towerhouse, the headlight, with a large section of metal, was hurled in an opposite direction several hundred feet, landing near the Southern Pacific freighthouse. The piston rods were bent double, the huge driving wheels were twisted almost in a circle, the boiler was thrown 200 feet, and in striking the ground were driven five feet into the earth. The cab was flattened out and tossed beyond the yards, the heavy trucks were picked up and removed six feet, being turned squarely around, the rails were cut into sections as if by a sharp knife, and the ground for a radius of fifteen feet was plowed.

Brick from the firebox was thrown high in the air, and fell in showers along F and E streets. Motorman Cannon was walking along E street at the time, and had a narrow miss. The glass in the towerhouse was shattered, and window glass in residences a block distant suffered in a similar manner, while the residence and business section was shaken, the first impression being that an earthquake of unusual severity had visited the valley.

Within a few minutes after the accident the telephone offices were receiving inquiries from all over the valley, Redlands, Highland, Colton and other sections adding to the general clamor for information. Immediately following the explosion a raging oil fire broke out under the trucks of the engine, which were not drawn away until they had been ruined. The night hostler frantically endeavored to quench the fire with mud and water, which only increased the fury of the flames.

Responsibility for the explosion is popularly supposed to rest upon the night hostler's shoulders. Railroad men declare that the engine was allowed to burn out for lack of water in the boilers. It was the hostler's place, they say to inspect the engine on first going to work, and they aver that had this been done and the boilers supplied, no explosion would have occurred. The engine was one of the new type, and cost several thousand dollars.

HOT AFTER SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

W. S. Corwin and D. R. Seeley, wealthy residents of Highland, called on the District Attorney this afternoon to lodge a complaint against the Trustees of the Highland school district, who have denuded the school grounds of all the beautiful pepper trees. These trees, which had attaind the age of seventeen years, were sacrificd for a row of orange trees in an adjoining grove, planted many years after the pepper trees were set out. Highland is well worked up, but no way of bringing the Trustees to account seems to have been found.

MAHIN'S VIEW.

Chicago Publicity Man Who is Looking the Country Over Gives Opinion on Orange Advertising.

"Extended advertising of Southern California products throughout the whole United States will be greatly developed during the next few years," says John Lee Mahin of Chicago, president of the Mahin Advertising Company, and one of the leaders in his profession, who is now in Los Angeles.

In speaking of oranges, raisins, prunes and olives, Mr. Mahin is not convinced that any very successful advertising will be done for them by the growers' associations, as he says that "successful advertising is investing the product advertised with an individuality which makes it unconsciously preferred by the purchasers."

In his judgment some individual and persevering qualities will come to the front in each of these lines, and by advertising brands possessed of certain marked characteristics produce such a demand as to largely increase the trade.

This is Mr. Mahin's first visit to Southern California, and he is delighted with the climate and scenery. Especially is he enthusiastic over the unity of spirit and enthusiasm of purpose shown by the Los Angeles business men. "This," he says, "cannot fail to produce the material results which will make the city great."

DIES AT BANNING.

H. K. Williamson, Member of Instrument Firm, Succumbs on Desert After Long Illness.

H. K. Williamson, a well-known business man of Los Angeles, died at Banning, Monday, of hemorrhage of the lungs, after having been in ill health for more than two years. His sudden death was a great shock to his friends. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at the residence of the brother of the deceased, R. B. Williamson, No. 601 Park View avenue. Dr. J. S. Thomson of the Independent Church of Christ, will officiate, and the interment will be in Rosedale cemetery. The pall-bearers will be six old Canadian friends, H. P. Philp, J. S. Splain, Richard Reed, W. A. Powell, G. B. Smith, and Richard Gilbert.

H. K. Williamson was born in Bowmansville, Ontario, Canada, near Toronto, and his early youth was spent there. Later he removed to Port Hope, Ont., where he engaged in the music business with his brother, R. B. Williamson, and for ten years they conducted this enterprise there.

In 1892 the brothers came to Los Angeles, and in March of that year began the business of Williamson Brothers, dealers in musical instruments, at No. 327 South Spring street. They have remained there continuously since that period, the firm now being an incorporated one.

In 1893 Mr. Williamson married Miss Jessie Soper, who had also come to Los Angeles from Port Hope, Canada. The widow survives.

The Williamsons came to Los Angeles primarily for the benefit of the health of the senior brother. Last May he determined to try the desert air, and fitting up a wagon, he traveled overland to Thermal. After a short stay there, the intense heat drove him into the mountains back of Banning, and there he remained until about two months ago, when he went to Banning, engaged a cottage, and there was joined by his wife.

He was a member of the Royal Arcanum, and a member of the congregation of the First Church of Christ, Scientist. He held membership in the Chamber of Commerce and in the Civic League, and was always deeply interested in the growth and development of Los Angeles.

SANTA BARBARA.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 23.—The Edison Electric Company has notified Forest Supervisor W. N. Slosson of the Santa Barbara reserve that work will be commenced at once on the wagon road to be constructed by the Edison concern along the route of the proposed transmission line from Kern River to Castaic. Starting from the Los Angeles end of the line, the route will follow the Castaic Cañon, and for forty or fifty miles will run through the Santa Barbara reserve. The company agrees to maintain the road in passable condition, and to construct a telephone line which shall be open to the use of the forest rangers and the supervisor. The brush is also to be cleared for a considerable distance on either side of the line, and this will act as a firebreak. Steel towers will be constructed to carry the heavy cables.

The Kern River Company already has a similar line across the Santa Barbara reserve, following San Francisco Cañon. Several months ago a break of a wire set fire to a pole, spread to the brush and was caught just in time to prevent a serious conflagration. The use of steel towers by the Edison Company and the wide fire break is expected to insure against such accidents along this route.

Artesian Wells in Orange County.

According to statistics there are 2722 artesian and pumped wells in the Santa Ana and Anaheim irrigation districts. The enormous drain which they cause on the underground water supply has resulted in a gradual lowering of the water level, and it is still falling. The fall could be checked, however, if the owners of hundreds of artesian wells which flow the year round were forced to keep them capped when not in use. This is a matter of supreme importance, and one on which the Supervisors have no good excuse for not acting. —[Santa Ana Bulletin.

TWELVE CARS IN SMASH.

MUCH FREIGHT IN A WRECK NEAR CORONA.

Loose Wheel or Broken Axle, It Is Supposed, Causes the Damage—One Man En Route With Car of Household Goods Has Narrow Escape. Noise Heard Afar.

CORONA, Jan. 22.—The worst freight wreck known in this division for years occurred on the Santa Fé early this morning at the shipping station of May, formerly known as Alvord, four miles northeast of Corona. It is supposed that a loose car wheel or a broken axle caused it.

The train was an extra freight running from San Bernardino to Los Angeles and was in charge of Conductor William Sturgeon, George Hughes, engineer, and E. C. Clark, fireman.

Of the forty-eight cars, twelve in the center of the train are a complete wreck. Their contents of household goods and merchandise were scattered about. A tank of linseed oil which was telescoped into the wreckage and broken open made a general mix-up with flour, soap and furniture.

The engine and fifteen cars ahead of the wreck kept the track, while back of the dozen demolished box cars the rest of the train of twenty-one cars remained intact on the track.

Five or six hundred feet of track extending the length of the wrecked cars is twisted far to one side of the roadbed. The fearful force expended in the concussion of the telescoped cars is shown by the twisted rails into which car trucks and railroad ties are firmly wedged, while from the pile of wreckage a broken car axle protrudes. One rail was bent like a rainbow.

Several of the cars which left the track are either broken completely in two or else run into the mud and tipped over but keep their shape, although badly wrenched. One empty oil tank stands nearly upright in the wreckage, while a box car rests crossways on the top of two telescoped cars.

The train was going down grade at about twenty-five miles an hour and when but 100 yards from the station it is believed a loose car wheel or the broken axle caused the accident.

A shoofly track built around the wreck opened the road for traffic late this afternoon.

The only passenger on the train was William St. Myer, en route from Alexander, Ind., to San Diego with a carload of household effects and a horse belonging to an Indiana woman who is moving to California.

St. Myer said he had been out fourteen days and until last night his car was in the center of the train. Last night for some unknown reason, the car was transferred to a position farther forward. This meant little to St. Myer at the time, but today he realizes had that move not been made he would now be a corpse in the débris.

Mr. St. Myer was asleep on the goods near the top of the car when the accident occurred and he was aroused by being shaken about and by a prolonged sound of crushing. As soon as he could, he climbed out to find his car just four ahead of the wreck.

The thunderous noise of the accident was heard in Corona.

A wrecking train was sent out from San Bernardino and with it went Division Superintendent Hitchcock. The telegraph wires were tapped and a temporary station set up to communicate with division headquarters. Many visitors are going to the scene of the wreck. Some are bringing away broken sacks of flour.

RIVERSIDE.

BRIDE OF THREE DAYS PARTED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Abducted from Whittier, deserted within three days of her marriage and left to the tender mercies of a big city is the short meter of the story of Wrenn Cunningham.

On December 30, Joseph Young, a man of 30 giving his residence as Fallbrook, Cal., appeared at the County Clerk's office here with Wrenn Cunningham, a buxom girl who gave her age as 18.

A license was issued after the close of office hours by County Clerk Phelps. The couple then went before Judge Noyes and were married. Young took his bride to Los Angeles the same day. Within three days he is alleged to have deserted her and left her a vagrant on the town. The Whittier authorities did not discover the whereabouts of the girl until she was seen soliciting men on the streets of Los Angeles.

They then investigated the case and discovered the facts as alleged. Deputy Warden Connors of Whittier was here today and thus the pitiable story leaked out. Young raised a ladder to the girl's window on December 29, got her to elope with him and then followed the rest of the story. The officers say they know where to find him. The man will be prosecuted on a charge of abduction of a ward of the State and, as the girl is not yet 18, he can hardly shield himself from the consequences of his act by his subsequent marriage.

CHAMBER GETS HIM NOT.

Thomas J. Flaherty was today elected secretary of the Chamber of Commerce vice George L. Winterbotham resigned. He beat his competitor O. L. Moorman by two votes. His salary was fixed by the Chamber of Commerce at $100 per month, an increase of $25. After this action by the Chamber of Commerce the board of City Trustees held a secret meeting and voted to increase Flaherty's salary as collector for the city electric light plant on condition that he would resign from the secretaryship of the Chamber of Commerce and also desist from his candidacy for the city treasuryship at the election next April. These agreements were made by Flaherty, and the Chamber of Commerce will have to elect another man at their next meeting. George L. Winterbotham will serve until February 1, as secretary pro tem of the Chamber.

RIVERSIDE JOTTINGS.

The Puritan Chorus sold every seat in the house for the performance of the Ameer given tonight, and the theater is likewise sold out for the appearance tomorrow night.

The Board of City Trustees today passed to its second reading and ordinance accepting the gift of two city blocks from Samuel C. Evans, Jr., to be perpetually dedicated as a park and playground for school children. A committee was also appointed to investigate the objections of Mrs. Irving to the location of the park in her neighborhood.

MOTOR CAR DERAILED.

One of the Union Pacific type of motor cars for use in interurban traffic running out of Los Angeles was derailed here today while en route for that city. The motor car came over the Salt Lake road. The derailment was not a serious one and the car was soon restored to the rails.

SANTA ANA.

CHICAGOANS ENTERTAINED.

SANTA ANA, Jan. 23.—The delegates of the Chicago Commercial Association who are touring Southern California in the interest of Chicago trade, arrived here this morning from San Diego. At 5 o'clock a reception committee from the Santa Ana Merchants' Association and Chamber of Commerce went to the cars and escorted the Chicagoans up town, taking them to the Chamber of Commerce rooms, where for an hour they were given an informal reception, meeting business men and citizens.

John McFadden, president of the local association, introduced W. H. Thompson, chairman of the Chicago delegation, who expressed the appreciation which he and his comrades felt over the welcome accorded them. John P. Mann, another of the visitors, followed with statements as to the purposes of the trip. H. C. Staver of the Staver Carriage Company, also spoke.

In response to the words of the Chicagoans, brief speeches were made by President F. P. Nickey of the Chamber of Commerce, by William H. S. Furgeon, John Beatty, J. A. Hankey and R. H. Sanborn.

At 9 o'clock automobiles were provided for a trip about the "kite" track, through Tustin, El Modena, Orange and back to Santa Ana. The party left for Los Angeles just before noon.

SANTA ANA BRIEFS.

The Monday Club last night discussed patent medicines. Dr. John Wehrly presented the evening's paper, giving analyses of some of the common medicines.

Mrs. Livingston Mims, Atlanta, Ga., member of the International Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, spoke at the Grand Operahouse last night.

G. B. Hemphill, a real estate broker of Orange, began suit today to secure a commission from W. P. Cornwall of Anaheim for selling a $7300 ranch for the latter. Cornwall paid $32, it is alleged. Hemphill claims $178.50 more.

A compromise, whereby the creditors of Edward M. Kraemer, insolvent, secure $874 in place of the original $2400 asked for, was effected today in the action brought by Henry Adams of Anaheim, trustee, against Kraemer and his brother-in-law, Gus Neipp. The creditors alleged that after filing a petition in voluntary insolvency, Kraemer turned over to his brother-in-law personal effects valued at $2400.

Julius G. Pegel of Anaheim filed suit today for divorce from Elsie Pegel.

With the aid of a delegation of sixty Native Sons from Los Angeles, the local parlor installed new officers at Elks' Hall last night. Installation work was done by District Deputy Grand President A. M. Kremer of Los Angeles. A banquet was served by the Santa Ana parlor.

A hundred indigents who secure part or all of their sustenance from the county, gathered at the Courthouse today for the annual round-up, in response to a call from the Board of Supervisors to show cause why they should not have their allowances cut off. In nearly all cases the allowances were continued for another year.

NEWPORT.

IMPROVEMENTS AT BALBOA.

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 22.—The Newport Bay Investment Company has made some extensive improvements on the Balboa tract, situated two miles east of Newport Beach. One of the most striking of them is the new pavilion, a two-story structure built upon the bay side of the tract. The four walls of windows extend clear around the pavilion, giving one a fine view of Newport Bay on one side, the town of Newport on the other, while looking south Corona Del Mar is seen. The pavilion is built upon 160 piles which support the whole structure. These piles are coated with a three-inch shell of cement stone used to protect the wood from the teredo and barnacles. Around this pavilion are constructed slips for boats and launches resembling, on a small scale, the slips in San Francisco, where the ferry boats dock. This pavilion cost $13,000. There have been twelve handsome cottages erected on the tract in the past six months and twenty more will follow in a few weeks.

Another improvement is the bulkhead 4000 feet in length and a good sidewalk of the same length along the entire ocean front of the tract. This has been completed at a cost of $3000.

ANAHEIM.

FORTUNE IN PEPPERS.

ANAHEIM, Jan. 22.—Three carloads of chile peppers have been shipped from Anaheim the past week, having moved at 1½ cents a pound, or $30 for a large sized sack. A local bank official has looked up the pepper sales for this season and has the estimate of those to move. He says the Anaheim crop will sell for more than $100,000. Other shipments during the past few days were two cars of canned goods and two of hay.

ANAHEIM ACTIVITIES.

A farewell party was given last night in honor of the Misses Griffin, who are to move to Corona with the family.

The following passengers left today for the East: Mr. Talbert and family, to Cason, Tex.; C. Simons, to Denver; E. Crawford, to Seattle, Wash.; M. Gilbert, Goshen, Ind.; Ed Burton and wife, to Caldwell, Kan.

J. L. Bushard and family are new arrivals from New Ulm, Minn., having purchased city property.

A call has been issued for the annual meeting of stockholders of the Anaheim Union Water Company, on January 27. There are 8000 shares of stock outstanding. It is believed no quorum will be present, and no interest is taken in the election.

Miss Minnie Bentz has begun the erection of a two-story eight-room residence on Center street, to cost $2500.

Cashier Boege of the German-American Bank has purchased a lot on West Center street and will at once erect a modern residence.

F. I. Judd of Batavia, N. Y., is a guest of Geo. Dutton and family.

E. Michod has gone to Lower California on a month's hunting trip.

Sheriff Correll arrived here this morning from Washington County, Kan., and left on the first eastbound Southern Pacific train with Ed Mantz, charged with incest. Mantz says he is guilty. He accompanied the officer without protest.

ANÆMIA CAN BE CURED

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make New Blood and Strike Straight at the Root of Disease.

Anæmia is just the doctor's name for bloodlessness. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood. They cure anæmia just as food cures hunger. They cured Mrs. Thos. J. McGann, of 17 Lincoln Place, Plainfield, N.J., and they can do as much for any other pale, weak, ailing, bloodless person.

"In the spring of 1902 I did my usual house cleaning," says Mrs. McGann, "and soon afterward I began to have the most terrible headaches. My heart would beat so irregularly that it was painful and there came a morning when I could not get up. My doctor said I had anæmia and he was surprised that I had continued to live in the condition I was in. I was confined to my bed for nearly two months, the doctor coming every day for the first few weeks, but I did not improve to amount to anything.

"Altogether I was sick for nearly two years. I was as weak as a rag, had headaches, irregular heart beats, loss of appetite, cramps in the limbs and was unable to get a good night's sleep. My legs and feet were so swollen that I feared they would burst.

"One day, while I was wondering how long I could live, feeling as I did, I received a booklet telling about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I read it and told my husband to get me some of the pills. Before the first box was gone I felt a change for the better. I have taken about twelve boxes and although I was as near the grave as I could be, I now feel as if I had a new lease of life. I have no more headache, the heart beats regularly, my cheeks are pink and I feel ten years younger. I feel that I have been cured very cheaply and I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to lots of my friends."

This association has done much for school patriotism.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY IN SIGHT?

There is a well authenticated report that Andrew Carnegie has granted Ontario $15,000 for a public library building, a well-known firm of New York architects having advised City Clerk Jesson that they were requested by Mr. Carnegie to write and ask permission to submit plans for the building.

LIQUOR LAW PETITION.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 22.—The Anti-Saloon League has secured the necessary 7 per cent. of the voters for Mayor at the last municipal election, for submitting the Goldcamp and Kelly liquor laws to the people, in an effort to render void the action of the City Council. The petition for a referendum election was filed with the City Clerk today. The league is also behind a movement for the recall of Councilman George McNeill of the Fifth Ward, who has not acted in accordance with the wishes of the league in pending ordinances regulating the liquor traffic.

CHARGE DOESN'T STICK.

Mrs. Nellie Likens has failed to make her charge of conspiracy against her former husband, Willis L. Likens, stick. Likens was ordered to pay a certain amount of alimony to Mrs. Likens upon the granting of the divorce, but he says that he has been unable to do it. So Mrs. Likens petitioned the Superior Court for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of Likens's estate, and cited him to answer in court for contempt. J. M. Green of Los Angeles, who had loaned Likens money, about the time the divorce was granted, secured judgment in the Los Angeles courts for the amount of his claims, thus rendering Likens without funds. Mrs. Likens claimed that this was a part of a conspiracy. The petition was denied and the contempt proceedings were dismissed.

Contracted Disorders
Are cured by us. Every patient coming to us consults no one but Dr. Harrison or his associate, both regular physicians. Each and every man coming to us for consultation has his case carefully and understandingly looked into. Every case we treat receives our personal attention.

Important
A would-be specialist who publishes a cheap fee will certainly do cheap work and make extra charges for every dose of medicine. He will charge another extra fee for each symptom of one disease. He will neglect his patients after he has collected the cheap fee and give his attention exclusively to getting fees from others. We always make a thorough and searching examination of our patients FREE of charge, then tell him what our charges will be for a cure with no charges for medicine.

"Weakness"
Affections of men commonly described as "weakness," according to our observations, are not such, but depend upon reflex disturbances, and are almost invariably induced or maintained by appreciable damage to the prostate gland. At this may not be perceived by the patient, it is very frequently overlooked by the physician. If you come to us we give you consultation free and truthfully tell you if you can be cured.

...MYSTERY MAN MISSING.

...A peculiar and mysterious case of ...disappearance in Pasadena came to ...light last night. John Harvey, a ...guest of the Maryland Hotel, dropped ...out last Friday morning and ...all trace of him has been ...lost. Last night a reward of ...$100 was offered for any information ...leading to the discovery of his whereabouts.

...Harvey is a wealthy man whose ...home is in Denver, Colo., and his business ...interests are in Lordville. With ...his wife and daughter he came to ...Pasadena a month ago and engaged ...rooms at the Maryland. He has lived here quietly, ...has not, and so far as is known ...has not the slightest thing to ...worry him. He left his wife Friday ...morning to go to his breakfast, was ...seen in the hotel a few hours later, ...and disappeared. Mrs. Harvey ...fears foul play ...

...Harvey was placed in the hands of ...Detective Burns, who conducts a private ...detective agency here, and widespread ...efforts have been vainly made ...throughout Southern California to find the ...missing man.

...It is not a chance that Mr. Harvey's ...friends have suddenly become ...alarmed, although he had never shown ...any symptoms of this. He is not a ...drinking man and his domestic life is ...said to have been very happy. He ...is a strong fine years old, of fine ...appearance, 5 feet 5 inches in height, ...weighs 125 pounds, and wears ...a full beard slightly tinged ...with gray. On the right side of the ...chin is a small white spot. He ...wore a dark suit, a black Fedora hat and turn-down collar. He also ...wears a second degree Masonic ...pin and Scottish Rite ring.

...WHY HE CAME WEST.

...A special dispatch from Pittsburgh, ...Pa., has an explanation of the mysterious ...disappearance of the sudden departure ...from that city of Israel W. Durbin, ...in the absence from Harrisburg ...of Senator James P. McNicholl ...Thursday yesterday in the declaration ...of unusual arrests in the ...Pittsburg fraud contracts ...have been made in the near future.

...Durbin and McNichol, partners ...in contracting firm, the report ...that the names of ex-Chief John ...Bonner, Architect Shaddock and ...others of the Department of Public ...Works and others more or less ...prominent in the recent developments ...regarding the Philadelphia ...scandals was practically confirmed ...when connected with the prosecution. ...It is known that the arrests ...will be on warrants ...issued by the grand jury ...for the purpose of ...securing testimony to defraud the ...city of huge sums in the construction ...of the Torresdale filtration project. ...It was the day before he left Philadelphia ...that Mr. Durbin's former political following ...in Pittsburg sent word to his former ...friends here to get ...in touch with the party in ...Pittsburg. It is ...admitted he was ...a defeated boss and he likely ...will get a tip on something ...to happen next week.

...MIDDY'S ARREST.

...Special dispatches yesterday ...announced the arrest of Midshipman ...Chapin of Annapolis on a ...charge of having caused much surprise ...among the Midshipman Chapin ...is the son of Leo P. Chapin, editor of ...the Evening News, and the ...family is well known here. ...Chapin is a graduate of the Pasadena ...High School.

...It is not even known that ...Midshipman Chapin was implicated in ...the upper-class hazing, as his name ...has not been mentioned in any of the ...newspaper stories. Mr. Chapin, his ...father, is preparing to go to Annapolis ...to see that the young middy is not ...left alone in his troubles. Congressman McLachlan is an intimate friend ...of the Chapin family, and he, too, may ...try to see that he is not left without ...advice in the matter.

COULDN'T GET WATER.

Chris Clauden presented an affidavit to the City Council at its meeting yesterday afternoon, stating that the Lake Vineyard Water Company had failed to connect his home at No. 581 North El Molino avenue with the company's mains, though he had paid for the connection. The Council placed the affidavit on file. Mr. Clauden's difficulty in procuring water arises out of a recent ordinance passed by the Council, which provides that the water companies must give bonds and pay for all permits to dig in the streets. The company has just given its bond, though for a long time it failed or refused to do so. It is understood that the company was advised by its attorneys that the city has no right to make charge for permits, but rather than fight the matter in the courts the water company has yielded, and probably Mr. Clauden will soon get the water he needs and demands.

ELABORATE LUNCHEON.

Mrs. William Parks of North Grand avenue was the hostess yesterday at one of the most elaborately-appointed luncheons of the winter. Three tables were arranged and the flowers used were yellow hollyhocks, Parma violets and white stock combined with ferns. The flowers were arranged in silver baskets embellished with yellow bows of tulle. After the luncheon the guests were entertained with music, Miss Gertrude Roberts contributing several vocal numbers. Those enjoying Mrs. Parks's hospitality were Mmes. Charles Burton Scoville, H. Page Warden, Fred Elmer Wilcox, R. I. Rogers, A. S. Halsted, W. E. Gratiah, Frank Emery, Mortimer Henderson, Robert Rowan, Misses Lindovici, Edith Rowland, Marion Armstrong and several others.

HER FUNERAL TODAY.

Mrs. Roger Sherman Day, who died at her home at Palo Alto Friday, will be buried in Pasadena today. The funeral will be at the First Congregational Church this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Day was very well known in Pasadena and was the daughter of Frank A. Marston of No. 560 East California street, this city. A year ago she was married here, and was one of the popular brides of the season.

A tremendous blast, by the road builders, at Abalone Point, awakened the sleeping town this morning, giving the new arrivals a jar and the impression that the island was being bombarded by a hostile fleet.

SANTA MONICA.

ANNEXATION PETITION FILED.

SANTA MONICA, Jan. 23.—The City Trustees last night received the petition asking that an election be called for the purpose of annexing to the city the Palisades tract and other territory to the north and along the cañon. The City Attorney and Clerk were authorized to take the necessary steps to bring the matter properly before the Board of Supervisors.

Tomorrow Mrs. L. F. DooDittle, diocesan president of the Daughters of the King, will visit Santa Monica and at a meeting to be held in the Episcopal Church will endeavor to organize a chapter of the Daughters.

Work was commenced this morning in Irwin Heights on houses for Fred Richards and F. A. Gayman of Los Angeles. Both homes are to be on Twenty-second street.

A couple of months ago an edition of 10,000 copies of a booklet descriptive of the resources and advantages of Santa Monica was issued for circulation in the East and North. One family has already arrived from Maine and will reside here, called to the West by this herald. A few days ago a second booklet was issued and is being circulated and this week photographers are taking views for two other editions that are soon to follow.

"SAFEGUARD" SAN PEDRO.

HARBOR CITY TRUSTEES PASS ONE RESOLUTION.

After Lengthy Discussion They Instruct the City Attorney to Prepare and Present an Ordinance, Such as Shall Perpetuate the Interests of the Seaport Town.

SAN PEDRO, Jan. 23.—The proposition of Lieut. Randolph Miner and associates to occupy the outer harbor of San Pedro and fill in 153 acres there came before the Board of City Trustees in regular session tonight.

Much local interest has been manifested in the proposition, which has been indorsed by the local Chamber of Commerce, and by a committee of ten citizens appointed by a large mass meeting held last week. When the Board of Trustees convened tonight the City Hall was crowded. Lieut. Miner, Attorney George Denis and Engineer Gervais Purcell, representing the syndicate, were in attendance. The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce was represented by Assistant Secretary Gurley. Mr. Gurley addressed the board, stating that the Los Angeles chamber had examined the matter carefully and had no objection to the granting of the concession if it should be safeguarded in every particular, and that the Los Angeles Chamber would offer the assistance of its attorneys to make it a free harbor in perpetuity.

Chairman W. H. Savage of the Citizens' Committee vigorously advocated the granting the concessions asked for by Lieut. Miner and his syndicate, pointing out the advantage to be gained by the city in so doing.

Judge J. V. B. Goodrich and City Clerk Stieglitz spoke favorably upon the application.

After a lengthy discussion of the question the board adopted a resolution instructing the City Attorney to introduce as soon as may be, in connection with the attorneys for the syndicate and for the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, an ordinance such as may perpetuate and safeguard the interests of San Pedro.

PINCH ON A CONTRACTOR.

TROUBLE FOR BUILDER OF LONG BEACH AUDITORIUM.

Structure Was Put Within the Estimated Cost, but Man Who Did the Work is Said to Have Lost Money. Hope to Restore Him to Sound Footing.

LONG BEACH, Jan. 23.—The magnificent new $40,000 auditorium, which is the pride of Long Beach and which has involved two of the City Trustees in an unsavory mess, is again to the front with another sensation, the failure of George Beard, the contractor who built it within the estimated cost and lost a considerable sum on the job. Added to this the bond fund was exhausted and the last payment due him was held up until funds could be divested from other channels to pay him. Pressed for money with his heaviest creditors clamoring for a settlement, Capt. S. L. Strickland, acting for Mr. Beard, who is in the mountains seeking rest and health, finally assigned all property and claims to A. M. Goodhue, representing lumber companies.

No estimate of the liabilities is given out, but it is stated that when present entanglements are straightened he will be on his feet once more. At present Beard has under construction the new $30,000 Pine-avenue school, which, however, will be completed by the assignee under agreement.

LONG BEACH BRIEFS.

The meeting of the City Trustees Monday was attended by all the trustees. Nothing of a sensational nature was developed, except an amazing transition of Eno, as presiding officer from as easy, mild mannered official to a crabby, snappy official, who criticised the City Clerk and treasurer for fancied errors and censured a local attorney who addressed the board on the subject of dismissing officer Folsom, on charges long since buried in committee.

"We are in trouble enough is city affairs," said Eno, "without stirring up old sores and if this is thought to be aiding me, I want it stopped."

It looked to the uninitiated as if the president had a bad case of indigestion or a bilious attack.

Robert and Gordon Mead, young men 21 and 25 years of age, were arrested in Pasadena today and brought to Long Beach on a charge of larceny. Their alleged crime savors also of base ingratitude. Mrs. George R. Colton gave them a small shack to live in and to the meager furnishings added a blanket, pillows, sheets and a gasoline stove. A week ago they disappeared and these articles are also missing. Mrs. Colton says they sold them. She swore out a complaint charging them with larceny. Both were held to appear for trial February 1.

Edward Bushnell and Miss Bessie La Delle went to Los Angeles by different routes yesterday and were quietly married, but their secret leaked out, and the friends of the young couple last night paid a visit to the business house of the groom on the Pike and, by choice decorations of ribbon, old shoes and a plentiful supply of rice, conveyed to the most obtuse passerby that there was something unusual happening. Numerous signs of a congratulatory nature festoon the building and, thus decorated, the store awaits the return of the owner.

The Long Beach Chamber of Commerce has asked the City Trustees to take the necessary legal steps leading up to the election of a board of freeholders and the drafting and adopting of a special city charter. There was also submitted to the Trustees a suggestion that the city take the necessary steps to adopt the fourth-class charter as provided by the Legislature. Both measures were referred to the Ordinance and Judiciary Committee.

Coroner Trout yesterday held an inquest on the body of Miss Mary Griswold, the deaf mute killed Sunday by a street car. Testimony of two eyewitnesses indicated that Motorman Harover had done all in his power to avert the tragedy and a verdict of accidental death was returned and the car crew was exonerated.

Since January 4 the big dredger at work on the Long Beach inner harbor has ploughed its way northward 400 feet. Work at first was impeded by the impossibility of the cutter having full sweep along the bottom. This has been overcome and the dredger is working night and day.

The Ebell has appointed a committee of five to confer with the City Council and Chamber of Commerce to devise ways to raise funds for the support of the Donatelli Band.

Frederick Warde lectured tonight at the Tabernacle on Shakespeare. After the lecture the local B.P.O.E. tendered the eminent tragedian a reception and banquet at Plymouth Congregational chapel.

Jerry Faulkner has been selected as engineer of the new fire steamer and John Richardson, Al Hitchcock and Jay Taylor as drivers in the fire department.

Horace V. Goodrich of Pendleton, Ind. has been elected assistant cashier of the State Bank of Long Beach. He comes direct from the Continental National Bank of Chicago.

Officers at 2 o'clock this morning found two Mexicans asleep in the Salt Lake station and almost unconscious from cold. They were charged with vagrancy but, telling a straight story, were discharged by Justice Brayton.

Property owners along the beach from Alamitos to Golden have signified their intention to build an asphalt pavement fifty feet wide along the ocean front, with a cement bulkhead on the south side.

Joseph Cisco, employed on the construction work at Naples, this morning had his hand caught under the trip hammer of a pile driver and three fingers crushed to a pulp, probably necessitating amputation.

ORANGE GROVE SELLS.

GLENDORA, Jan. 23.—J. W. Trostle has sold his orange and lemon ranch, containing fourteen acres, improved, one-half miles southwest of Glendora, to Urias M. Netzly, a recent arrival from Nebraska; consideration named, $15,000.

J. L. Foot has let the contract for a six-room house to be built on Minnehaha avenue.

"Hotel del Coronado" has the crowds.

OCEAN PARK.

CITY CAMPAIGN WARMS UP.

OCEAN PARK, Jan. 23.—As interest is already growing tense in the approaching municipal election in April, there is considerable speculation as to who will be eligible voters in the glad springtime. Local politicians are greatly perturbed by the statement of the County Clerk, who is quoted as having announced that only those whose names were on the old great register would be entitled to express their preference at the polls. This construction of the statute would bar a large number of people who have resided on the beach for a long time. Those whose names are not on the great register but who are eligible now to register look upon the above construction of the law as an injustice. A legal interpretation of the act will be secured to the end that those who would be entitled to a vote if they were registered may exercise their rights of franchise in April.

The organization of a local Board of Trade is proposed and it is probable a meeting with that object in view will be held at an early day.

When the City Trustees met last night the Abbot Kinney Company tendered a deed to the city dedicating all of the streets, highways, byways and speedways of Venice. The canals alone are excepted.

THE PALMS.

MAN GORED BY BULL.

THE PALMS, Jan. 23.—George B. Sharnock is suffering from several severe strains and bruises sustained in an encounter with an infuriated bull. The injured man no doubt owes his life to the facility with which he feigned the sleep that knows no waking. The bull, which had not heretofore been considered dangerous, was peacefully grazing in the pasture through which Sharnock was walking. Unaware the animal made a desperate charge upon him, catching the defenseless and surprised man on the horns and tossing him into the air. After Sharnock fell he was stamped and gored and left for dead. The bovine walked leisurely away with his head in the air, and when he had proceeded a generous distance the wounded man struggled to his feet and clambered over a friendly fence before the animal was given an opportunity to renew warlike operations.

The injured man, who is a brother of Mr. Sharnock, the Los Angeles millionaire, will be confined to the house for a week or two as a result of his inability to outrun the bull.

DEATH OF MRS. RAMIREZ.

Mrs. Isadora Ramirez died during last night at the family home on the hill. She had been a resident of this place for ten years and had been a sufferer from asthma for many years, having been bedfast for five months. She was 67 years of age and the wife of Thomas Ramirez. Her body was taken to Santa Monica, where it was viewed yesterday by Coroner Trout, who signed a death certificate.

SIGHT-SEEING BEAVERS.

How Oregonians Spent Yesterday—Today's Mt. Lowe Trip Ends Programme.

The Oregonians visited San Gabriel Mission yesterday, taking in Pasadena and the Ostrich Farm on the return trip. Although the party has broken up and a number of them have already left for home, nearly 150 made the trip.

The party left here at 9:40 by special cars and went direct to the mission, where they stopped long enough to visit the old church and cemetery. From San Gabriel they went to Pasadena, where luncheon was served at the Hotel Green. After lunch those members who cared to see the city were given an opportunity to look around and nearly all took advantage of the chance.

After spending two hours in Pasadena the visitors went to the Hotel Raymond. There they took possession of the hotel parlor and passed resolutions thanking the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the people of Southern California in general for the kind and hospitable treatment which they have been accorded.

From the Raymond the party went to the Ostrich Farm, where they loaded up with plumes and other souvenirs of Southern California. The visitors were very much interested in the great birds and in the description of ostrich culture, which the attendants gave.

Representatives of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce accompanied the visitors on the trip and made arrangements for their entertainment on the way.

Gov. Chamberlain of Oregon did not accompany the party to San Gabriel, having departed for Salt Lake City.

Today the party will visit Mt. Lowe. This trip will end the tour of sightseeing.

Heart Weakness
The action of the heart depends upon the heart nerves and muscles. When from any cause they become weak or exhausted, and fail to furnish sufficient power, the heart flutters, palpitates, skips beats, and in its effort to keep up its work, causes pain and distress, such as smothering spells, short breath, fainting, pain around heart, arm and shoulders. The circulation is impeded, and the entire system suffers from lack of nourishment.
Dr. Miles' Heart Cure makes a heart strong and vigorous by strengthening these nerves and muscles.
"I had palpitation and pain around my heart, and the doctors said it was incurable, I didn't believe it, until after taking six bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, three bottles of the Nerve and Liver Pills and three bottles of the Blood Purifier that I began to feel better, and I have taken no more medicine since, and it is all due to these remedies. I want you to know that your medicine cured me. It relieved me from the worst illness and I have right to praise in my chest side, arms, and I have no feeling better even after I quit taking it." JOHN H. SHERMAN, Building, Minn.
Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold on our guarantee, which will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails we will refund your money.

This question is asked of us very frequently: Why is it that stomach trouble is so difficult to cure?
Our answer is, that too many medicines are given, that only relieve the symptoms of stomach trouble, like pepsin and its different compounds, or soda and the different alkalies. These aid digestion by neutralize an acid condition, but only at the time when taken.
What is necessary, is to cure the cause. We have seen sufferers take pounds and pounds of such medicines, and their stomach would gradually get worse.

Nau's Dyspepsia Cure
subdues the local inflammation due from a deranged stomach, which causes a catarrhal condition and which in turn prevents the proper flow of the gastric juice causing all kinds of stomach trouble.
NAU'S DYSPEPSIA CURE
is curing hundreds of old cases, supposed to be incurable, cases of 10 to 20 years standing.
"I derived the greatest possible benefit from the use of Nau's Dyspepsia Cure. I began the use of it, I think, in February last, at a time when it seemed as if I should have to give up trying to get well, but obtained almost immediate relief. You certainly have my everlasting gratitude for furnishing me with a remedy that relieved me of the great suffering I was ever compelled to endure. Regarding the parties to whom I recommended Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, a chronic dyspeptic found equally, or nearly as good results as I did; and another, whose difficulty was in the early stages, obtained immediate and lasting relief."

Local bank clearings yesterday were a full average at $1,694,629.32, $275,000 more than for the corresponding day a year ago and more than 100 per cent. advance over two years ago.

Money on call in New York ruled easy at 4½. Stocks were firm and active.

Cotton declined on the London market 1 point. The New Orleans ginners' report showed 9,398,000 bales ginned to January 15. The market on cotton in America was a little lower.

Breadstuffs ruled irregularly within very narrow limits, the changes in corn being considerably less than in wheat.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

In the local produce market yesterday, prices for all commodities were firm and unchanged with the exception of local ranch eggs, which dropped 1 cent on the official quotation, and conservative egg jobbers state that further declines are looked for daily, owing to the increased receipts, the total for yesterday being 239 cases. The eastern eggs that arrived last week are about cleaned up, only eight cases remaining unsold.

Values of butter continue in good demand with prices firm. There is a good market for cheese and fancy lines are held at steady quotations.

Trade in fresh fruits on local account was very active, apples sold well at unaltered prices, while navel oranges have increased so in demand that fruit jobbers have great difficulty in securing supplies to meet the day's requirements. Strawberries are very scarce, and bring high prices for the choice selections.

The tomato market is very firm on the fancy stocks, but continues weak and uninteresting with the poorer grades. Onions were also easy under a slow trade and free supplies. Sweet potatoes were as previously quoted with trade limited mainly to jobbing lots.

The miscellaneous kinds of vegetables are being brought in by the Chinese gardeners in vast quantities, for tomorrow the Chinese New Years festivities begin and continue for three days, during which time they bring in no market produce whatever, and indications stats that higher prices are likely to rule on that account. The Chinese huckster will be absent during the remainder of the week, for he will be celebrating.

Fish, lobsters and crabs were scarce, while wild game was equal to the demand.

Transactions on the exchange yesterday were as follows: Twenty cases local ranch eggs; 3 cases northern cheese; 1000 boxes fancy C-brands Wineapple apples.

The wire receipts of produce as reported at yesterday's exchange were as follows: Eggs, 228 cases; butter, 12,000 lbs.; cheese, 5182 lbs.; potatoes, 2924 sacks; onions, 800 sacks; beans, none; sweet potatoes, 219 sacks.

NEW YORK MARKETS.
SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The mixed operations of new speculative issues in the stock market and the heavy selling to realize profits occurred went on side by side today in much the same way as for several days past. But the selling to realize so effectually overbore the new buying as to cause a crumbling of prices. When the bear traders perceived this tendency of things, they attacked the market with great vigor and their raiding tactics caused the concurring of large stop-loss orders. With the reaching of stop-loss orders, declines became quite precipitate and the tone more distinctly reactionary than for a long time past. The secondary liquidation in the past few days, especially that of yesterday, has resulted in a large reduction of the concentrated holdings of stocks in the hands of the organized speculation, which has been able to control with such skill the feeling of the market in a way to save prices from damage. The sale of 307,000 shares was largely given to conjecture concerning the identity of individuals or parties who were doing the principal selling. Conjecture pointed precisely clearly to quarters which have been credited with operations leading to some of the most notable advances of the last few days. It was concluded, therefore, that a purpose to sustain the market against selling to take profits was the motive of these advances rather than any developments regarding the value of the properties. Lack of any news of such developments aggravated the feature of the movements and fostered a conviction that some of the upward spurts of recent days were due to effort to the transfer through the market of stock from one hand to the other, of which the total issues were in practical control already of the operators. The closing of the market was firm and very active, though not easy. Total sales, par value, $4,500,000. United States old is advanced ¼ per cent. on call.

MERRY CLASH ON FREE RIDE.

Salt Lake to Fight for Side Trip to Pasadena.

Wants to Extend Courtesy to Eastern Patrons.

Thinks Rival Backed Move to Bar Privilege.

The Salt Lake road went before the convention of the Transcontinental Passenger Association, just closed at Chicago, with a smile as pleasant as a Riverside sweet orange, and a mild little proposition as gently proposed as the murmuring of the wavelets about its terminal docks at San Pedro.

But the convention of passenger men assembled in the bleak windy city sat promptly and squarely down on the proposition of the Clarkites to promulgate a circular providing for a free side trip from Los Angeles to Pasadena to all holders of first class round trip interline and nine months excursion tickets from the East.

In this refusal the Salt Lake believed that it detected the insertion of the lean hand of the Santa Fé, with its practical control of the Pasadena business through its main line gateway. Although the action of the convention in favor of the Salt Lake would have compelled the Southern Pacific to make a like concession in order to meet the competition of the Clark road, it is believed that the proposition was turned down not so much through opposition of the Southern Pacific as through that of the Santa Fé.

The traffic department of the Salt Lake, therefore, has determined to take the matter up again at the next meeting of the convention to be held here in April. If defeat again sits upon their efforts, they declare they will issue the circular of themselves, without the authorization of the passenger association.

Railroad men say it is difficult to see in just what manner the Santa Fé could make reprisals in kind, and the task of getting even may be turned over to the freight department, which on every railroad has ways of its own of putting on the thumbscrews most effectively.

H. T. Greene, chief clerk of the passenger department of the Salt Lake, who put the proposition before the Chicago convention, will return tomorrow and make his report of the proceedings.

WHAT OF GRAHAM?

G. A. Parkyns, assistant general freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, will arrive in San Francisco Friday from his long trip through the Orient on leave of absence.

While it is generally supposed that, his health permitting, Mr. Parkyns will return to his post in this city, his return will develop a situation of considerable interest to local railway men.

To fill the place of Mr. Parkyns during his absence, Thomas A. Graham, assistant general freight and passenger agent, with headquarters at San Francisco, was sent down to Los Angeles. At the same time the man next in line of promotion was appointed to fill the vacant assistant general freight and passenger agency made by Mr. Graham's departure.

Among local traffic men the conviction amounts almost to a certainty that, should Mr. Graham return to San Francisco in the near future, it will be to step into a much higher position already established, or to accept an office which may be created especially for the occasion, and which will be unmistakably a promotion.

M'DONALD GOES UP.

J. C. McDonald, a well known and popular Angeleno, and a graduate of the strict school of the Southern Pacific passenger department, has been appointed assistant general passenger agent of the Mexican Central Railway, with headquarters in Mexico City. McDonald goes to his new position from the post of general agent for the Pacific Coast of that road, with offices in San Francisco.

Six years ago McDonald was in the passenger offices of the Southern Pacific here. He left Los Angeles to take the chief clerkship in the general passenger offices of the Mexican National Railway in Mexico City, and a little more than a year ago went to San Francisco for the Central.

H. Lawton, freight traffic manager of the Central, will arrive today from Mexico City, accompanied by H. C. Archer, who has been promoted to the vacancy of general agent for the Pacific Coast. McDonald arrived in the city yesterday from San Francisco to meet Messrs. Lawton and Archer, and will leave about the first of the month for the South.

BAGGAGE AGENTS COMING.

The members of the American Association of General Baggage Agents indignantly deny the allegation that their meeting here in March is to be for the purpose of dividing up the loot contained in a year's collection of unclaimed baggage.

The Alexandria Hotel will be the headquarters of the trunk smashers for their annual convention opening in Los Angeles March 15. There will be some 125 strong armed wreckers of baggage in earnest convocation for three days.

The handlers of the public's personal effects maintain that their sessions are devoted to ways and means for the better assisting them in transporting and delivering the baggage of travelers whose carelessness, they say, almost passes belief.

The annual convention of the American Association of Transfer Companies probably will be held here at the same time.

RAILROAD NOTES.

T. C. Peck, assistant general passenger agent of the Salt Lake; T. P. Cullen, superintendent of the Los Angeles division, and Walter Comstock, secretary of the company, will leave tonight for Las Vegas for a jaunt up the Las Vegas branch into the mining district.

B. Caldwell of Walla Walla, general freight and passenger agent of the Washington and Columbia Railway, is in the city for a few days.

Garret Fort, assistant general passenger agent of the Union Pacific, left last night over the Salt Lake for his headquarters at Omaha.

J. A. Gill, general agent of the New York Central lines, with headquarters at San Francisco, is making a trip of inspection through the Southern California territory.

William McMurray, assistant general passenger agent of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company formerly manager of the St. Francis at San Francisco, and for years a familiar figure in the passenger department of the Southern Pacific, found time yesterday to slip away from his job of chaperoning the Oregonians about to make a round up of the officez and old friends on Railroad Row.

J. Hobart Moore, famous as one of the reorganizers and chief owners of the Rock Island, will arrive here today in his private car to spend the winter in Southern California.

MILLIONS IN BONDS.

D. AND H. ARRANGES ISSUE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The Delaware and Hudson Company announced last night that the proceeds of the forthcoming issue of $14,000,000 in bonds by the company would be used for the following purposes:

Ten million dollars for cost of the United Traction Company of Albany and a half interest in the Schenectady Railroad; $2,400,000 for new equipment; $1,600,000 for the construction of a cut-off around Wilkesbarre, Pa., to overcome the difficulties of congested tracks and high grades over which business received from the Pennsylvania Railroad at South Wilkesbarre is now being handled.

Picnics to Wright's.

SAN JOSE, Jan. 22.—It is probable that the summer excursion picnics to Sunset Park at Wright's, in the Santa Cruz Mountains, will be discontinued by the Southern Pacific Company. Today a party of railroad officials, consisting of Assistant General Passenger Agent H. R. Judah, Trainmaster E. A. Steinenger, Excursion Manager J. Lilienday, Division Superintendent J. C. Wilder and others, arrived in this city and visited a proposed site for new excursion grounds near Almaden, about seven miles south of here. The reason given for the proposed change is that the immense Saturday and Sunday crowds can be handled with greater ease over the broad-gauge than over the narrow-gauge line to Wright's.

Stilwell Returns from Mexico.

EL PASO (Tex.) Jan. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A. E. Stilwell of Kansas City, president of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad, is in the city today with a party of more than a hundred easterners, prospective investors. This is the sixth similar "pilgrimage" he has managed. He was returning from a trip in Mexico and left today for an inspection of the Texas lines.

MAJ. ATWATER KILLED BY CAR.

STRUCK BY TROLLEY AT THIRD AND MAIN STREETS.

Prominent and Aged Grand Army Man on Way to Meeting of His Comrades Attempts to Cross Thoroughfare and is Knocked Down, Dying an Hour Later.

While endeavoring to cross Main street at Third early last night Maj. F. A. Atwater, aged 76, was struck by a north-bound car of the San Pedro-street line and hurled to the pavement, sustaining injuries from which he died an hour later in the Receiving Hospital.

For years Maj. Atwater had been prominent in the affairs and work of the Grand Army of the Republic, being a member of Stanton Post of this city. He was on his way to attend a gathering of his comrades when he met with the fatal accident.

MAJ. F. A. ATWATER.

The aged man was standing on the west side of Main street, according to eyewitnesses, and after waiting some time for an opportunity to cross, stepped into the street. Cars were approaching from both up and down the street, but he appeared to see only the south-bound car.

Motorman Marion had slowed down his car, which was going north to make the crossing—a particularly bad one—and Atwater appeared oblivious of the fact that the big car was approaching from the south. He dashed in front of it in an effort to get across the street ahead of the south-bound car.

The north-bound car struck him. His head was knocked on the asphalt, fracturing the skull. The motorman reversed and stopped the car before it had gone five feet further. The reversed motors backed up the car and it collided with a Monrovia car following it, breaking the latter car's headlight and causing considerable confusion. The accident occurred at 6:35 o'clock. The car which killed Atwater was No. 214, Conductor P. Gleb in charge.

Maj. Atwater had for a number of years made his home with his son, Dr. H. Gale Atwater of No. 1920 East Fourth street. Dr. Atwater is prominent in medical circles in the city and is a member of the faculties of the Colleges of Medicine and Dentistry of the University of Southern California.

The deceased leaves, beside his son, a widow and two daughters, Mrs. F. E. Gaines of Hines and Mrs. Dr. Kingsbury of Australia. Another son, Dr. E. Paul Atwater of Sidney, Australia, died some time ago.

Maj. Atwater served during the Civil War in the Forty-second Illinois Volunteer Infantry and bore an enviable record as a soldier. Yesterday afternoon, only a short time before his death, he had discovered one of his comrades of the Forty-second whom he had not seen since the close of the war, when the regiment was mustered out. The two veterans had spent several happy hours together.

The body was removed to Bresee's undertaking parlors, where an inquest will be held this morning, and the funeral arrangements will be announced later.

WESTERN PACIFIC GETS DESIRED FRANCHISES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After a spirited fight, last night, before the committee of the whole of Oakland City Council, the Western Pacific Company won its fight for franchise for a terminal crossing the land of the Southern Pacific north of Peralta street slip and for the construction of wharves at the end of the north training wall of the estuary.

The fight of the Southern Pacific was for delay. It was contended that no action should be taken until the Western Pacific had fully revealed all its plans for crossings at First and Third streets, as well as at Peralta-street track. It was further contended that the Council had no authority to grant a franchise across property owned privately.

The attorneys for the Western Pacific pointed out that the policy of the Southern Pacific was to block the Western Pacific at every point, and this was another such effort. The right of way would be determined in court, but franchises were necessary.

By a unanimous vote, the franchises were then recommended for passage.

JAP'S "MORGAN" ON WAY HOME.

HARRIMAN SHOWS MANY COURTESIES TO TAKAHASHI.

Eminent Financier, Who Has Spent a Long Time Abroad, Raising War Loan for His Country, Is Given Special Car Across the Continent by the Railroad Magnate.

Korekiyo Takahashi, Japan's most eminent financier and the man who raised most of the money with which Japan defrayed her war expenses during the recent trouble in the Orient, arrived in the city last evening and is a guest at the Hotel St. Francis, says the San Francisco Chronicle. Mr. Takahashi has come direct from London, where he has been spending most of his time since the start of the Russo-Japanese War. From New York to San Francisco he traveled in great splendor. The private car Texas, one of the most sumptuously appointed belonging to the Southern Pacific Company, was placed at the disposal of the distinguished traveler when he was about to leave New York, and from New Orleans to this city he had a special train. All of this was in obedience to orders from E. H. Harriman. The Southern Pacific president gave directions that Mr. Takahashi was to be shown every possible courtesy while on the lines of the Southern Pacific. Thornwell Fay, vice-president and general manager of the lines embraced in the company's Atlantic system, traveled with the financial agent of the Japanese Emperor from New Orleans to El Paso. E. E. Calvin, vice-president and general manager of the lines west of that point, took charge of the special train and escorted Mr. Takahashi in state to San Francisco.

These attentions to Japan's distinguished financier were responsible for quite a little gossip in local railroad circles yesterday, and some people are wondering if there is any connection between this excess of courtesy on the part of Mr. Harriman and the recently announced negotiations whereby the Toyo Kisen Kaisha is seeking, or is credited with seeking, the purchase of Harriman's Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

Viewed in another light, the attentions shown Mr. Takahashi by Harriman and his agents appear less involved in mystery. Mr. Takahashi floated the several big war loans for Japan. The New York banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. played an important part in the floating of nearly one-half of the various big Japanese bond issues. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. represent the money power behind the Harriman administration. Considering the important financial relations that have existed between Mr. Takahashi and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., together with the reasonable assurance that the future may present opportunities for further profitable relations between the New York banking house and the Japanese financial interests, governmental and otherwise, represented by Mr. Takahashi, the courtesy of a special train across the continent might well be considered a trifling matter.

However these things may be, Mr. Takahashi is too diplomatic to discuss them. He knows nothing of any pending deal between the Pacific Mail and the Toyo Kisen Kaisha. He frankly acknowledges, however, a personal friendship with Mr. Harriman. He said last evening that Mr. Harriman had been very courteous and had provided him with a special train.

"I am very glad to be on my way home at last," said Mr. Takahashi, "for I have been abroad practically two whole years. The floating of the several Japanese war loans kept me in London most of the time, although I spent two months in this country last year.

"The floating of the war loans was attended by extremely satisfactory results, as the public well knows. There were in all five different loans, aggregating £107,000,000, London and New York taking most of the bonds, and the rest going to France and Germany. Japanese bonds are today very popular, and since their issuance they have found their way quite generally throughout Europe.

"Japan has had to pay her own bill of expenses growing out of the war, for she is to collect no indemnity from Russia save the cost of maintaining Russian prisoners, which is, comparatively speaking, a mere trifle. It has been a costly war for Japan, but it has been attended by many satisfactory results, including an assurance of future peace and prosperity in the Far East, and for these Japan can afford to stand the cost."

Mr. Takahashi has been popularly dubbed "the Pierpont Morgan of Japan" on account of his private wealth and wide influence in the financial affairs of the empire. At present and for some years past he has occupied the position of vice-governor of the Bank of Japan. The Bank of Japan is the government's banking institution and its governor and vice-governor are appointed by the government.

EDUCATION.

The family wished to ornament
Their high and cultured station,
And every one save Pa professed
A thirst for education.

Jack went to Pigskin Institute,
The other teams all licking,
But somehow when it came to bills
'Twas Pa who did the kicking.

Clorinda went to cooking school,
Compounding grub amazing,
But somehow when it came to dough
'Twas Pa who did the raising.

Tom to a business college went,
Financial ways divining,
But somehow when it came to checks
'Twas Pa who did the signing.

Kate took a high-toned boarding school
Sharp angles to diminish,
But somehow after she came out
'Twas Pa who saw his finish.

And Pa? He's plodding right along
And hasn't got much knowledge,
In fact, his standing is just this—
A senior in life's college.

CYNIC PHILOSOPHY.

I own a little dog, which, if you pat
Him on the head, will show his teeth and snap;
For flattery he doesn't care a rap.
And, oh, I love my little dog for that;
For when I pat his head he'll never fail
To lick my hand and wag his little tail.
I have a friend (by courtesy) and yet
Although he feeds me taffy all the time

I sicken of it, for I know that I'm
One of a thousand that he tries to pet.
His sweet professions do not seem to strike
Me when I know he treats us all alike.

The moral is, we should know where to stop,
If you would make a friend I should advise
The making of a dozen enemies.
The scattered seeds of kindness raise no crop.
It's selfishness; but then we all are bound
To be the only poodle in the pound.
